Defense Says Sex Is Heart Of Ohio Trial

Judge Rejects Plea By Sheppard Atty. As Jurors Selected

CLEVELAND, Oct. 19 (AP)—The defense heatedly charged today that sex in the person of pretty, young Susan Hayes is the heart of the murder case against Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard.

"Some people consider a sexual crime or sex deviation even worse than murder," said defense Atty. William J. Corrigan in an argument over his examination of prospective jurors.

However, Common Pleas Judge Edward Blythin disagreed and told the lawyer:

No Sex Offense

"Sam Sheppard murdered Marilyn Sheppard, that's the principal question. We're not trying anyone for any sex offense here."

(Inflection of the judge's voice indicated he intended the first sentence as an inquiry rather than a statement of fact.)

"Oh, yes we are," replied Corrigan, his voice rising.

Sheppard, 30, is on trial for his life. He is accused of bludgeoning to death his blonde, pregnant wife, Marilyn, 31, after a love affair with Miss Hayes, 24, a technician who formerly worked with Sheppard in his family's osteopathic hospital just outside Cleveland.

Sheppard has pleaded innocent to murder.

Three jurors had been selected at the end of the second day of the trial. One was selected yesterday. Two were accepted today.

Hayes Star Witness

Corrigan called Miss Hayes the "star witness in the case." She is due to testify later for the state.

Her name was put on the record twice today. The defense was trying to determine if any prospective jurors might be unduly influenced by testimony of adultery between Miss Hayes and Sheppard.

The defense lawyer was questioning the third juror to be seated in the case, Edmund L. Verlinger, 29, a combat veteran and hardware store manager.

"Did you ever hear of Susan Hayes?" asked Corrigan.

"You read it in the papers?" Corrigan continued.

"Yes," Verlinger said.

"Suppose," Corrigan asked, "evidence is produced that the defendant had affairs with another woman, or women, would that produce in you . . . a feeling of ill will towards the defendant that would prejudice you?"

The state objected, and Judge Blythin halted that line of questioning. Protested Corrigan:

"I know that in the evidence they (the state) will bring in testimony on extra - marital relations. . . ."

Have Strong Feelings

Then he argued that some people have very strong feelings on sex aberrations, and considered them worse than murder.

With a wave of his right arm towards the crowded rows of newspaper, radio and television correspondents in the rear of the courtroom, Corrigan demanded:

"What do you suppose all of these people are here for, these reporters. . . .? They're here because there's a sex angle in it. . . ."

Judge Blythin told Corrigan:

"The court is satisfied it is not

KILLS HUSBAND—Mrs. Ruth Ann Newton, 48, was charged with killing her husband, John F. Newton, 50, with a shotgun blast in front of their tavern in Louisville, Ky. Police said she shot him as he prepared to take home a waitress who works at the tavern.

Delegate Says Soviets Seek World Conquest

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 19 (AP)—An American delegate told the U.N. today "we in the United States suspect the Soviet Union of planning world conquest behind their facade of disarmament statements."

Ambassador James J. Wadsworth made the statement in the General Assembly's political Committee with reference to Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky's recent speeches in the disarmament debate. The Soviet bloc termed the speeches conciliatory.

Wadsworth said the Soviet position was unchanged on what he called the all-important question of the powers of any international control organ that might be set up to watch out for violations of any ultimate disarmament treaty.

He said the United States is prepared to accept corrective action on the part of the control organ in the event a violation is found. He added:

"On the other hand, we in the United States suspect the Soviet Union of planning world conquest behind their facade of disarmament statements. Will they take the same steps to reassure the world that we are prepared to take? While Mr. Vishinsky answered 'no,' he kept one ember burning. He suggested that this problem, too, should be worked out in the international convention."

Wadsworth declared Vishinsky still insists "that the really important powers in connection with a disarmament program must be exercised by the Security Council," where the big-power veto, prevails.

"We fail to see," the American delegate asserted, "why the U.S.S.R. objects to thorough and effective international control. If the United States, Britain, France and all the rest of us are willing to subject ourselves to it, what has the Soviet to fear? Are we to assume that she has something to hide—something she doesn't want the world to know?"

Wadsworth gave strong backing to a resolution put before the committee by Canada, Britain, France and the United States. The resolution calls for new secret talks among those four powers and the Soviet Union sitting as a subcommittee of the disarmament commission.

Ives Charges Rival Was In Lease Scandal

Harriman Retorts GOP Statements Are "Slanderous Attack"

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—Sen. Irving M. Ives charged tonight that Averell Harriman, his rival for the governorship, was involved in the mid-1920's in a $250,000 pier lease scandal with Tammany Hall. Harriman denied it.

The Republican said Harriman, Democrat-Liberal nominee, headed a shipping company that paid the money to a corrupt judge in return for leases on two city-owned piers.

"Slanderous Attack"

Harriman retorted that he never paid or knew of any improper payments to anyone in connection "with any pier lease or any other matter."

He, in turn, accused Ives of waging a "slanderous attack on my personal integrity" in a "desperate effort to bolster his faltering campaign."

Ives speech, which had the greatest advance buildup of any so far in the New York state campaign for a successor to retiring Republican Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was telecast and broadcast on a statewide network.

The senator cut short an upstate campaign tour and made a midnight drive from Albany to New York last night with word that he would have an important announcement today.

Amid speculation as to what his next move would be, his office announced at 9 a.m. he would go on the air to reveal a "startling and shocking situation" involving Harriman.

Gist Of Charge

The gist of the charge was that the United American Life with Harriman as its board chairman, paid the quarter million to Kings County Judge W. Bernard Vause in a case widely publicized in newspapers in 1930.

Ives said the line was losing money and that it was able to sell the ships only by providing docking facilities for the purchasers.

"Tammany controlled the docks," said Ives. Tammany Hall is the Manhattan Democratic Organization.

He charged that Harriman's company obtained the leases through payment of the money to Vause.

CIA Should Be Improved

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP) — A special White House study group concluded today that the Central Intelligence Agency can and should be improved in "important areas."

But the group, created by President Eisenhower and headed by famed World War II flyer James A. Doolittle, found that the agency is doing "a creditable job" in view of its relatively short life and rapid expansion.

The CIA was set up after World War II to coordinate United States espionage, counter-espionage and other intelligence activities around the world. Two months ago, Eisenhower secretly appointed Gen. Doolittle to give the President an independent appraisal of highly sensitive agency operations.

Doolittle today submitted to the President a list of recommendations for improving intelligence operations, but they apparently included no sweeping outward changes.

In keeping with the usual secrecy surrounding the CIA, the recommendations were not made public and the White House said Eisenhower had "the only copy in existence."

Man Kills Children, Wife, Brother, Self

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Oct. 19 (AP)—O. L. Pearce, 35, Perry County Soil conservation worker, today killed his wife, his three small children and his brother and then committed suicide.

Perry County Sheriff Dee Hammett identified Pearce's victims as Mrs Avis Pearce, 32, Charles 6, Elaine, 4, Frida, 3, and Lorenzo Pearce, 49.

Lorenzo's body was found at 2:30 p.m., more than two hours after the bodies of the others were discovered in the bedroom of their home, 25 miles southeast of Hattiesburg.

Frenchman Has Dour Smile

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and three ambassadors are mutual in their choice of hats, but French Ambassador Henri Bonnet, at the moment, appears more sad than amused, as his dour smile is unlike the others as they smile at some remark. The diplomats came to the airport yesterday to see Dulles off for Paris talks on arming West Germany. Left to right are Dr. J. H. van Reijen, Netherlands; Dulles; Bonnet; Sir Rogert Makins, Great Britain.

Progress Made In Solution Of Status Of Saar

PARIS, Oct. 19 (AP)—French officials tonight reported some progress was made toward solving the status of the Saar valley. The report came after six hours of conferences between Premier Pierre Mendes-France and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The two statesmen ranged over problems standing in the way of West German sovereignty and rearmament.

A communique issued by the French said in connection with the Saar dispute:

"Some progress was accomplished in the course of this first exchange of views which will be followed by other conversations in the course of the present week as the work of experts advances."

Today's conference was the curtain raiser for a series of big power meetings designed to bring West Germany into a strengthened Brussels alliance and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The Saar is the important issue because the French will not act on German rearmament until some agreement on the Saar valley is reached. The French wish to retain the economic union with the steel and coal-rich Saar. The Germans maintain the valley is part of Germany and want at least greater freedom of trade between Germany and the area. It belonged to Germany before World War II.

French officials would not disclose details of today's negotiations, but it was learned that Adenauer will contact the chiefs of other political parties in Germany before any further meeting with Mendes-France on this subject.

The Saar issue appeared to be the last major hurdle in a crowded timetable which by Saturday morning envisages the signing of agreements to end the Allied occupation of West Germany, restore sovereignty to West Germany, put West Germany and Italy into an expanded Brussels alliance, and add the West Germans to the 14-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The French Premier has stated he will not ask his Parliament to ratify any of these accords until he has a satisfactory Saar settlement in an overall package deal.

Nixon Corrects Mistake In Name

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 19 (AP)—Vice president Richard M. Nixon, here for a political speech, made a mistake in referring to Pennsylvania's Republican gubernatorial candidate, Lloyd H. Wood.

Nixon referred to the candidate as Lloyd Wright. Several voices rose in the audience to correct him. Nixon paused a moment and said:

"Let's put it this way: Lloyd Wood is right for Pennsylvania."

The audience applauded for several seconds.

Nixon Says Security Risks Were Inherited

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19 (AP) — Vice President Nixon said tonight that all but one of more than 150 former State Department employes listed as security risks on grounds of subversive associations or sexual perversion were "inherited from the Acheson regime."

"The other one was a 90-day temporary employe who lost his job the moment that his security check was completed," he said in a speech prepared for a GOP campaign finance dinner. The Republican National Committee paid for televising the address on a Philadelphia station and for filmed telecasts over eight stations in New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Nixon struck out sharply at what he said were "inspired stories to the effect that a great majority" of the 6,926 alleged security risks which the administration says were removed from the government payroll from May 1953 through last June "were hired by this administration, and not by the Truman administration."

He said a "leftwing clique ... also tried to create the impression that the offenses of those discharged were inconsequential," and that Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell "compared them to 'traffic ticket violators'."

To answer that he listed—without names or the agencies involved—the cases of seven former employes "inherited from the previous administration" who he said were active in the Communist Party and its affairs.

Nixon throughout the campaign has been claiming that the Eisenhower administration has been removing "Communists, fellow travelers and other security risks ... not by the hundreds but by the thousands."

Democrats criticized both the figures he gave and the inferences they said he drew from them.

A new compilation announced by the Civil Service Commission Oct. 11 said 6,926 employes quit or were fired up to June 30 with derogatory information in their security files. Grounds for discharge under the program include drunkenness, talkactiveness, criminal record, sexual perversion and other factors in addition to subversive activities and associations.

18,000 Truckers Back To Work

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—More than 18,000 of the 24,000 striking AFL teamsters in the New York area were back at work today and employer resistance to signing contracts on union terms was "folding up like an accordion," the union said.

Only a hard core of embattled trucking firms still refused to give the union the 25-cent an hour wage and welfare increase it demanded.

And this group this afternoon "released" all long distance haulers and Westchester County firms to sign up individually.

Said David Kaplan, chief union economist, "There was nothing to release. The over-the-road carriers have already signed with the union."

Joseph M. Adelizzi, spokesman for the holdout truckers, asserted "this does not mean the end of the strike. We have now created the hard core that's going to continue the strike."

Since the strike started at Friday midnight, affecting 3,500 trucking firms from the tip of Long Island to New York City, north to Poughkeepsie and south to Trenton, N.J., individual employers by the hundreds have flocked to union offices to sign contracts giving the teamsters what they wanted.

President Speaks At Art Ceremony

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—"Freedom of the arts is a basic freedom, one of the pillars of liberty in our land," President Eisenhower said today in a recorded message for the 25th anniversary ceremony of the Museum of Modern Art.

"For our republic to stay free, those among us with the rare gift of artistry must be able freely to use their talent," the President added.

Hazel Damages Affected 23,000 Families In Nation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Hurricane Hazel and its afteraffects brought damage to over 23,000 families in seven states, the Red Cross reported today. It issued this summary:

The hurricane itself—At least 18,000 families affected in the Carolinas, Maryland and Virginia with 1,300 homes totally destroyed and more than 13,000 damaged.

Post-hurricane floods—Losses to 5,400 families in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia with more than 3,000 homes destroyed.

Hall Predicts GOP Victory On Nov. 2

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 19 (AP) — Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said today he is "more confident now than heretofore" that the Republicans will control both houses of the 84th Congress.

Hall, here to address a luncheon of Indiana Republican workers, officials and candidates, told a news conference he expects the GOP to control the House by 15 to 20 seats and the Senate by two after the November election.

Corrigan Feuds With Newspapers

CLEVELAND, Oct. 19 (AP)—Defense Atty. William J. Corrigan has been carrying on a public—although not a private—feud with newspapers reporting the Dr. Samuel Sheppard murder trial.

Today a prospective juror testified that at a certain moment in question he was reading the sports page of a newspaper.

"I find that the sports page is fairly reliable," Corrigan said, with a grin at the press gallery.

Dixon-Yates Pact Would Keep TVA Within Its Area

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP) — A business group said today the proposed Dixon-Yates private power contract "would tend to keep TVA within its own area, and that is what concerns the public power advocates."

The study report, signed by Eugene F. Rinta as director of research, was issued by the Council of State Chambers of Commerce, which represents 31 state and regional chambers.

The study did not discuss actual terms of the proposed contract under which two utility firms headed by Edgar H. Dixon and E. A. Yates would supply privately-produced power to the Tennessee Valley Authority. The Joint Atomic Energy Committee of Congress will hold a public hearing on the contract terms Nov. 4.

But the report said the proposed interchange of power "is common in government and electric company operations" and would meet needs of both the Atomic Energy Commission and the TVA "without entailing the expenditure of over 100 million dollars of the taxpayers' money to serve needs around Memphis."

The two utility companies plan to build a plant at West Memphis, Ark., under contract with the AEC. The privately produced power would be supplied to TVA to meet that agency's growing needs in the Memphis area, in return for TVA power which the AEC buys for its Paducah, Ky., operations.

The estimated annual cost of the revised Dixon-Yates proposal is $20,596,000 compared with $16,884,000 if TVA built a steam plant near Memphis, the study reported.

Of the difference, it said, $1,499,000 represents state and local taxes which TVA would not have to pay and $1,059,000 is the cost of higher interest rates on the borrowed money. The remaining $1,127,000 would go for greater operating and transmission iosts eecause of the greater distance from the present TVA system and from fuel supplies.

Sign Treaty To Withdraw 83,000 Troops

Egyptian Police Are Alerted; Ceremony Ends 72-Year Reign

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 19 (AP) — Under close security guard, British and Egyptian diplomats tonight signed a historic treaty to end Britain's occupation of the Suez Canal zone within 20 months. A proclamation held Egyptian police and armed forces in a state of alert after alleged agents of the Communists and the fanatical Moslem Brotherhood had stoned and wrecked two buses near Cairo.

Officials said the alerting proclamation was merely precautional. They explained the incident that prompted it occurred at a youth rally held in the Giza area near the giant pyramid to celebrate the end of 72 years of British military activity in Egypt. A few persons were reported injured and several were arrested for questioning.

Withdraws 83,000 Troops

The treaty calling for withdrawal of the 83,000 British troops was signed by the Egyptian Premier, Lt. Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, whose army coup dethroned King Farouk Aug. 26, 1952, and Anthony Nutting, British minister of state.

Tonight's ceremony climaxed months of hard bargaining. The signing came 12 weeks after agreement was reached in principle on the broad terms. These include the right of the British to return to the base at any time within the next seven years if an outside power attacks Turkey or any Arab state. The two countries will decide during the seventh year whether they want to extend the treaty.

Even after the troops pull out, British civilian contractors will maintain 13 selected installations under overall Egyptian administration of the canal zone. This arrangement will last for seven years.

Financial Claims Waived

All financial claims to the area are waived by both countries.

Sixteen documents make up the treaty. As the signatures were affixed, representatives of both sides expressed the hope for a new era of friendship between the two countries after years of friction often marked by outbreaks of violence.

The two delegations issued a joint statement saying the treaty was "designed to establish Anglo-Egyptian relations on a new basis of cooperation." The pact was described as a "constructive measure in the cause of peace."

Board Appeals Negro Injunction

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 19 (AP)—The Milford School Board today appealed to the Delaware Supreme Court to hold up an injunction issued by the vice chancellor to allow 10 Negro pupils to return to Milford's all-white high school.

Howard E. Lynch, counsel for the board, said the three-man state Supreme Court had set Friday morning in Dover as the time for a hearing on the School Board's request.

The School Board wants the state's highest court to halt the effective date of an injunction handed down today by Vice Chancellor William O. Marvel to allow the Negro pupils to return to classes.

The injunction was requested by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People after Marvel ruled last week the Negro pupils have the right to attend the school, effective Friday noon.

Most Every Day Is Holiday In Carefree Year Of 1955

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The U.S. Chamber of Commerce today took a look at next year and came up with a bright forecast: Most every day will be a holiday in carefree 1955.

From the first to the last, the chamber reports, there's a special day, week or month all the way.

The year will begin on a somewhat antiseptic note—Odorless Decoration Week, Jan. 2-9—and end with hilarity—December is Holiday Eggnog time.

In between the special days and weeks pile up until they tumble over each other. And anyone who reads the chamber's little booklet, "Special Days, Weeks and Months," is forced to this conclusion: The years must be made longer.

With more than 400 events and observances already scheduled, it's obvious that 52 weeks and 365 days don't allow our enterprising promoters sufficient operating room.

Take a year from today, for example. Conscientious celebrants will be observing Pass the Laugh Week, United Nations Week, National Bible Week, National Donut Week and National Macroni Week.

There's something for everyone.

And, especially, you can look forward to the cow.

Thanks to a hard working Chicago outfit, the American Dairy Assn., she has become, indirectly, the most celebrated of all.

No less than eight months have been set aside to glorify her products.

June, dairy month.

October, cheese festival.

By this time, the American Dairy Assn. boys suddenly realized they had only two months left and four month-long celebrations to go. But they were undaunted.

November is both gift cheese shoppers time and butter baked turkey time, while in December it's both holiday butter cookies days and holiday eggnog time.

Administration Advocates Halt Of Train Segregation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration came out today for a complete stop of the practice of segregating white and Negro passengers traveling across state lines on trains.

Atty. Gen. Brownell said in a brief filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission that "the time has come. . . to declare unequivocally that a Negro passenger is free to travel the length and breadth of this country in the same manner as any other passenger."

Brownell's move followed by five days a decision by the Supreme Court not to interfere with a ruling by the Illinois Supreme Court that a state lacks power to ban racial segregation in interstate travel.

The Illinois Commerce Commission had ruled that a Negro woman was discriminated against by the Illinois Central Railroad when she was directed to leave a coach filled with white persons and go to another car where only Negroes were seated.

On appeal, the Illinois court maintained that if integrated facilities were to be required, an order would have to be handed down either by Congress or by the ICC.

Brownell went before the ICC today as "a friend of the court" in a move launched by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People against what it called discriminatory regulations on certain railroads.

Seven railroads agreed that separate coaches or portions of coaches are set aside on their trains but said this is no violation of interstate commerce laws since the facilities are "separate but equal."

The Supreme Court handed down the "separate but equal" doctrine in a similar transportation case in 1896.

PARIS, Oct. 19 (AP)—French officials tonight reported some progress was made toward solving the status of the Saar valley. The report came after six hours of conferences between Premier Pierre Mendes-France and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The two statesmen ranged over problems standing in the way of West German sovereignty and rearmament.

A communique issued by the French said in connection with the Saar dispute:

"Some progress was accomplished in the course of this first exchange of views which will be followed by other conversations in the course of the present week as the work of experts advances."

Today's conference was the curtain raiser for a series of big power meetings designed to bring West Germany into a strengthened Brussels alliance and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The Saar is the important issue because the French will not act on German rearmament until some agreement on the Saar valley is reached. The French wish to retain the economic union with the steel and coal-rich Saar. The Germans maintain the valley is part of Germany and want at least greater freedom of trade between Germany and the area. It belonged to Germany before World War II.

French officials would not disclose details of today's negotiations, but it was learned that Adenauer will contact the chiefs of other political parties in Germany before any further meeting with Mendes-France on this subject.

The Saar issue appeared to be the last major hurdle in a crowded timetable which by Saturday morning envisages the signing of agreements to end the Allied occupation of West Germany, restore sovereignty to West Germany, put West Germany and Italy into an expanded Brussels alliance, and add the West Germans to the 14-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The French Premier has stated he will not ask his Parliament to ratify any of these accords until he has a satisfactory Saar settlement in an overall package deal.

Nixon Corrects Mistake In Name

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 19 (AP)—Vice president Richard M. Nixon, here for a political speech, made a mistake in referring to Pennsylvania's Republican gubernatorial candidate, Lloyd H. Wood.

Nixon referred to the candidate as Lloyd Wright. Several voices rose in the audience to correct him. Nixon paused a moment and said:

"Let's put it this way: Lloyd Wood is right for Pennsylvania."

The audience applauded for several seconds.

Nixon Says Security Risks Were Inherited

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19 (AP) — Vice President Nixon said tonight that all but one of more than 150 former State Department employes listed as security risks on grounds of subversive associations or sexual perversion were "inherited from the Acheson regime."

"The other one was a 90-day temporary employe who lost his job the moment that his security check was completed," he said in a speech prepared for a GOP campaign finance dinner. The Republican National Committee paid for televising the address on a Philadelphia station and for filmed telecasts over eight stations in New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Nixon struck out sharply at what he said were "inspired stories to the effect that a great majority" of the 6,926 alleged security risks which the administration says were removed from the government payroll from May 1953 through last June "were hired by this administration, and not by the Truman administration."

He said a "leftwing clique ... also tried to create the impression that the offenses of those discharged were inconsequential," and that Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell "compared them to 'traffic ticket violators'."

To answer that he listed—without names or the agencies involved—the cases of seven former employes "inherited from the previous administration" who he said were active in the Communist Party and its affairs.

Nixon throughout the campaign has been claiming that the Eisenhower administration has been removing "Communists, fellow travelers and other security risks . . . not by the hundreds but by the thousands."

Democrats criticized both the figures he gave and the inferences they said he drew from them.

A new compilation announced by the Civil Service Commission Oct. 11 said 6,926 employes quit or were fired up to June 30 with derogatory information in their security files. Grounds for discharge under the program include drunkenness, talkactiveness, criminal record, sexual perversion and other factors in addition to subversive activities and associations.

18,000 Truckers Back To Work

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—More than 18,000 of the 24,000 striking AFL teamsters in the New York area were back at work today and employer resistance to signing contracts on union terms was "folding up like an accordion," the union said.

Only a hard core of embattled trucking firms still refused to give the union the 25-cent an hour wage and welfare increase it demanded.

And this group this afternoon "released" all long distance haulers and Westchester County firms to sign up individually.

Said David Kaplan, chief union economist, "There was nothing to release. The over-the-road carriers have already signed with the union."

Joseph M. Adelizzi, spokesman for the holdout truckers, asserted "this does not mean the end of the strike. We have now created the hard core that's going to continue the strike."

Since the strike started at Friday midnight, affecting 3,500 trucking firms from the tip of Long Island to New York City, north to Poughkeepsie and south to Trenton, N.J., individual employers by the hundreds have flocked to union offices to sign contracts giving the teamsters what they wanted.

President Speaks At Art Ceremony

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—"Freedom of the arts is a basic freedom, one of the pillars of liberty in our land," President Eisenhower said today in a recorded message for the 25th anniversary ceremony of the Museum of Modern Art.

"For our republic to stay free, those among us with the rare gift of artistry must be able freely to use their talent," the President added.

Hazel Damages Affected 23,000 Families In Nation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Hurricane Hazel and its afteraffects brought damage to over 23,000 families in seven states, the Red Cross reported today. It issued this summary:

The hurricane itself—At least 18,000 families affected in the Carolinas, Maryland and Virginia with 1,300 homes totally destroyed and more than 13,000 damaged.

Post-hurricane floods—Losses to 5,400 families in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia with more than 3,000 homes destroyed.

Hall Predicts GOP Victory On Nov. 2

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 19 (AP) — Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said today he is "more confident now than heretofore" that the Republicans will control both houses of the 84th Congress.

Hall, here to address a luncheon of Indiana Republican workers, officials and candidates, told a news conference he expects the GOP to control the House by 15 to 20 seats and the Senate by two after the November election.

Corrigan Feuds With Newspapers

CLEVELAND, Oct. 19 (AP)—Defense Atty. William J. Corrigan has been carrying on a public—although not a private—feud with newspapers reporting the Dr. Samuel Sheppard murder trial.

Today a prospective juror testified that at a certain moment in question he was reading the sports page of a newspaper.

"I find that the sports page is fairly reliable," Corrigan said, with a grin at the press gallery.

Dixon-Yates Pact Would Keep TVA Within Its Area

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP) — A business group said today the proposed Dixon-Yates private power contract "would tend to keep TVA within its own area, and that is what concerns the public power advocates."

The study report, signed by Eugene F. Rinta as director of research, was issued by the Council of State Chambers of Commerce, which represents 31 state and regional chambers.

The study did not discuss actual terms of the proposed contract under which two utility firms headed by Edgar H. Dixon and E. A. Yates would supply privately-produced power to the Tennessee Valley Authority. The Joint Atomic Energy Committee of Congress will hold a public hearing on the contract terms Nov. 4.

But the report said the proposed interchange of power "is common in government and electric company operations" and would meet needs of both the Atomic Energy Commission and the TVA "without entailing the expenditure of over 100 million dollars of the taxpayers' money to serve needs around Memphis."

The two utility companies plan to build a plant at West Memphis, Ark., under contract with the AEC. The privately produced power would be supplied to TVA to meet that agency's growing needs in the Memphis area, in return for TVA power which the AEC buys for its Paducah, Ky., operations.

The estimated annual cost of the revised Dixon-Yates proposal is $20,596,000 compared with $16,884,000 if TVA built a steam plant near Memphis, the study reported.

Of the difference, it said, $1,499,000 represents state and local taxes which TVA would not have to pay and $1,059,000 is the cost of higher interest rates on the borrowed money. The remaining $1,127,000 would go for greater operating and transmission iosts eecause of the greater distance from the present TVA system and from fuel supplies.

LONDON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Samuel Perry, 77, former Labor member of Parliament and father of Fred Perry, the tennis star, died today.

Sign Treaty To Withdraw 83,000 Troops

Egyptian Police Are Alerted; Ceremony Ends 72-Year Reign

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 19 (AP) — Under close security guard, British and Egyptian diplomats tonight signed a historic treaty to end Brjtain's occupation of the Suez Canal zone within 20 months. A proclamation held Egyptian police and armed forces in a state of alert after alleged agents of the Communists and the fanatical Moslem Brotherhood had stoned and wrecked two buses near Cairo.

Officials said the alerting proclamation was merely precautional. They explained the incident that prompted it occurred at a youth rally held in the Giza area near the giant pyramid to celebrate the end of 72 years of British military activity in Egypt. A few persons were reported injured and several were arrested for questioning.

Withdraws 83,000 Troops

The treaty calling for withdrawal of the 83,000 British troops was signed by the Egyptian Premier, Lt. Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, whose army coup dethroned King Farouk Aug. 26, 1952, and Anthony Nutting, British minister of state.

Tonight's ceremony climaxed months of hard bargaining. The signing came 12 weeks after agreement was reached in principle on the broad terms. These include the right of the British to return to the base at any time within the next seven years if an outside power attacks Turkey or any Arab state. The two countries will decide during the seventh year whether they want to extend the treaty.

Even after the troops pull out, British civilian contractors will maintain 13 selected installations under overall Egyptian administration of the canal zone. This arrangement will last for seven years.

Financial Claims Waived

All financial claims to the area are waived by both countries.

Sixteen documents make up the treaty. As the signatures were affixed, representatives of both sides expressed the hope for a new era of friendship between the two countries after years of friction often marked by outbreaks of violence.

The two delegations issued a joint statement saying the treaty was "designed to establish Anglo-Egyptian relations on a new basis of cooperation." The pact was described as a "constructive measure in the cause of peace."

Board Appeals Negro Injunction

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 19 (AP)—The Milford School Board today appealed to the Delaware Supreme Court to hold up an injunction issued by the vice chancellor to allow 10 Negro pupils to return to Milford's all-white high school.

Howard E. Lynch, counsel for the board, said the three-man state Supreme Court had set Friday morning in Dover as the time for a hearing on the School Board's request.

The School Board wants the state's highest court to halt the effective date of an injunction handed down today by Vice Chancellor William O. Marvel to allow the Negro pupils to return to classes.

The injunction was requested by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People after Marvel ruled last week the Negro pupils have the right to attend the school, effective Friday noon.

Most Every Day Is Holiday In Carefree Year Of 1955

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The U.S. Chamber of Commerce today took a look at next year and came up with a bright forecast: Most every day will be a holiday in carefree 1955.

From the first to the last, the chamber reports, there's a special day, week or month all the way.

The year will begin on a somewhat antiseptic note—Odorless Decoration Week, Jan. 2-9—and end with hilarity—December is Holiday Eggnog time.

In between the special days and weeks pile up until they tumble over each other. And anyone who reads the chamber's little booklet, "Special Days, Weeks and Months," is forced to this conclusion: The years must be made longer.

With more than 400 events and observances already scheduled, it's obvious that 52 weeks and 365 days don't allow our enterprising promoters sufficient operating room.

Take a year from today, for example. Conscientious celebrants will be observing Pass the Laugh Week, United Nations Week, National Bible Week, National Donut Week and National Macroni Week.

And, especially, you can look forward to the cow.

Thanks to a hard working Chicago outfit, the American Dairy Assn., she has become, indirectly, the most celebrated of all.

No less than eight months have been set aside to glorify her products.

April, cottage cheese-cling peach salad month.

June, dairy month.

October, cheese festival.

By this time, the American Dairy Assn. boys suddenly realized they had only two months left and four month-long celebrations to go. But they were undaunted.

November is both gift cheese shoppers time and butter baked turkey time, while in December it's both holiday butter cookies days and holiday eggnog time.

Administration Advocates Halt Of Train Segregation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration came out today for a complete stop of the practice of segregating white and Negro passengers traveling across state lines on trains.

Atty. Gen. Brownell said in a brief filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission that "the time has come. . . to declare unequivocally that a Negro passenger is free to travel the length and breadth of this country in the same manner as any other passenger."

Brownell's move followed by five days a decision by the Supreme Court not to interfere with a ruling by the Illinois Supreme Court that a state lacks power to ban racial segregation in interstate travel.

The Illinois Commerce Commission had ruled that a Negro woman was discriminated against by the Illinois Central Railroad when she was directed to leave a coach filled with white persons and go to another car where only Negroes were seated.

On appeal, the Illinois court maintained that if integrated facilities were to be required, an order would have to be handed down either by Congress or by the ICC.

Brownell went before the ICC today as "a friend of the court" in a move launched by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People against what it called discriminatory regulations on certain railroads.

Seven railroads agreed that separate coaches or portions of coaches are set aside on their trains but said this is no violation of interstate commerce laws since the facilities are "separate but equal."

The Supreme Court handed down the "separate but equal" doctrine in a similar transportation case in 1896.

Federal Help Begins For Maryland

Clothing, Food Dispatched For Stricken Shore

CAMBRIDGE, Md., Oct. 19 (AP)—The federal government sent in men and machines and promised financial help today in digging the lower end of Maryland's Eastern Shore out of the wreckage left by Hurricane Hazel.

The Red Cross dispatched food orders and a truck load of clothing to stricken families in the fishing villages on Hooper Island and the low-lying, marshy peninsula between the Honga River and Fishing Bay—Wingate, Bishop Head and Toddville.

The need, it said, was for stoves, clothing, and mattresses.

The watermen said they needed big equipment to help them get 320 boats back in the water so they could start making a living again.

Hazel's high winds and heavy seas drove some of the boats 200 yards or more into the marshes and left them stranded. Others, along with piers and waterside buildings, were smashed to pieces.

A 15-foot wall of water smashed into his packing house, he said. A four-ton crab steamer was tossed aside and split open.

He estimated the damage at $15,000 and said he had only $3,000 insurance coverage. Unless he gets some kind of financial help, he said, he cannot resume operations. The 50 to 60 he has employed will be without jobs.

Designated Disaster Area

L. N. Bailey, director of information for the regional office of the Civil Defense Administration at Westchester, Pa., said it had designated as disaster areas all parts of Maryland severely damaged by the storm.

The President on Monday authorized this and the areas of Dorchester and Somerset counties lying along Chesapeake Bay were immediately designated for help.

Bailey mentioned St. Marys County as a specific additional area.

He said he had reported two million dollars worth of damage in each of the three counties.

Col. Robert Miller, commanding officer of the Maryland Military District, said his unit would move in and help when local agencies could not succeed in clearing the wreckage.

"You can be sure we'll move your boats," he said.

Twelve pieces of heavy equipment manned by 42 soldiers of the 19th Engineer Battalion from Ft. Meade moved into the Cambridge Armory today and began the struggle with the boats.

Some deep in the marshlands presented a problem for the Navy, which sent some mobile equipment from the Chincoteague, Va., Naval Air Station.

Still Restoring Phones

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. reported at the start of the day it still had the job of restoring service to 11,300 subscribers, 5,700 of them in central Maryland and 5,600 on the Eastern Shore.

The Dorchester County figure was 826, with 50 men and 18 trucks from as far away as Gaithersburg, Cumberland and Mt. Airy working on them.

The telephone company said it hoped to restore a majority of the 11,300 within 24 hours, and all of them by the end of the week.

HE'S EATING AGAIN — Robert J. Hinckley, 4, Fleetwood, Pa., who nearly starved to death because he was unable to retain food as a result of a stomach and liver tumor, is fed a banana by Nurse Carol Covino at Flower-Fifth Avenue Hospital in New York City. Bobby is recuperating from an operation to correct the condition and is responding to treatment which is expected to permit him to leave for home this Sunday.

Britain May Have Troops Unload Strikebound Ships

LONDON, Oct. 19 (AP)—British dock workers spread their crippling strike to the big North Sea port of Hull tonight in defiance of an implied government threat to have troops unload ships.

The mushrooming 16-day walkout—swollen by wildcat sympathy strikes and joined by the Communists—is holding up 200 million dollars worth of imports and exports and has posed a serious threat to Britain's whole economy.

Half of Britain's 76,000 dockers and workers allied with the industry are idle. The vast port of London has been closed down as has Birkenhead. Liverpool has been crippled.

But in the main Atlantic port of Southampton, the dock workers rejected overwhelmingly tonight a demand to join the strike.

The decision was made at a meeting near the port as the world's largest liner, the Queen Elizabeth, lay docked stern first ready for scheduled departure Thursday for New York with the Queen Mother Elizabeth aboard. The big ship moved in backward so as to be able to get out more easily without help in case of a strike.

At Southampton, a rebel group in the Transport Union has defied their leaders and are striking in sympathy with the stevedores.

Only the 9,000 members of the National Assn. of Stevedores and Dockers have union authorization for their strike, the core of which is to back union demands that over time be on a voluntary basis rather than compulsory, as the shipping companies say it must be. Another 26,000—all of them members of the huge Transport and General Workers Union—are out on unauthorized sympathy strikes.

Arthur Deakin, boss of the 1½ million member TGWU, denounced the stoppages as "Communist inspired."

Labor Minister Sir Walter Monckton appealed to the strikers to return to work while a government commission investigates their grievances. He said the economic life of the nation will be endangered if the stoppage continues.

In London, a wildcat bus strike for better pay and working conditions which kept half of the city's big double-deckers off the streets for a week was just about over. The striking drivers voted to return tomorrow while their union leaders negotiate for their demands.

Ober Absolves Police, Firemen In Man's Death

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP)—Police Commissioner Beverly Ober said today he found no cause for censure against either firemen or policemen after studying reports on the death of 71-year-old John Glaser.

Glaser was found unconscious a week ago near his home. It was reported a crew from a municipal ambulance refused to take him to a hospital because he was drunk. The man died after being found unconscious in a cell at Central Police Station.

Virginia Concern Submits Low Bid

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP)—C. H. Lawson Inc. of Williamsburg, Va., and the Rea Construction Co. of Charlotte, N. C., today submitted the apparent low bid of $1,163,555 for building part of a new dual highway skirting the north edge of the University of Maryland campus at College Park.

Dickerson, Inc., of Monroe, N. C., was second low at $1,186,159 and seven other bids ran as high as $1,395,729.

The 2.4-mile stretch of dual highway, connecting with an underpass at U. S. 1, the Washington-Baltimore Boulevard, is designed to relieve the persistent traffic jams around the University of Maryland, particularly on football Saturdays.

M'Keldin Flays Byrd Spending

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin said today H. C. Byrd made unreasonable demands for money to spend on the University of Maryland but failed to provide adequate libraries.

"With all his towering requests and all his boasted influence with State executives and legislators of the past, the university, both at College Park and at Baltimore, suffered for want of adequate libraries through all the years," McKeldin said.

"Only the present administration has moved toward the erection of adequate libraries at both places, because no school can function properly without good library facilities.

The question of libraries has come to the forefront because of the broadsides in the current election campaign about the academic rating of the university.

The exchanges brought out that Middle States Association of Colleges has declined to renew its accreditation of the university if deficiencies are not remedied by 1956. The deficiencies include libraries.

Gov. McKeldin made his charges against Byrd, former university president who now is his rival for governor, in a speech to the Real Estate Brokers Roundtable.

It came as a part of a discussion of the real estate tax in State financing.

The State real estate tax, he reminded the real estate men, is used exclusively to pay off bonds which have been issued to build capital improvements.

Of the present rate, 10.39 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation, 6.95 cents finances bonds which were issued before he ever came into office, McKeldin said.

Negro Sentenced To Life For Rape

SNOW HILL, Md., Oct. 19 (AP)—George H. Rayne, 27, a Negro of near Berlin, Worcester County, was sentenced to life imprisonment today on conviction of assault with attempt to rape.

Mrs. Agnes D. Disharoon, also of the Berlin area, testified that Rayne tried to rape her after she had stalled her car on U. S. 133 early the morning of May 9. She told the court Rayne drove up and she asked him for help. Instead, after asking if she were alone, she said, he attacked her.

Rayne pleaded innocent to the charge.

Elkins Refuses More Comment On Md. Report

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 19 (AP)—President Wilson H. Elkins of the University of Maryland won't do any more talking, publicly, about that accreditation report on the university.

Dr. Elkins had tentatively agreed to a press conference at which he was authorized to elaborate on a summary of the accreditation report issued Saturday by the university Board of Regents.

But today, a spokesman for Dr. Elkins said the press conference was off. He said:

"Everything has been said as far as the report is concerned and he (Dr. Elkins) now feels nothing is to be gained by holding a press conference. As far as he is concerned, that ends it."

The original report, by a survey team from the Middle States Association of Colleges, criticized some phases of the university administration under the former president, H. C. Byrd, now campaigning for governor on the Democratic ticket.

Originally, the Board of Regents decided to keep the report confidential because of its controversial nature. Demands for publication of the full report were heard, however, after it became an issue in the current political campaign and portions of it were published.

The regents stuck to their guns and declined to publish the report. Instead, after a meeting last Saturday, they issued a summary of its pertinent points, and said Dr. Elkins could elaborate on that summary if he thought it necessary.

Dr. Elkins didn't.

The university president also declined to discuss the reasons why the national honorary scholastic fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa, refused in 1948 to authorize a chapter on the Maryland campus.

Dr. Elkins would not go any further than to say, "Certain of the reasons have weight, others do not."

He did confirm that a faculty committee is investigating whether the university should apply a second time for a charter and said "We want to be sure this time we'll be accepted."

GOP Charges Said Screen

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Oct. 19 (AP)—Democrat H. C. Byrd said tonight recent charges by Gov. McKeldin against the University of Maryland are "a smoke screen behind which the governor hopes to avoid answering questions about the deficiencies of his own administration."

Byrd, former president of the university and now opposing McKeldin's bid for re-election, lashed out at the governor anew in a speech before a Democratic rally in nearby Rock Hall after a day of campaigning in Kent County.

In answer to Gov. McKeldin's latest statement that Byrd made unreasonable demands for money to spend on the university but failed to provide adequate libraries, Byrd said:

"The truth about this is, and the facts are documented," that this request for a new library was presented to Gov. Lane (former Gov. William Preston Lane Jr.) in 1949 and in the Legislature of 1950, Governor Lane had passed in his Bond Bill $120,000 to draw plans for the library. Every year since that, written requests have been made to the governor for funds to build a library, but the governor has consistently refused to grant the funds.

Believed Engaged

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 19 (AP)—The engagement of Debbie Reynolds and singer Eddie Fisher will be announced Saturday, a source close to the couple said today.

Invitations went out today for a cocktail party in honor of the couple and the movie town immediately buzzed with speculation.

APPEARS COOL — Dr. Sam Sheppard appears cool and relaxed as he returns to the courtroom in Cleveland, Ohio, yesterday after the noon recess of the first degree murder trial in which he is charged with beating his wife, Marilyn, to death.

Five Persons Die As Result Of Auto Mishaps

[By The Associated Press]

Five Maryland residents, three of them Navy personnel stationed at the Bainbridge Naval Training Center, died Tuesday as the result of highway accidents.

The three from Bainbridge, one a Wave, were killed south of Lancaster, Pa. The car in which they were returning to the base from Lancaster collided with an empty bus.

Accidents on the Baltimore-Washington Boulevard (U. S. 1) and U. S. 301 claimed the other two lives.

The dead:

Ray William Massingale, 30, quartermaster 3-c, Tellico Plains, Tenn.

John A. Azeulak, 23, BM 3-c, Oaklawn, Ill.

Elsie Janie Murray, SA, 20, Clinton Heights, N. Y.

Edward J. Egan, 20, Savage, Md.

Charles Lewis, 32, Negro, Baltimore.

Massingale, Zezulak, and the Murray girl all were victims of the wreck near Lancaster. In addition, Don K. Parker, 28, sonarman 3-c, identified as the driver of the car, was taken to Lancaster General Hospital for treatment of injuries.

Egan was fatally injured when his car crashed into the rear of a truck which had stopped for a traffic signal at the intersection of Washington boulevard and Queensbury Road near Riverdale.

Lewis was in one of two trucks involved in a collision on U. S. 301 half a mile south of Conaways. Two other persons were hurt in the accident.

a proper line of inquiry here at this time."

Then he gave his definition of the heart of the case, relating it to the actual murder charge rather than any collateral issue of sex.

"You clearly are shutting me off from a very important matter in this case," said Corrigan as he proceeded with his questioning.

A few minutes later Verlinger was accepted tentatively as the third person in the jury box.

The state claims an admission from Miss Hayes that she was intimate more than once last March when she and Dr. Sheppard were in California.

Three months later, on July 4, Sheppard's wife, mother of one child and four months pregnant with her second, was beaten to death in her bed room.

Sheppard has stuck to his original story that a bushy haired intruder killed his wife and knocked him unconscious when he tried to grapple with the man.

17 Insurance Firms Said To Misrepresent Benefits

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The government accused 17 of the nation's health, hospital and accident insurance companies today of misrepresenting benefits they offer millions of customers.

Chairman Edward F. Howrey of the Federal Trade Commission announced the complaints, charging "false and misleading advertising." He said that in a 10-month inquiry of nearly 900 other health and accident insurance companies, the FTC has found hundreds of similar practices and will file additional complaints.

Today's FTC action involved companies in Texas, Missouri, Illinois, Utah, New York, Indiana, Delaware, Nebraska and Arkansas. In some cases, the commission said, misleading statements were made about the extent of coverage of policies; in others there was alleged misrepresentation about maximum benefits or other matters.

Account For $300 Million

"In the aggregate," the FTC said, "the 17 companies named in the proceedings account for annual premiums of 300 million dollars, representing about one-third of the total accident and health coverage on an individual policy basis in the United States.

"The four largest companies in this field—Mutual Benefit Health & Accident Assn., of Omaha, Neb. (Mutual of Omaha); Bankers Life and Casualty Co., of Chicago (The White Cross Plan); Reserve Life Insurance Co., of Dallas, Tex.; and United Insurance Co., Chicago—are among the 17 companies cited for alleged misrepresentation of their policies."

The commission listed a variety of alleged misrepresentation (no one company was charged with committing all), including:

1. Policy termination provisions. It said a typical claim of "no automatic termination age" conflicted with the fact that most policies "are reneweable solely at the option of the company."

2. Extent of coverage. A typical claim is "it pays you up to $15 a day for 100 hospital days—for each sickness or accident." As a matter o ffact, the FTC said, there are "many cases of accident or sickness for which policies so represented do not provide payment."

3. Maximum dollar limits. Citing such claims as "we pay up to $525 for each surgical operation," the FTC said "actually, many policies provide that the full amount is payable only for one or two comparatively rare operations."

4. Beginning time of coverage. "Certain companies represent that the coverage is effective at the date of issuance when actually, coverage for many sicknesses is delayed until the policy has been in effect for a specified period of time—for example, six months in the case of tuberculosis or heart disease."

5. Health status of applicant. Certain companies' advertisements "do not disclose that the policy does not cover any loss traceable to a condition in existence at the time the policy was issued."

"The investigation," the FTC said, "grew out of a flood of letters received from American policy-holders complaining that the insurance coverage they purchased was not the coverage that had been advertised.

"The investigation is continuing."

Chairman Howrey told a news conference that, while group insurance was not involved in today's action, the investigation has covered group policies. He would not say whether any apparent violations had been uncovered in group insurance.

Answer In 20 Days

The companies have 20 days to file their answer to the complaints. Hearing dates for each case were set on various days in December.

If the FTC complaints stand up, the commission will issue orders telling the companies to cease and desist from the practices. If the practices continued, each violation would be subject to a civil penalty of $5,000 a day.

Besides the four largest companies, the FTC named these 13 others:

The American Hospital and Life Insurance Co., San Antonio, Tex.; American Life and Accident Insurance Co., St. Louis; Automobile Owners Safety Insurance Co., Kansas City, Mo.; Commercial Travelers Insurance Co., Salt Lake City;

The Commercial Travelers Mutual Accident Assn., Utica, N. Y.; Guarantee Reserve Life Insurance Co., of Hammond, Ind.; Guarantee Trust Life Insurance Co., Chicago;

Illinois Commercial Men's Assn., Chicago, La Salle Casualty Co., Chicago; Life Insurance Co. of America and its officers, John W. Kane, Sydney Himell, Nelson Currier, Frank Siegrist and Julius Katz, Wilmington, Del.;

Prudence Life Insurance Co., Chicago; Southern National Insurance Co., Little Rock, Ark.; Travelers Health Assn., Omaha, Neb.

Water Shortage Avoided In Break

FREDERICK, Oct. 19 (AP)—The bursting of an 18-inch main threatened part of Frederick's water supply today but a 12-inch pipe was used to by-pass the break and prevent serious curtailment of service.

The break was in an open field about three miles west of Frederick. It was in the main line into the city from the Fishing Creek reservoir in the nearby mountains.

Engineers said it would be tomorrow before they could finish repairs.

Frederick already is under a 24-hour ban on the use of water to sprinkle and wash cars because of a declining supply in its reservoirs.

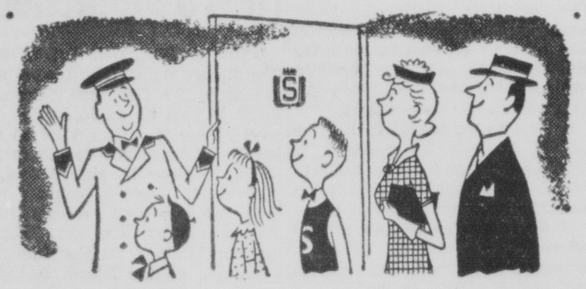

President To Make Broadcast Oct. 28

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—President Eisenhower will make a nationwide television-radio political broadcast from Washington the night of Oct. 28, it was announced today. That will be in the last week of the congressional election campaign.

The national Citizens for Eisenhower Congressional Committee announced it will pay for the radio-TV time.

The address is to be at 9:30 p.m. (EST). Radio-TV details have not been worked out.

James L. Murphy, chairman, said the citizens committee has been receiving funds at a "greatly accelerated rate" since the President's recent speeches.

No room charge for children under 14!

This plan is in effect every day of the week, every week of the year at Statler

★ If one or more children under 14 occupy the same room with both parents, the regular two-person rate applies for the room. If one or more children under 14 occupy a room with only one parent, the one-person rate applies for the room.

★ If one or more children under 14 occupy a room without a parent—that is, if more than one room is needed for a family—the one-person rate applies for the second room.

Bring the family for weekend of fun at the Washington Statler!

Federal Help Begins For Maryland

Clothing, Food Dispatched For Stricken Shore

CAMBRIDGE, Md., Oct. 19 (AP)—The federal government sent in men and machines and promised financial help today in digging the lower end of Maryland's Eastern Shore out of the wreckage left by Hurricane Hazel.

The Red Cross dispatched food orders and a truck load of clothing to stricken families in the fishing villages on Hooper Island and the low-lying, marshy peninsula between the Honga River and Fishing Bay—Wingate, Bishop Head and Toddville.

The need, it said, was for stoves, clothing, and mattresses.

The watermen said they needed big equipment to help them get 320 boats back in the water so they could start making a living again.

Hazel's high winds and heavy seas drove some of the boats 200 yards or more into the marshes and left them stranded. Others, along with piers and waterside buildings, were smashed to pieces.

A 15-foot wall of water smashed into his packing house, he said. A four-ton crab steamer was tossed aside and split open.

He estimated the damage at $15,000 and said he had only $3,000 insurance coverage. Unless he gets some kind of financial help, he said, he cannot resume operations. The 50 to 60 he has employed will be without jobs.

Designated Disaster Area

L. N. Bailey, director of information for the regional office of the Civil Defense Administration at Westchester, Pa., said it had designated as disaster areas all parts of Maryland severely damaged by the storm.

The President on Monday authorized this and the areas of Dorchester and Somerset counties lying along Chesapeake Bay were immediately designated for help.

Bailey mentioned St. Marys County as a specific additional area.

He said he had reported two million dollars worth of damage in each of the three counties.

Col. Robert Miller, commanding officer of the Maryland Military District, said his unit would move in and help when local agencies could not succeed in clearing the wreckage.

"You can be sure we'll move your boats," he said.

Twelve pieces of heavy equipment manned by 42 soldiers of the 19th Engineer Battalion from Ft. Meade moved into the Cambridge Armory today and began the struggle with the boats.

Some deep in the marshlands presented a problem for the Navy, which sent some mobile equipment from the Chincoteague, Va., Naval Air Station.

Still Restoring Phones

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. reported at the start of the day it still had the job of restoring service to 11,300 subscribers, 5,700 of them in central Maryland and 5,600 on the Eastern Shore.

The Dorchester County figure was 826, with 50 men and 18 trucks from as far away as Gaithersburg, Cumberland and Mt. Airy working on them.

The telephone company said it hoped to restore a majority of the 11,300 within 24 hours, and all of them by the end of the week.

HE'S EATING AGAIN — Robert J. Hinckley, 4, Fleetwood, Pa., who nearly starved to death because he was unable to retain food as a result of a stomach and liver tumor, is fed a banana by Nurse Carol Covino at Flower-Fifth Avenue Hospital in New York City. Bobby is recuperating from an operation to correct the condition and is responding to treatment which is expected to permit him to leave for home this Sunday.

Britain May Have Troops Unload Strikebound Ships

LONDON, Oct. 19 (AP)—British dock workers spread their crippling strike to the big North Sea port of Hull tonight in defiance of an implied government threat to have troops unload ships.

The mushrooming 16-day walkout—swollen by wildcat sympathy strikes and joined by the Communists—is holding up 200 million dollars worth of imports and exports and has posed a serious threat to Britain's whole economy.

Half of Britain's 76,000 dockers and workers allied with the industry are idle. The vast port of London has been closed down as has Birkenhead. Liverpool has been crippled.

But in the main Atlantic port of Southampton, the dock workers rejected overwhelmingly tonight a demand to join the strike.

The decision was made at a meeting near the port as the world's largest liner, the Queen Elizabeth, lay docked stern first ready for scheduled departure Thursday for New York with the Queen Mother Elizabeth aboard. The big ship moved in backward so as to be able to get out more easily without help in case of a strike.

At Southampton, a rebel group in the Transport Union has defied their leaders and are striking in sympathy with the stevedores.

Only the 9,000 members of the National Assn. of Stevedores and Dockers have union authorization for their strike, the core of which is to back union demands that over time be on a voluntary basis rather than compulsory, as the shipping companies say it must be. Another 26,000—all of them members of the huge Transport and General Workers Union—are out on unauthorized sympathy strikes.

Arthur Deakin, boss of the 1½ million member TGWU, denounced the stoppages as "Communist inspired."

Labor Minister Sir Walter Monckton appealed to the strikers to return to work while a government commission investigates their grievances. He said the economic life of the nation will be endangered if the stoppage continues.

In London, a wildcat bus strike for better pay and working conditions which kept half of the city's big double-deckers off the streets for a week was just about over. The striking drivers voted to return tomorrow while their union leaders negotiate for their demands.

Meanwhile, private air charter firms began flying foodstuffs from Amsterdam, the Netherlands, to England.

Ober Absolves Police, Firemen In Man's Death

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP)—Police Commissioner Beverly Ober said today he found no cause for censure against either firemen or policemen after studying reports on the death of 71-year-old John Glaser.

Glaser was found unconscious a week ago near his home. It was reported a crew from a municipal ambulance refused to take him to a hospital because he was drunk. The man died after being found unconscious in a cell at Central Police Station.

Virginia Concern Submits Low Bid

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP)—C. H. Lawson Inc. of Williamsburg, Va., and the Rea Construction Co. of Charlotte, N. C., today submitted the apparent low bid of $1,163,555 for building part of a new dual highway skirting the north edge of the University of Maryland campus at College Park.

Dickerson, Inc., of Monroe, N. C., was second low at $1,186,159 and seven other bids ran as high as $1,395,729.

The 2.4-mile stretch of dual highway, connecting with an underpass at U. S. 1, the Washington-Baltimore Boulevard, is designed to relieve the persistent traffic jams around the University of Maryland, particularly on football Saturdays.

M'Keldin Flays Byrd Spending

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin said today H. C. Byrd made unreasonable demands for money to spend on the University of Maryland but failed to provide adequate libraries.

"With all his towering requests and all his boasted influence with State executives and legislators of the past, the university, both at College Park and at Baltimore, suffered for want of adequate libraries through all the years," McKeldin said.

"Only the present administration has moved toward the erection of adequate libraries at both places, because no school can function properly without good library facilities.

The question of libraries has come to the forefront because of the broadsides in the current election campaign about the academic rating of the university.

The exchanges brought out that Middle States Association of Colleges has declined to renew its accreditation of the university if deficiencies are not remedied by 1956. The deficiencies include libraries.

Gov. McKeldin made his charges against Byrd, former university president who now is his rival for governor, in a speech to the Real Estate Brokers Roundtable.

It came as a part of a discussion of the real estate tax in State financing.

The State real estate tax, he reminded the real estate men, is used exclusively to pay off bonds which have been issued to build capital improvements.

Of the present rate, 10.39 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation, 6.95 cents finances bonds which were issued before he ever came into office, McKeldin said.

Negro Sentenced To Life For Rape

SNOW HILL, Md., Oct. 19 (AP)—George H. Rayne, 27, a Negro of near Berlin, Worcester County, was sentenced to life imprisonment today on conviction of assault with attempt to rape.

Mrs. Agnes D. Disharoon, also of the Berlin area, testified that Rayne tried to rape her after she had stalled her car on U. S. 133 early the morning of May 9. She told the court Rayne drove up and she asked him for help. Instead, after asking if she were alone, she said, he attacked her.

Rayne pleaded innocent to the charge.

Elkins Refuses More Comment On Md. Report

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 19 (AP)—President Wilson H. Elkins of the University of Maryland won't do any more talking, publicly, about that accreditation report on the university.

Dr. Elkins had tentatively agreed to a press conference at which he was authorized to elaborate on a summary of the accreditation report issued Saturday by the university Board of Regents.

But today, a spokesman for Dr. Elkins said the press conference was off. He said:

"Everything has been said as far as the report is concerned and he (Dr. Elkins) now feels nothing is to be gained by holding a press conference. As far as he is concerned, that ends it."

The original report, by a survey team from the Middle States Association of Colleges, criticized some phases of the university administration under the former president, H. C. Byrd, now campaigning for governor on the Democratic ticket.

Originally, the Board of Regents decided to keep the report confidential because of its controversial nature. Demands for publication of the full report were heard, however, after it became an issue in the current political campaign and portions of it were published.

The regents stuck to their guns and declined to publish the report. Instead, after a meeting last Saturday, they issued a summary of its pertinent points, and said Dr. Elkins could elaborate on that summary if he thought it necessary.

Dr. Elkins didn't.

The university president also declined to discuss the reasons why the national honorary scholastic fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa, refused in 1948 to authorize a chapter on the Maryland campus.

Dr. Elkins would not go any further than to say, "Certain of the reasons have weight, others do not."

He did confirm that a faculty committee is investigating whether the university should apply a second time for a charter and said "We want to be sure this time we'll be accepted."

GOP Charges Said Screen

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Oct. 19 (AP)—Democrat H. C. Byrd said tonight recent charges by Gov. McKeldin against the University of Maryland are "a smoke screen behind which the governor hopes to avoid answering questions about the deficiencies of his own administration."

Byrd, former president of the university and now opposing McKeldin's bid for re-election, lashed out at the governor anew in a speech before a Democratic rally in nearby Rock Hall after a day of campaigning in Kent County.

In answer to Gov. McKeldin's latest statement that Byrd made unreasonable demands for money to spend on the university but failed to provide adequate libraries, Byrd said:

"The truth about this is, and the facts are documented," that this request for a new library was presented to Gov. Lane (former Gov. William Preston Lane Jr.) in 1949 and in the Legislature of 1950, Governor Lane had passed in his Bond Bill $120,000 to draw plans for the library. Every year since that, written requests have been made to the governor for funds to build a library, but the governor has consistently refused to grant the funds.

Believed Engaged

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 19 (AP)—The engagement of Debbie Reynolds and singer Eddie Fisher will be announced Saturday, a source close to the couple said today.

Invitations went out today for a cocktail party in honor of the couple and the movie town immediately buzzed with speculation.

Five Persons Die As Result Of Auto Mishaps

[By The Associated Press]

Five Maryland residents, three of them Navy personnel stationed at the Bainbridge Naval Training Center, died Tuesday as the result of highway accidents.

The three from Bainbridge, one a Wave, were killed south of Lancaster, Pa. The car in which they were returning to the base from Lancaster collided with an empty bus.

Accidents on the Baltimore-Washington Boulevard (U. S. 1) and U. S. 301 claimed the other two lives.

The dead:

Ray William Massingale, 30, quartermaster 3-c, Tellico Plains, Tenn.

John A. Azeulak, 23, BM 3-c, Oaklawn, Ill.

Elsie Janie Murray, SA, 20, Clinton Heights, N. Y.

Charles Lewis, 32, Negro, Baltimore.

Massingale, Zezulak, and the Murray girl all were victims of the wreck near Lancaster. In addition, Don K. Parker, 28, sonarman 3-c, identified as the driver of the car, was taken to Lancaster General Hospital for treatment of injuries.

Egan was fatally injured when his car crashed into the rear of a truck which had stopped for a traffic signal at the intersection of Washington boulevard and Queensbury Road near Riverdale.

Lewis was in one of two trucks involved in a collision on U. S. 301 half a mile south of Conaways. Two other persons were hurt in the accident.

Defense Says

Then he gave his definition of the heart of the case, relating it to the actual murder charge rather than any collateral issue of sex.

"You clearly are shutting me off from a very important matter in this case," said Corrigan as he proceeded with his questioning.

A few minutes later Verlinger was accepted tentatively as the third person in the jury box.

The state claims an admission from Miss Hayes that she was intimate more than once last March when she and Dr. Sheppard were in California.

Three months later, on July 4, Sheppard's wife, mother of one child and four months pregnant with her second, was beaten to death in her bed room.

Sheppard has stuck to his original story that a bushy haired intruder killed his wife and knocked him unconscious when he tried to grapple with the man.

17 Insurance Firms Said To Misrepresent Benefits

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The government accused 17 of the nation's health, hospital and accident insurance companies today of misrepresenting benefits they offer millions of customers.

Chairman Edward F. Howrey of the Federal Trade Commission announced the complaints, charging "false and misleading advertising." He said that in a 10-month inquiry of nearly 900 other health and accident insurance companies, the FTC has found hundreds of similar practices and will file additional complaints.

Today's FTC action involved companies in Texas, Missouri, Illinois, Utah, New York, Indiana, Delaware, Nebraska and Arkansas. In some cases, the commission said, misleading statements were made about the extent of coverage of policies; in others there was alleged misrepresentation about maximum benefits or other matters.

Account For $300 Million

"In the aggregate," the FTC said, "the 17 companies named in the proceedings account for annual premiums of 300 million dollars, representing about one-third of the total accident and health coverage on an individual policy basis in the United States.

"The four largest companies in this field—Mutual Benefit Health & Accident Assn., of Omaha, Neb. (Mutual of Omaha); Bankers Life and Casualty Co., of Chicago (The White Cross Plan); Reserve Life Insurance Co., of Dallas, Tex.; and United Insurance Co., Chicago—are among the 17 companies cited for alleged misrepresentation of their policies."

The commission listed a variety of alleged misrepresentation (no one company was charged with committing all), including:

1. Policy termination provisions. It said a typical claim of "no automatic termination age" conflicted with the fact that most policies "are reneweable solely at the option of the company."

2. Extent of coverage. A typical claim is "it pays you up to $15 a day for 100 hospital days—for each sickness or accident." As a matter o ffact, the FTC said, there are "many cases of accident or sickness for which policies so represented do not provide payment."

3. Maximum dollar limits. Citing such claims as "we pay up to $525 for each surgical operation," the FTC said "actually, many policies provide that the full amount is payable only for one or two comparatively rare operations."

4. Beginning time of coverage. "Certain companies represent that the coverage is effective at the date of issuance when actually, coverage for many sicknesses is delayed until the policy has been in effect for a specified period of time—for example, six months in the case of tuberculosis or heart disease."

5. Health status of applicant. Certain companies' advertisements "do not disclose that the policy does not cover any loss traceable to a condition in existence at the time the policy was issued."

"The investigation," the FTC said, "grew out of a flood of letters received from American policy-holders complaining that the insurance coverage they purchased was not the coverage that had been advertised.

"The investigation is continuing."

Chairman Howrey told a news conference that, while group insurance was not involved in today's action, the investigation has covered group policies. He would not say whether any apparent violations had been uncovered in group insurance.

Answer In 20 Days

The companies have 20 days to file their answer to the complaints. Hearing dates for each case were set on various days in December.

If the FTC complaints stand up, the commission will issue orders telling the companies to cease and desist from the practices. If the practices continued, each violation would be subject to a civil penalty of $5,000 a day.

Besides the four largest companies, the FTC named these 13 others:

The American Hospital and Life Insurance Co., San Antonio, Tex.; American Life and Accident Insurance Co., St. Louis; Automobile Owners Safety Insurance Co., Kansas City, Mo.; Commercial Travelers Insurance Co., Salt Lake City;

The Commercial Travelers Mutual Accident Assn., Utica, N. Y.; Guarantee Reserve Life Insurance Co., of Hammond, Ind.; Guarantee Trust Life Insurance Co., Chicago;

Illinois Commercial Men's Assn., Chicago, La Salle Casualty Co., Chicago; Life Insurance Co. of America and its officers, John W. Kane, Sydney Himell, Nelson Currier, Frank Siegrist and Julius Katz, Wilmington, Del.;

Prudence Life Insurance Co., Chicago; Southern National Insurance Co., Little Rock, Ark.; Travelers Health Assn., Omaha, Neb.

Water Shortage Avoided In Break

FREDERICK, Oct. 19 (AP)—The bursting of an 18-inch main threatened part of Frederick's water supply today but a 12-inch pipe was used to by-pass the break and prevent serious curtailment of service.

The break was in an open field about three miles west of Frederick. It was in the main line into the city from the Fishing Creek reservoir in the nearby mountains.

Engineers said it would be tomorrow before they could finish repairs.

Frederick already is under a 24-hour ban on the use of water to sprinkle and wash cars because of a declining supply in its reservoirs.

ARTMOR PLASTICS CORPORATION

While being among the smaller Cumberland industries at present, the diversity of operations, types of accounts served, and destinations of products shipped would undoubtedly surprise most Cumberlanders.

For example, Artmore produces a line of textile mill parts that are regularly purchased by such firms as Celanese Corporation of America, E. I. DuPont, Tennessee Eastman, Industrial Rayon, Burlington Mills and many other smaller firms; insulation for the heavy electrical equipment industry (on special machines designed by Artmor) which is currently going into the Ohio Valley Atomic Energy installations.

Among others is a variety of new and different advertising specialties which are distributed through approximately 70 jobbers; custom designed signs and displays for many national advertisers; aircraft, automotive, refrigerator, toy and business machine components—this being done through direct salesmanship.

Artmor have shipped to all parts of the United States, Canada, Central and South America, The Philippines, South Africa and Europe. In just one day, last week, Artmor received inquiries regarding textile mill parts from Tokyo, Mexico City, Brussels and London.

Artmor's plant space, which totals about 12,000 square feet at the present (with a good amount of additional ground to permit expansion) houses a variety of hydraulic presses, saws, buffing equipment, electronic heat-sealing or welding facilities, precision engraving and die making machines, as well as embossing, printing, spraying, vacuum forming equipment and duplicating machines for their direct mail advertising.

Mr. Arthur C. Morgan, president of Artmor tells us that a completely new and different wall covering for the building trades will also soon be ready for promotion.

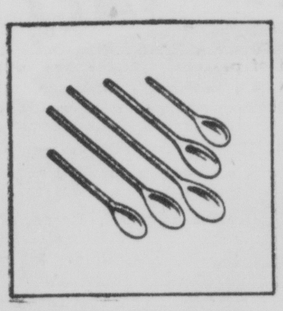

Cumberland can certainly expect to hear more and more about this firm in the years to come, and one look at their display (in Rosenbaum's window) will make this point obvious to all.

Artmore has come a long way in the several years since Mr. Morgan made the start. This is just one of the many "growing greater" stories of industry in Cumberland.

ARTMOR PLASTICS CORPORATION

While being among the smaller Cumberland industries at present, the diversity of operations, types of accounts served, and destinations of products shipped would undoubtedly surprise most Cumberlanders.

For example, Artmore produces a line of textile mill parts that are regularly purchased by such firms as Celanese Corporation of America, E. I. DuPont, Tennessee Eastman, Industrial Rayon, Burlington Mills and many other smaller firms; insulation for the heavy electrical equipment industry (on special machines designed by Artmor) which is currently going into the Ohio Valley Atomic Energy installations.

Among others is a variety of new and different advertising specialties which are distributed through approximately 70 jobbers; custom designed signs and displays for many national advertisers; aircraft, automotive, refrigerator, toy and business machine components—this being done through direct salesmanship.

Artmor have shipped to all parts of the United States, Canada, Central and South America, The Philippines, South Africa and Europe. In just one day, last week, Artmor received inquiries regarding textile mill parts from Tokyo, Mexico City, Brussels and London.

Artmor's plant space, which totals about 12,000 square feet at the present (with a good amount of additional ground to permit expansion) houses a variety of hydraulic presses, saws, buffing equipment, electronic heat-sealing or welding facilities, precision engraving and die making machines, as well as embossing, printing, spraying, vacuum forming equipment and duplicating machines for their direct mail advertising.

Mr. Arthur C. Morgan, president of Artmor tells us that a completely new and different wall covering for the building trades will also soon be ready for promotion.

Cumberland can certainly expect to hear more and more about this firm in the years to come, and one look at their display (in Rosenbaum's window) will make this point obvious to all.

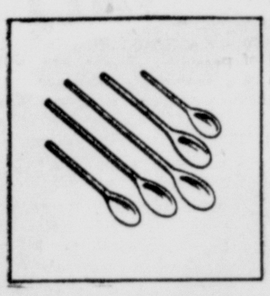

Artmore has come a long way in the several years since Mr. Morgan made the start. This is just one of the many "growing greater" stories of industry in Cumberland.

Polio Foundation Contracts To Purchase Salk Vaccine

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis said today it is contracting to buy enough Salk polio vaccine to treat nine million persons next year—although it is still unknown whether the vaccine works.

The foundation, in effect, is gambling that it does.

By doing so, said Foundation President Basil O'Connor, supplies will be available so it will be possible to start giving the vaccine immediately after results of tests of its effectiveness are in next spring.

"The National Foundation is taking a calculated financial risk in purchasing vaccine before it has been found to be effective," he said.

But he added "we have every reason to hope and believe" that it will be. And if this proves true, he said, the vaccine ordered now can be put to prompt use next year—instead of having to wait 70 days to get it produced.

On the basis of the advance order, he said, pharmaceutical houses can begin production at once. The vaccine will cost $9 million dollars, or $1 for each three-shot series for the projected nine million recipients.

Shots will be made available, O'Connor said, to groups deemed the "most highly susceptible" to polio, and totalling 10,490,000 children and adults. He said only 75 per cent of them—or nine million—could be expected to ask for the vaccine.

The groups include 1,390,000 children who participated in field trials of the vaccine early this year (but not 440,000 others who got the real vaccine), an estimated 4,275,000 women who will be pregnant between next April 1 and September 30, and 4,825,000 first-grade children.

Results of the tests to determine whether the vaccine prevents polio are being gathered by Dr. Thomas Francis Jr. at the University of Michigan, whose report is expected to be complete next April.

Two Foreigners Must Remain In Small N.Y. Area

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 19 (AP)—Two foreigners here for the U. N. General Assembly session are restricted by U. S. immigration authorities to an area in Manhattan 69 by 11 blocks in size, it was learned recently.

They are Mrs. Eda Werfel, correspondent for the Polish Communist newspaper Trybuna Ludu, and the Rev. Michael Scott, a clergyman from England and South Africa. Scott represents three Southwest African tribes in their struggle against the South African government.

Both are forbidden to leave the restricted area—which includes U. N. headquarters, all U. N. mission offices, the theater district and the east side residential district—except to leave the country.

U. S. sources indicated this restriction—the most stringent yet applied—has been previously used in two other cases: Jan Dessau, representative of the Communist-backed World Federation of Trade Unions, and Mrs. Dora Grace, a U. N. observer from England here earlier this year. Neither is here now.

The Polish delegation has already protested to U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold against the restriction on Mrs. Werfel.

Huang Seeking Crack At Reds

TAIPEH, Formosa, Monday, Oct. 19 (AP)—Gen. Huang Chieh, commander-in-chief of Nationalist China's army, said in an interview he is itching for a rematch with the Chinese Reds, and believes he can lick them this time.

Huang took command of an army in South China in 1949. But before he had time to get acquainted with his command, the Reds surged over China.

Huang fought and fell back, always out-numbered and never properly supplied until at last he found himself on the Indochina border. He gave one last rear-guard punch and then slipped across into Tonkin.

There, the French interned the general and his army on the Island of Fookow.

Huang didn't spend his internment idly. He had his soldiers improvise wooden rifles. And, for three years, he drilled them daily, all the while maintaining military order and discipline.

When he and his troops finally were repatriated to Formosa 15 months ago, his soldiers were absorbed immediately into Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's army.

Explaining the Nationalist defeat when the Reds took over China, Gen. Huang says:

"They had us overwhelmed and on the run. As a matter of fact, they should never have let us escape."

Marine Corps Memo Tells How To Cut Birthday Cake

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP) — Seems like you have been cutting that birthday cake all wrong, mam.

The Marine Corps tells you how to do it (although perhaps you don't have a dance floor, a sword or a band to play "Auld Lang Syne.")

Well, anyhow, if you'll just get a copy of a new memorandum from Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, Marine Corps commandant, you'll know.

It's a ltle long, about 1,700 words.

The general subject is "Observance of Marine Corps birthday," but the pertinent matter is contained in section 1, paragraphs C, F, G and J and Section 2, paragraph 3. Perhaps, for background purposes, you also should note "reference: Para 24451, Marine Corps Manual; "CMC ltr AG-1936-JFL of 28 Oct. 1952, to distlist same sub." The occasion will be on Nov. 10 or 10 Nov. when the Corps celebrates its 179th birthday.

The cake cutting ceremonial goes like this:

"The band or orchestra commences playing 'Semper Fidelis.' Two (2) colonels of escort enter the ballroom together, march down the dance floor. . . These are then followed by two (2) lieutenant colonels, two (2) majors, two (2) captains, two (2) first lieutenants, and two (2) second lieutenants. . . . General officers, if present, or other ranking personnel, enter the ballroom in pairs. . . .

"Slowly roll the cake down the line of escorts to a position in front of the commanding general. The cake escorts then sidestep one pace, halt and face inboard toward the cake. The band or orchestra ceases playing.

"The commanding general steps forward, gives a short talk on the significance of the Marine Corps birthday and introduces the guest of honor, if one is present. The guest of honor then makes a few remarks. When the addresses are completed, the senior cake escort steps forward, takes the sword from the cake cart and passes it over his left forearms, grip forward, to the commanding general.

"The band or orchestra plays 'Auld Lang Syne' while the first slice of cake is being cut. The commanding general places the first slice of cake on a plate handed to him by one o fthe cake escorts, and passes the plate to the guest of honor. After tasting the cake, the guest of honor returns the plate to one of the escorts who places it on the serving cart. . . .

"As the last general officer clears the ballroom, the cake escort steps forward, faces right and left, and rolls the cake serving cart forward to the line where the general officers were standing. . . .

"Upon completion of the cake escorts' movements, the two colonels come to 'carry swords,' march forward to center line of the ballroom, face toward the entrance door and march off the dance floor together through the entrance way. . . .

"The birthday cake will be covered with as many small candles as practicable. . . ."

Berlin Wonders If Molotov's Visit Precludes Soviet Withdrawal

By TOM REEDY

BERLIN, Oct. 19 (AP)—Did V. M. Molotov make his trip to East Germany this month to see for himself if it would be safe to withdraw Soviet troops from the Russian zone? There's some thought in Berlin today that this was his mission.

Ever since the Soviet foreign minister's eight-day visit — a remarkable stretch of time for a top Russian to spend in a vassal area—the West has been seeking to find out why. Now Allied intelligence and German quarters have rounded up these tips:

1. Officially on hand to help East Germany observe its fifth anniversary as a republic, Molotov really was sent by the Kremlin to size up the grip Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl's Communist government holds on the 18 million East Germans.

2. Moscow felt it time to impress on the East Germans, and the Poles and the Czechs as well, that it stands behind the East Berlin regime against the rearming West.

If the ideas appear contradictory, Allied informants say, it is not the first time Russian strategy appears that way on the surface.

They reason that the first thing the Russians wanted to do was to allay fears in the East that the Western rearmament drive would revive German rightism, that unity might follow and the leftists would then be in the same boat as they were 20 years ago.

The second and perhaps more vital objective, these quarters say, is the troop withdrawal. Gleaned from German sources, the report has it that Molotov was in search of evidence that there can not be another "June 17" uprising, that the Communist police are in the saddle.

The foreign minister's trips through the East zone may have impressed him on this score. It was devoid of incident.

There is no solid information West of the Iron Curtain on Molotov's reactions. But the West Berlin Telegraf reported this morning it had learned through its Eastern connections that the troop withdrawal has finally been decided upon. In fact, the Telegraf said, Molotov told the Eastern Communist leaders Dec. 31 is the target date.

Senior Allied officers have said such a withdrawal always has been regarded as a possibility. They argue that the Russians may one day reach a feeling of confidence and take the long gamble: withdraw the 300,000-man army from East Germany, announce it with big tub-thumping and declare to the world there is no longer any reason for Western occupation.

There is little doubt among Allied authorities here that such a move might radically change the thinking in Western Europe—certainly in France and perhaps even in West Germany, which is thinking more and more of unity.

Another angle the Russians are not ignoring, foreign sources here speculate, is a growing public sentiment in the United States against widespread foreign commitments.

Sen. Michael J. Mansfield (D-Mont) commented on a recent trip to Bonn that, whichever party controls the U. S. Congress after the November elections, the word isolationism will have to be reckoned with on a big scale.

The West has always contended that mutual withdrawal would be in the Soviet favor militarily because, leaders said, the Russian troops would have to move back only to the Oder-Neisse River line.

European political quarters, however, say the Russians would have to go all the way back to the Soviet Union, that neither Poland nor Czechoslovakia could absorb the 28 divisions in East Germany without a political and economic upheaval.

If the Soviet army were to go back, German quarters here maintain it would leave behind technicians to build up the Communist East German army, which now is a ragamuffin force of 125,000 men without modern equipment.

Dixon To Run For Utah Office

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 19 (AP)—A veteran educator made a tardy entrance into Utah's congressional election campaign today because "we can't just teach citizenship and then when the demad comes for service back out."

Dr. Henry Aldous Dixon, 64, president of Utah State Agricultural College, was nominated last night to replace Rep. Douglas R. Stringfellow as the Republican nominee from the 1st Congressional District.

Stringfellow' running for reelertion to a second term, resigned his candidacy after admitting he had fabricated stories that had pictured him as awar hero. He is a disabled veteran of World War II, injured in a mine field explosion.

The state Central Committee chose Dr. Dixon who said he never before has run for a political public office but his nomination "gives me no other course than to roll up my sleeves and work to win."

He conferred today with Republican party leaders, drafting plans for a campaign that begins only two weeks before the final voting.

Four-Car Crash Injures 15 Persons

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 19 (AP) — A spectacular four - car crash blamed on wet and slippery pavement and involving a Greyhound bus near here sent 15 persons to three hospitals today.

Witnesses said the bus skidded and swerved into the path of the truck after two other cars stopped suddenly in front of it.

Dulles Leaves To Attend Paris Confab

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles left for Paris today, cautiously hopeful that France will agree in a series of meetings beginning tomorrow to decisive action on arming West Germany as a fullfledged partner in the Atlantic alliance.

Dulles said there are "many difficult problems" to be solved in working out the package deal under which West Germany will soon begin forming a dozen divisions. But he declared that these problems can be solved provided European leaders tackle them with a spirit of cooperation and "a sense of high responsibility."

The conferences will build up into a decisive meeting of North Atlantic Council members on Friday.

Dulles promised that the United States will give "sympathetic and responsive" attention to whatever action the Europeans take for strengthening their own unity and power.

It was the second time in about three weeks Dulles had emplaned for a European capital to deal with Germany's future and the fate of West Europe's defense system. His last trip was to London where were laid the basic plans for making West Germany an ally.

The effort under way is a result of a vote in the French Assembly two months ago which killed plans for a European Defense Community that was to make Germany and France partners in a European military system. The system now proposed will be more loosely organized but it will have Britain's full participation — a great advantage in the eyes of the French government.

Dulles' hope for action was tempered into caution by several factors. He is reported still not sure of the final intentions of French Premier Mendes-France with respect to German rearmament though he is much less skeptical then he was when he went to London. He is keenly aware that [illegible] Assembly will make the final decision anyway, probably in December. And he is avoiding such an involvement of U. S. enthusiasm and prestige as that which caused great disappointment and embarrassment when EDC, which the United States supported 100 per cent, was killed.

Berlin Wonders If Molotov's Visit Precludes Soviet Withdrawal

By TOM REEDY

BERLIN, Oct. 19 (AP)—Did V. M. Molotov make his trip to East Germany this month to see for himself if it would be safe to withdraw Soviet troops from the Russian zone? There's some thought in Berlin today that this was his mission.

Ever since the Soviet foreign minister's eight-day visit — a remarkable stretch of time for a top Russian to spend in a vassal area—the West has been seeking to find out why. Now Allied intelligence and German quarters have rounded up these tips:

1. Officially on hand to help East Germany observe its fifth anniversary as a republic, Molotov really was sent by the Kremlin to size up the grip Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl's Communist government holds on the 18 million East Germans.

2. Moscow felt it time to impress on the East Germans, and the Poles and the Czechs as well, that it stands behind the East Berlin regime against the rearming West.

If the ideas appear contradictory, Allied informants say, it is not the first time Russian strategy appears that way on the surface.

They reason that the first thing the Russians wanted to do was to allay fears in the East that the Western rearmament drive would revive German rightism, that unity might follow and the leftists would then be in the same boat as they were 20 years ago.

The second and perhaps more vital objective, these quarters say, is the troop withdrawal. Gleaned from German sources, the report has it that Molotov was in search of evidence that there can not be another "June 17" uprising, that the Communist police are in the saddle.

The foreign minister's trips through the East zone may have impressed him on this score. It was devoid of incident.

There is no solid information West of the Iron Curtain on Molotov's reactions. But the West Berlin Telegraf reported this morning it had learned through its Eastern connections that the troop withdrawal has finally been decided upon. In fact, the Telegraf said, Molotov told the Eastern Communist leaders Dec. 31 is the target date.

Senior Allied officers have said such a withdrawal always has been regarded as a possibility. They argue that the Russians may one day reach a feeling of confidence and take the long gamble: withdraw the 300,000-man army from East Germany, announce it with big tub-thumping and declare to the world there is no longer any reason for Western occupation.

There is little doubt among Allied authorities here that such a move might radically change the thinking in Western Europe—certainly in France and perhaps even in West Germany, which is thinking more and more of unity.

Another angle the Russians are not ignoring, foreign sources here speculate, is a growing public sentiment in the United States against widespread foreign commitments.

Sen. Michael J. Mansfield (D-Mont) commented on a recent trip to Bonn that, whichever party controls the U. S. Congress after the November elections, the word isolationism will have to be reckoned with on a big scale.

The West has always contended that mutual withdrawal would be in the Soviet favor militarily because, leaders said, the Russian troops would have to move back only to the Oder-Neisse River line.

European political quarters, however, say the Russians would have to go all the way back to the Soviet Union, that neither Poland nor Czechoslovakia could absorb the 28 divisions in East Germany without a political and economic upheaval.

If the Soviet army were to go back, German quarters here maintain it would leave behind technicians to build up the Communist East German army, which now is a ragamuffin force of 125,000 men without modern equipment.

Dixon To Run For Utah Office

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 19 (AP)—A veteran educator made a tardy entrance into Utah's congressional election campaign today because "we can't just teach citizenship and then when the demad comes for service back out."

Dr. Henry Aldous Dixon, 64, president of Utah State Agricultural College, was nominated last night to replace Rep. Douglas R. Stringfellow as the Republican nominee from the 1st Congressional District.

Stringfellow' running for reelertion to a second term, resigned his candidacy after admitting he had fabricated stories that had pictured him as awar hero. He is a disabled veteran of World War II, injured in a mine field explosion.

The state Central Committee chose Dr. Dixon who said he never before has run for a political public office but his nomination "gives me no other course than to roll up my sleeves and work to win."

He conferred today with Republican party leaders, drafting plans for a campaign that begins only two weeks before the final voting.

Four-Car Crash Injures 15 Persons

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 19 (AP) — A spectacular four - car crash blamed on wet and slippery pavement and involving a Greyhound bus near here sent 15 persons to three hospitals today.

Witnesses said the bus skidded and swerved into the path of the truck after two other cars stopped suddenly in front of it.

William H. Valentine Weds Margaret Brown In Scotland

Mrs. R. G. Brown, 11 Boswall Grove, Edinburgh, Scotland, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Margaret Scott Brown, to William Harold Valentine, stationed with the USAF at Kirknewton, Scotland, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Valentine, 311 Furnace Street, this city.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized September 25 in Inverleith Church, Edinburgh, with Rev. Arthur A. Cowan, D.D., officiating. Golden crysthans decorated the church. Miss Verna Gellus was the maid of honor and Miss Candace Gale Conely, the bridesmaid. William Miller served as best man, while Kenneth Koska, Alan Gellus and Thomas White were the ushers.

A program of nuptial music was played as well as the wedding marches and "O God of Bethel," and "O Perfect Love," were sung.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Andrew Landles, A.R.1 B.A., the bride was attired in a ballerina-length gown of daffodil pattern Chantille lace made with a hooped skirt. With it she wore a nylon net headdress and scalloped edged veil and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Miss Gellus wore a blue lace dress with scalloped neckline, and Miss Conely, a blue nylon net dress. Both had headdress of pink and blue forget-me-nots and carried bouquets of sweetheart crysthans and onemones.

Mrs. Brown chose a navy blue dress with matching hat and accessories for the wedding and had a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride is a graduate of Trinity Academy and is working in a government office. The bridegroom is a graduate of Allegany High School, class of 1950 and prior to entering the service was employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

A wedding reception was held at Mackie's, Edinburgh, with roses used in the decorations. For their wedding trip to Hawick, on the border of Scotland and England, the bride wore a black and white flecked, light gray suit with white lace blouse, black and light gray hat and black accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Valentine are residing at 35 Craigentinny Crescent, Edinburgh.

Sorority Fall Banquet Tonight

Phi Omicron Delta of Frostburg State Teachers College will have its fall initiation banquet tonight. It will be held at Ali Ghan Country Club beginning at 6:30 o'clock.

Seven members who were recently initiated will be honor guests. Miss Mary Alma Winters, delta, will preside. Toasts to fellowship, music and loyalty will be given.

Charles Sager and Mrs. Anthony Bollino, faculty members of the music department, will be guests and will present a short musical program.

Mrs. Howard Tolson, Dr. Lucille N. Gray, advisors, and several members of the faculty will be guests.

Rush captains are Miss Susan Mostoller and Miss Mary Kay Poland. The banquet committee is composed of Mrs. Beatrice Kerrigan, chairman, Miss Carol Sweene and Miss Larna Cutter.

Home Before Going To Germany

Capt. and Mrs. Wilbur R. Parker and daughter, Anita, are visiting the former's father, R. Reese Parker, 304 Fayette Street, this month.

After being stationed at the Pentagon, Capt. Parker completed a four-month course with the Armed Forces Special Weapons Project at Sandia Base, Albuquerque, New Mexico. He leaves November 19 for Germany.

When Capt. Parker leaves for Germany, Mrs. Parker and Anita will reside with her mother, Mrs. Alvey R. Ryan, Hazen Road, until they are able to join him the first of the year.

HONORED BY 25 YEAR CLUB — Seven employes of the Celanese who recently received their 25 year certificates and watches, were honored at a dinner by the 25 Year Club. Couple Marks Anniversary

The fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph U. Wempe, 601 Oldtown Road, was celebrated Monday. It began with a solemn high mass in St. Mary's Catholic Church, followed by a buffet luncheon for the immediate families and a reception during the afternoon and evening.

Rev. Lawrence Wempe, pastor of St. Mary's Star of the Sea Church, Indian Head, son of the couple, was celebrant; while Rev. Henry Hopkins, St. Francis Xavier Church, Moundsville, W. Va., nephew, and Rev. Robert Hopkins, St. Mary's Church, great nephew, were deacon and subdeacon.

The former Miss Mary Brinker, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mathias Brinker, Cumberland, became the bride of Mr. Wempe, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wempe, also of Cumberland, October 18, 1904. The ceremony was performed in SS. Peter and Paul Church with Rev. Mathias, O. F. M. Cap., officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Wempe are the parents of six children, Rev. Wempe, Mrs. William Coleman, Leo F. Wempe, Mrs. Thomas Wempe, Miss Helen Wempe, and the late Lt. Robert Wempe. They have eight grandchildren. Mr. Wempe is retired, after having operated his own stonemason and contracting business.

Joan L. Schaidt Selects Attendant For Wedding

To Be Bride Of J. E. Hymes

Miss Joan Louise Schaidt, fiancee of James Earl Hymes, has selected Mrs. Mary Lynn Null to be her matron of honor and only attendant for their marriage October 29.

The ceremony will be solemnized at 8 p. m. in Trinity Lutheran Church, with Rev. G. A. Wagner officiating. James Albright will serve as Mr. Hymes' best man.

No formal invitations have been issued for the wedding, but friends are welcome to attend.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest M. Schaidt, 134 Oak Street. Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Hymes, LaVale.

Mr. and Mrs. Schaidt will entertain in compliment to their daughter and her bridal party with a reception in the church social hall following the ceremony.

Mrs. John Walker and Miss Charlene Knippenberg were co-hostesses for a miscellaneous shower and prenuptial party for Miss Schaidt. It was held at the former's home, Carroll Street.

A pink and white color scheme was carried out with the shower gifts arranged beneath a pink and white umbrella and repeated in the streamers with clusters of wedding bells, used as decorations throughout the house. A miniature bride and bridegroom adorned the shower cake.

The evening was spent informally. Other guests were Miss Janet Schaidt, Miss Joann Fisher, Miss Wendell Furlow, Miss Donna Rowan, Mrs. Don True and Mrs. Louis Wright.

Homemakers Given Recipes

Mrs. Wade Rice, Nutrition chairman, gave recipes for quick and easy meals and explained the seven basic foods necessary for health at the meeting of the Twiggtown Homemakers Club, held at the home of Mrs. Marshall Wilson Jr.

A report on the county Council meeting was given by Mrs. A. D. Twigg. She also announced the Achievement Day program for all clubs October 28 at Centre Street Methodist Church social hall. Reports were made to be sent to the county chairmen.

A nominating committee was appointed. It consists of Mrs. Rice, Mrs. Isaac Drake and Mrs. Hazel Bottenfield.

In concluding the meeting the group sang the song of the month, "God of Our Fathers, Whose Almighty Hand."

The next meeting will be November 13 at the home of Mrs. Bernard Baker.

Centerville School Marks Penna. Week

Better understanding and greater appreciation of state functions and responsibilities were stressed by pupils of the Cumberland Valley elementary school, Centerville, Pa., in the observance of Pennsylvania Week. There were special activities in all grades to better acquaint the students with the state.

Grade Eight under the direction of Clyde Rose, principal, prepared bulletins from the theme, "It is your Pennsylvania Keep it Growing." Bulletins prepared explained the state seal and emblems, the Liberty Bell and native trees, animals and birds. Exhibits of these activities included a mounted specimen of the state bird, the ruffed grouse, and a small potted hemlock tree.

Mrs. Helen Nave led the Seventh Grade as they developed the history of Pennsylvania and prepared exhibits of farm products and natural resources of the state. These were presented as a program for instruction for the lower grades. Music included the singing of the state song, "Pennsylvania" by Gertrude M. Rohrer.

Grade One, directed by Mrs. Christina Hosack, discussed topics and themes of Pennsylvania. A record of the responses and contributions of the children was compiled into a booklet to be presented to the parents of each child. Art creations of the children showed the many varieties of recreation in Pennsylvania.

Opti-Mrs. To Meet

The Opti-Mrs. Club will hold its monthly meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at Happy Hills Restaurant.

Hostesses are Mrs. Byron Kight, Mrs. George Fey, Mrs. David Miller and Mrs. William Chappel.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Belts on washable dresses must have washable interlinings. Avoid leather backings when you buy such a dress or the belt may bleed or crack during laundering.

Musical Tea Will Be Held Today

A tea and training meeting for all Music chairmen will be held today by the Allegany County Homemakers Chorus. It will be in club rooms 1, 2 and 3 of Central YMCA from 2 until 4 o'clock.

Hymns and songs of the month for 1955 will be sung by the chorus and club chairmen. Mrs. Richard W. Trevaskis will be director and Mrs. Erma Burkett will be at the piano.

Mrs. Paul Gilford, chorus president, and Mrs. Trevaskis will preside at the tea table. They are to be assisted by Mrs. Charles R. Burkey and Mrs. Ralph Brotemarkle.

The final rehearsal before the Achievement Day program, October 28, will be held at 7:30, October 25 at the Y.

There is to be a chartered bus available for homemakers wishing to attend the Maryland pageant in Washington November 1, during the National Homemakers convention. Those wishing to make reservations are to call Mrs. Gilford, 1332-W by October 25.

Music Study Group Meets

Plans for the year's activities will be formulated at the second meeting of the Music Study Group of the Frostburg - Georges Creek Branch of the AAUW tomorrow night. It will be held at 7:30 at the home of Dr. Hazel G. Ramsay, 66 Beall Street, Frostburg. Miss Datha Thomas, co-chairman of the group, will assist the hostess.

Recent musical experiences will be discussed and recordings will be made. Reports also are to be given by those attending the concert presented last month by Charles Sager, music instructor at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Persons interested in attending the meeting, who are not AAUW members, are requested to telephone Dr. Ramsay.

Louise Riffey Becomes Bride Of Jonathan C. Branson

Miss Daphne Louise Riffey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin B. Riffey, Cresaptown, became the bride of Jonathan C. Branson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harper L. Branson, Lost River, W. Va., October 16.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized at 2 p. m. in Cresaptown Methodist Church, with Rev. Raymond Crowe officiating. Bouquets of fall flowers were used in the decorations.

Miss Alice Ward was the bride's maid of honor and only attendant, while William Branson served as his brother's best man. Thomas Branson, another brother, and Melvin Riffey Jr., brother of the bride, were the ushers. Mrs. Ruth Johnson played a program of nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches, as well as accompanying Martin Johnson, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a plum colored velvet dress, with pink lace mitts and hat. Completing her costume, she had an orchid on a white Bible.

Her attendant was attired in a pink dress with matching hat and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of fall flowers.

Mrs. Riffey selected a gray dress, trimmed in black with black accessories for her daughter's wedding. With it she wore a corsage of red mums. Mrs. Branson chose a toast colored dress with beige hat and accessories and had a corsage of pink mums.

The bride is a graduate of Allegany High School, class of 1948, and prior to her resignation was employed at Memorial Hospital. The bridegroom attended Mathias, W. Va., High School, and is engaged in farming.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Riffey entertained with a reception in the church social hall. Mrs. Loretta Riffey, Harrisonburg, Va., aunt of the bride, cut the three-tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Miss Evelyn May presided at the punch bowl, assisted by Mrs. Florence Borror.

Zone 1 To Meet

Zone 1 of the Hagerstown district, Women's Society of Christian Service will meet Friday at the Dawson Methodist Church.

The morning session begins at 10:15 with Mrs. Kenneth Grove in charge of the devotionals. Rev. and Mrs. John Bailey Jones, of the Frostburg church, are to give highlights of the national Family Life conference in Chicago.

In the afternoon a skit, "Station MWWO" will be given by the Dawson Society, and choral readings, "And No One Asks," by the Trinity society.

William H. Valentine Weds Margaret Brown In Scotland

Mrs. R. G. Brown, 11 Boswall Grove, Edinburgh, Scotland, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Margaret Scott Brown, to William Harold Valentine, stationed with the USAF at Kirknewton, Scotland, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Valentine, 311 Furnace Street, this city.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized September 25 in Inverleith Church, Edinburgh, with Rev. Arthur A. Cowan, D.D., officiating. Golden crysthans decorated the church. Miss Verna Gellus was the maid of honor and Miss Candace Gale Conely, the bridesmaid. William Miller served as best man, while Kenneth Koska, Alan Gellus and Thomas White were the ushers.

A program of nuptial music was played as well as the wedding marches and "O God of Bethel," and "O Perfect Love," were sung.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Andrew Landles, A.R.I B.A., the bride was attired in a ballerina-length gown of daffodil pattern Chantille lace made with a hooped skirt. With it she wore a nylon net headdress and scalloped edged veil and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Miss Gellus wore a blue lace dress with scalloped neckline, and Miss Conely, a blue nylon net dress. Both had headdress of pink and blue forget-me-nots and carried bouquets of sweetheart crysthans and onemones.

Mrs. Brown chose a navy blue dress with matching hat and accessories for the wedding and had a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride is a graduate of Trinity Academy and is working in a government office. The bridegroom is a graduate of Allegany High School, class of 1950 and prior to entering the service was employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

A wedding reception was held at Mackie's, Edinburgh, with roses used in the decorations. For their wedding trip to Hawick, on the border of Scotland and England, the bride wore a black and white flecked, light gray suit with white lace blouse, black and light gray hat and black accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Valentine are residing at 35 Craigentinny Crescent, Edinburgh.

Sorority Fall Banquet Tonight

Phi Omicron Delta of Frostburg State Teachers College will have its fall initiation banquet tonight. It will be held at Ali Ghan Country Club beginning at 6:30 o'clock.

Seven members who were recently initiated will be honor guests. Miss Mary Alma Winters, delta, will preside. Toasts to fellowship, music and loyalty will be given.

Charles Sager and Mrs. Anthony Bollino, faculty members of the music department, will be guests and will present a short musical program.

Mrs. Howard Tolson, Dr. Lucille N. Gray, advisors, and several members of the faculty will be guests.

Rush captains are Miss Susan Mostoller and Miss Mary Kay Poland. The banquet committee is composed of Mrs. Beatrice Kerrigan, chairman, Miss Carol Sweene and Miss Larna Cutter.

Home Before Going To Germany

Capt. and Mrs. Wilbur R. Parker and daughter, Anita, are visiting the former's father, R. Reese Parker, 304 Fayette Street, this month.

After being stationed at the Pentagon, Capt. Parker completed a four-month course with the Armed Forces Special Weapons Project at Sandia Base, Albuquerque, New Mexico. He leaves November 19 for Germany.

When Capt. Parker leaves for Germany, Mrs. Parker and Anita will reside with her mother, Mrs. Alvey R. Ryan, Hazen Road, until they are able to join him the first of the year.

Left to right are Mrs. Lottie Richards, Miss Grace Lashley, Earl Twigg, who served as master of ceremonies; Miss Evelyn May, Paul Holler, Mrs. Anna Labor, Mrs. Almeta Summers, and Mrs. Lectie Varner. Each woman was presented a corsage and the men gifts.

Celanese Club Has Party

Members of the 25 Year Club of the Celanese plant entertained seven new members at a dinner Saturday at Moon's Dining Room, and presented each with a corsage or gift.

Earl Twigg, supervisor of Block 7-3, served as master of ceremonies.

Attending were Margaret Fulk, Alcy Housel, Kenneth Housel, William Richards, Ursula Richards, Virginia Ayers, Frederick Ayers, Thelma Kolberg, Margaret Holler, Florence Borror, Mary McGowan, Hilda McGowan, Margaret Powell, Isabell Shearer, Sara Williams, Susan Myers, Evelyn May, Lectie Varner, Lottie Richards, Anna Miller Laber, Grace Lashley, Michael Miglio.

Couple Marks Anniversary

The fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph U. Wempe, 601 Oldtown Road, was celebrated Monday. It began with a solemn high mass in St. Mary's Catholic Church, followed by a buffet luncheon for the immediate families and a reception during the afternoon and evening.

Rev. Lawrence Wempe, pastor of St. Mary's Star of the Sea Church, Indian Head, son of the couple, was celebrant; while Rev. Henry Hopkins, St. Francis Xavier Church, Moundsville, W. Va., nephew, and Rev. Robert Hopkins, St. Mary's Church, great nephew, were deacon and subdeacon.

The former Miss Mary Brinker, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mathias Brinker, Cumberland, became the bride of Mr. Wempe, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wempe, also of Cumberland, October 18, 1904. The ceremony was performed in SS. Peter and Paul Church with Rev. Mathias, O. F. M. Cap., officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Wempe are the parents of six children, Rev. Wempe, Mrs. William Coleman, Leo F. Wempe, Mrs. Thomas Wempe, Miss Helen Wempe, and the late Lt. Robert Wempe. They have eight grandchildren. Mr. Wempe is retired, after having operated his own stonemason and contracting business.

Joan L. Schaidt Selects Attendant For Wedding

To Be Bride Of J. E. Hymes

Miss Joan Louise Schaidt, fiancee of James Earl Hymes, has selected Mrs. Mary Lynn Null to be her matron of honor and only attendant for their marriage October 29.

The ceremony will be solemnized at 8 p. m. in Trinity Lutheran Church, with Rev. G. A. Wagner officiating. James Albright will serve as Mr. Hymes' best man.

No formal invitations have been issued for the wedding, but friends are welcome to attend.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest M. Schaidt, 134 Oak Street. Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Hymes, LaVale.

Mr. and Mrs. Schaidt will entertain in compliment to their daughter and her bridal party with a reception in the church social hall following the ceremony.

Mrs. John Walker and Miss Charlene Knippenberg were co-hostesses for a miscellaneous shower and prenuptial party for Miss Schaidt. It was held at the former's home, Carroll Street.

A pink and white color scheme was carried out with the shower gifts arranged beneath a pink and white umbrella and repeated in the streamers with clusters of wedding bells, used as decorations throughout the house. A miniature bride and bridegroom adorned the shower cake.

The evening was spent informally. Other guests were Miss Janet Schaidt, Miss Joann Fisher, Miss Wendell Furlow, Miss Donna Rowan, Mrs. Don True and Mrs. Louis Wright.

Homemakers Given Recipes

Mrs. Wade Rice, Nutrition chairman, gave recipes for quick and easy meals and explained the seven basic foods necessary for health at the meeting of the Twiggtown Homemakers Club, held at the home of Mrs. Marshall Wilson Jr.

A report on the county Council meeting was given by Mrs. A. D. Twigg. She also announced the Achievement Day program for all clubs October 28 at Centre Street Methodist Church social hall. Reports were made to be sent to the county chairmen.

A nominating committee was appointed. It consists of Mrs. Rice, Mrs. Isaac Drake and Mrs. Hazel Bottenfield.

In concluding the meeting the group sang the song of the month, "God of Our Fathers, Whose Almighty Hand."

The next meeting will be November 13 at the home of Mrs. Bernard Baker.

Centerville School Marks Penna. Week

Better understanding and greater appreciation of state functions and responsibilities were stressed by pupils of the Cumberland Valley elementary school, Centerville, Pa., in the observance of Pennsylvania Week. There were special activities in all grades to better acquaint the students with the state.

Grade Eight under the direction of Clyde Rose, principal, prepared bulletins from the theme, "It is your Pennsylvania Keep it Growing." Bulletins prepared explained the state seal and emblems, the Liberty Bell and native trees, animals and birds. Exhibits of these activities included a mounted specimen of the state bird, the ruffed grouse, and a small potted hemlock tree.

Mrs. Helen Nave led the Seventh Grade as they developed the history of Pennsylvania and prepared exhibits of farm products and natural resources of the state. These were presented as a program for instruction for the lower grades. Music included the singing of the state song, "Pennsylvania" by Gertrude M. Rohrer.

Grade One, directed by Mrs. Christina Hosack, discussed topics and themes of Pennsylvania. A record of the responses and contributions of the children was compiled into a booklet to be presented to the parents of each child. Art creations of the children showed the many varieties of recreation in Pennsylvania.

Opti-Mrs. To Meet

Hostesses are Mrs. Byron Kight, Mrs. George Fey, Mrs. David Miller and Mrs. William Chappel.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Belts on washable dresses must have washable interlinings. Avoid leather backings when you buy such a dress or the belt may bleed or crack during laundering.

Musical Tea Will Be Held Today

A tea and training meeting for all Music chairmen will be held today by the Allegany County Homemakers Chorus. It will be in club rooms 1, 2 and 3 of Central YMCA from 2 until 4 o'clock.

Hymns and songs of the month for 1955 will be sung by the chorus and club chairmen. Mrs. Richard W. Trevaskis will be director and Mrs. Erma Burkett will be at the piano.

Mrs. Paul Gilford, chorus president, and Mrs. Trevaskis will preside at the tea table. They are to be assisted by Mrs. Charles R. Burkey and Mrs. Ralph Brotemarkle.

The final rehearsal before the Achievement Day program, October 28, will be held at 7:30, October 25 at the Y.

There is to be a chartered bus available for homemakers wishing to attend the Maryland pageant in Washington November 1, during the National Homemakers convention. Those wishing to make reservations are to call Mrs. Gilford, 1332-W by October 25.

Music Study Group Meets

Plans for the year's activities will be formulated at the second meeting of the Music Study Group of the Frostburg - Georges Creek Branch of the AAUW tomorrow night. It will be held at 7:30 at the home of Dr. Hazel G. Ramsay, 66 Beall Street, Frostburg. Miss Datha Thomas, co-chairman of the group, will assist the hostess.

Recent musical experiences will be discussed and recordings will be made. Reports also are to be given by those attending the concert presented last month by Charles Sager, music instructor at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Persons interested in attending the meeting, who are not AAUW members, are requested to telephone Dr. Ramsay.

Louise Riffey Becomes Bride Of Jonathan C. Branson

Miss Daphne Louise Riffey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin B. Riffey, Cresaptown, became the bride of Jonathan C. Branson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harper L. Branson, Lost River, W. Va., October 16.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized at 2 p. m. in Cresaptown Methodist Church, with Rev. Raymond Crowe officiating. Bouquets of fall flowers were used in the decorations.

Miss Alice Ward was the bride's maid of honor and only attendant, while William Branson served as his brother's best man. Thomas Branson, another brother, and Melvin Riffey Jr., brother of the bride, were the ushers. Mrs. Ruth Johnson played a program of nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches, as well as accompanying Martin Johnson, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a plum colored velvet dress, with pink lace mitts and hat. Completing her costume, she had an orchid on a white Bible.

Her attendant was attired in a pink dress with matching hat and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of fall flowers.

Mrs. Riffey selected a gray dress, trimmed in black with black accessories for her daughter's wedding. With it she wore a corsage of red mums. Mrs. Branson chose a toast colored dress with beige hat and accessories and had a corsage of pink mums.

The bride is a graduate of Allegany High School, class of 1948, and prior to her resignation was employed at Memorial Hospital. The bridegroom attended Mathias, W. Va., High School, and is engaged in farming.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Riffey entertained with a reception in the church social hall. Mrs. Loretta Riffey, Harrisonburg, Va., aunt of the bride, cut the three-tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Miss Evelyn May presided at the punch bowl, assisted by Mrs. Florence Borror.

Zone 1 To Meet

Zone 1 of the Hagerstown district, Women's Society of Christian Service will meet Friday at the Dawson Methodist Church.

The morning session begins at 10:15 with Mrs. Kenneth Grove in charge of the devotionals. Rev. and Mrs. John Bailey Jones, of the Frostburg church, are to give highlights of the national Family Life conference in Chicago.

In the afternoon a skit, "Station MWWO" will be given by the Dawson Society, and choral readings, "And No One Asks," by the Trinity society.

Iowa May Elect Democrat To Senate Despite GOP Efforts

Editor's Note — This is another of the stories by roving Associated Press reporters analyzing the campaign in key states.

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

DES MOINES, Oct. 19 (AP)—Iowa Republicans may elect a Democrat to the United States Senate Nov. 2.

There wouldn't be anything particularly strange about that, except that this year the GOP high command is driving hard here as in other states to guarantee President Eisenhower a Republican Congress.

In the tall corn state, the Republicans are up against Guy M. Gillette, who is something rather apart in politics. The best Democratic vote getter in Iowa—just about the only one, in fact—is trying at the age of 75 for another Senate term. He may make it with the help, as usual, of friendly Republicans.

It takes a liberal helping of GOP ballots for a Democrat to win in a state that usually is about 3 to 2 Republican. Gillette has been able to round up those votes consistently in the past and to run far ahead of all other Democrats on the ticket.

His opponent this time is a veeran Republican congressman, Thomas E. Martin.

Spinning around through the Gillette-Martin race are the usual issues—peace, jobs, taxes, foreign policy, support and opposition to the administration, farm prices, especially in Iowa the prices of corn and hogs. But the politicians seem to be more interested in the issues than the people are.

Aren't Whipping Themselves

Most Iowa folks aren't whipping themselves into a froth of excitement over the election and there is likely to be a light vote. The corn and hog farmers aren't talking much politics and evidently are less disturbed about prices and price supports than the dairymen in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Thus the senatorial race is more of a polite popularity contest than a fighting showdown on vital national issues.

Martin, 61, is giving up a House seat he has held for 16 years to try to jostle Gillettee out of the Senate. He has been campaigning for nearly two years, campaigning hard. But it has been an uphill pull all the way.

The Republican State chairman, Don Pierson, said in an interview that "Martin has been behind but I think our candidate is gaining pretty reasonable ground right along."

The big problem for the GOP, Pierson said, is to get Republicans to change their idea that Gillette is "almost a Republican."

"Our success," he said, "depends on getting our Republicans to vote, and then getting them to vote for a Republican and to stop voting for Gillette."

It isn't only Gillette and his bipartisan following that Martin and the GOP are bucking. Here, as in some other Midwestern states, there appears to be something of a trend toward the Democrats, some sort of subterranean undercurrent of indeterminate proportions fed partly by pools of discontent on the farms.

At the moment—and some Democrats will dispute this—this undercurrent evidently isn't running with the force needed to upset GOP control of the state government or to jar loose the Republican clutch on any of Iowa's eight House seats.

Iowa hasn't elected a Democratic governor for 18 years or a Democratic House member for 14.

In the gubernatorial race, it is Democrat Clyde E. Herring against Republican Leo A. Hoegh.

Herring is county attorney of Polk County (Des Moines) and the son of a former governor and U.S. senator. He has been basing his campaign largely on a plea to end "one-party rule" in Iowa, where Democratic representation in the Legislature is at a record low—7 members out of 158.

Hoegh is Iowa's attorney general. He has built his bid for the Statehouse around promises of "clean, honest government."

Hoegh was appointed attorney general by Gov. William S. Beardsley, who has had some troubles with the income tax collector but who has since won re-election. The Democrats are trying to tag Hoegh "Beardsley's boy."

Both Democrats and Republicans say the races in Iowa are by no means over and prospects could change before the Nov. 2 balloting.

If the apparent Democratic trend should turn into a real sweep it might overturn a Republican House member or two and Democrats say they would have a chance of capturing the Statehouse. If the trend is of minor proportions it might result merely in reducing the usual Republican margins of victory.

But it doesn't take much of a Democratic tide—perhaps none at all—to elect Gillette.

Martin Is In Danger

"Martin is the only Republican in danger right now. If Gillette has a chance, and he always does, it's because he's Gillette. Everybody likes him. He has some detractors but no enemies."

Martin, he says, has made a good congressman and has been doing a tremendous amount of political work over the state for far more than a year. But, he says, Martin isn't particularly aggressive, has a more retiring personality, and lacks Gillette's appearance, sparkle and color.

The senator is an imposing 6 feet 2, silver-haired, witty. To a lot of Iowans he looks just the way a senator should look. It has been said of him that he is the only person in Washington who could wear a toga to a masquerade and look like a Roman rather than a man in a nightshirt.

As he beats his way along the campaign trail, Gillette doesn't thrust out a hand to everybody on main street. He figures that if people are going to vote for him, they'll do it without his backing them up to the store fronts and attempting to extract their votes by verbal and manual pumping.

Yet the senator makes himself available. There was the fellow who came up with Gillette was eating breakfast, said he was a Republican but was going to vote for the senator because he likes what Gillette has done for the state.

Martin Does Handshake

Martin does use the hand-shaking technique as he criss-crosses the state for thousands of miles. He is shorter, stockier than Gillette. He, too, has a shock of white hair. If he can't come up to Gillette on political color, he still has a warm, pleasant way with people.

And he does appear to be making some headway with the theme that Iowa ought to support Eisenhower with an all-Republican congressional delegation. You run into people who think he's right on that, even though Gillette at times has voted with the Republicans rather than with his own party. Some of these persons have supported Gillette in the past.

Soviet Debate Demand Rejected

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. Oct. 19 (AP)—The U.N. Assembly Steering Committee decisively rejected Soviet demands today for immediate debate on American air and sea activity around Formosa and the ocean off the Red China mainland.

It voted 12-2 to postpone the question for 14 days after new and bitter exchanges in the committee between U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. and Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky. Russia and Czechoslovakia voted against the delay.

Lodge said the United States is willing and ready to put the question on the Assembly work program or to postpone it — whatever the rest of the committee wanted. But he asked the committee whether Russian attack on the United States didn't mask another Communist aggression in the making.

France's Henri Hoppenot, supporting the delay move, hinted mysteriously that in a fortnight "events in Europe or here" might have taken a turn that will influence Vishinsky not to press his point. He did not explain what he meant although Vishinsky asked him to.

Vishinsky voiced Russian charges as well as Red China accusations that the United States was guilty of aggression against Formosa, which he called an integral part of China, and against Red mainland China.

Probers Hear Captain Video Explain Show

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—"Captain Video" stepped out of his space suit temporarily today to play a starring role before a Senate subcommittee probing the impact of TV crime and horror shows on teenagers.

The captain, whose off-stage name is Al Todge and who comes from New York City, said his six-year-old program never mentions the word "kill," makes no use of guns that shoot people dead—but only weapons which "immobilize, but don't pain."

Moreover, he told the subcommittee headed by Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ): "We don't use capital punishment. We confine our criminals in rehabilitation centers on the planet Ganymede."

Hendrickson asked:

"Captain, is there much tension in your show?"

"Well," said Hodge, "it is an adventure show." He emphasized the word "is."

The committee heard earlier testimony that some television crime and violence shows build up tensions in teenagers which provoke anxiety complexes sometimes followed by violence.

This morning the committee viewed excerpts from five films, all recently aired over television networks. One of these showed a man groaning in pain when an opponent's foot smashed down hard on the victim's hand.

Hendrickson said:

"Captain, in your show would you stomp on somebody's hand?"

Hodge said no, he wouldn't.

Asked whether he considered violence in teen-age TV shows a bad thing, Hodge said: "Violence is a nebulous word." He said the question came down to whether portrayal was in good taste and that he personally was completely opposed to "horror for horror's sake."

Herbert Beaser, subcommittee counsel, asked whether Hodge thinks a horror TV show could breed juvenile delinquents. Hodge said:

"I can't reconcile a TV program actually causing someone to become a juvenile delinquent."

Diplomats Walk Out On Moscow Informal Party

MOSCOW, Oct. 19 (AP) — Seven Western ambassadors walked out of a Burmese dinner party in Moscow yesterday rather than dine with Chinese Communists and European Soviet satellite representatives.

The diplomats had been invited to an "informal dinner" and were taken aback when they saw who was there.

The British were especially upset over the presence of East Germans.

Those who strode out of the Sovietskaya Hotel dining room were the British, Dutch, French, Norwegian, Canadian, Greek and United States ambassadors.

"We put on our coats and went," U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen said today.

Bohlen said that all seven ambassadors sent word to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, who also was present, expressing "personal regrets" for any appearance of snubbing him.

The Big Three Western ambassadors — U.S., British and French —called in correspondents today to explain the situation. They said they felt they had been forced into a situation which was completely untenable and which they claimed was either deliberate or stupid.

The entire diplomatic corps was invited by the Burmese Ambassador to the dinner on invitations reading: "Dear Colleagues: Hope you will be able to dine with me informally on the 18th of October."

For some reason this aroused suspicion among the diplomatic corps. One diplomat said he asked who was coming. He said he received the reply from Bermese Ambassador Maung Ohn: "I cannot possibly tell you who my guests are."

The Republican State chairman, Don Pierson, said in an interview that "Martin has been behind but I think our candidate is gaining pretty reasonable ground right along."

The big problem for the GOP, Pierson said, is to get Republicans to change their idea that Gillette is "almost a Republican."

"Our success," he said, "depends on getting our Republicans to vote, and then getting them to vote for a Republican and to stop voting for Gillette."

It isn't only Gillette and his bipartisan following that Martin and the GOP are bucking. Here, as in some other Midwestern states, there appears to be something of a trend toward the Democrats, some sort of subterranean undercurrent of indeterminate proportions fed partly by pools of discontent on the farms.

At the moment—and some Democrats will dispute this—this undercurrent evidently isn't running with the force needed to upset GOP control of the state government or to jar loose the Republican clutch on any of Iowa's eight House seats.

Iowa hasn't elected a Democratic governor for 18 years or a Democratic House member for 14.

In the gubernatorial race, it is Democrat Clyde E. Herring against Republican Leo A. Hoegh.

Herring is county attorney of Polk County (Des Moines) and the son of a former governor and U.S. senator. He has been basing his campaign largely on a plea to end "one-party rule" in Iowa, where Democratic representation in the Legislature is at a record low—7 members out of 158.

Hoegh is Iowa's attorney general. He has built his bid for the Statehouse around promises of "clean, honest government."

Hoegh was appointed attorney general by Gov. William S. Beardsley, who has had some troubles with the income tax collector but who has since won re-election. The Democrats are trying to tag Hoegh "Beardsley's boy."

Both Democrats and Republicans say the races in Iowa are by no means over and prospects could change before the Nov. 2 balloting.

If the apparent Democratic trend should turn into a real sweep it might overturn a Republican House member or two and Democrats say they would have a chance of capturing the Statehouse. If the trend is of minor proportions it might result merely in reducing the usual Republican margins of victory.

But it doesn't take much of a Democratic tide—perhaps none at all—to elect Gillette.

Martin Is In Danger

"Martin is the only Republican in danger right now. If Gillette has a chance, and he always does, it's because he's Gillette. Everybody likes him. He has some detractors but no enemies."

Martin, he says, has made a good congressman and has been doing a tremendous amount of political work over the state for far more than a year. But, he says, Martin isn't particularly aggressive, has a more retiring personality, and lacks Gillette's appearance, sparkle and color.

The senator is an imposing 6 feet 2, silver-haired, witty. To a lot of Iowans he looks just the way a senator should look. It has been said of him that he is the only person in Washington who could wear a toga to a masquerade and look like a Roman rather than a man in a nightshirt.

As he beats his way along the campaign trail, Gillette doesn't thrust out a hand to everybody on main street. He figures that if people are going to vote for him, they'll do it without his backing them up to the store fronts and attempting to extract their votes by verbal and manual pumping.

Yet the senator makes himself available. There was the fellow who came up with Gillette was eating breakfast, said he was a Republican but was going to vote for the senator because he likes what Gillette has done for the state.

Martin Does Handshake

Martin does use the hand-shaking technique as he criss-crosses the state for thousands of miles. He is shorter, stockier than Gillette. He, too, has a shock of white hair. If he can't come up to Gillette on political color, he still has a warm, pleasant way with people.

And he does appear to be making some headway with the theme that Iowa ought to support Eisenhower with an all-Republican congressional delegation. You run into people who think he's right on that, even though Gillette at times has voted with the Republicans rather than with his own party. Some of these persons have supported Gillette in the past.

Soviet Debate Demand Rejected

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. Oct. 19 (AP)—The U.N. Assembly Steering Committee decisively rejected Soviet demands today for immediate debate on American air and sea activity around Formosa and the ocean off the Red China mainland.

It voted 12-2 to postpone the question for 14 days after new and bitter exchanges in the committee between U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. and Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky. Russia and Czechoslovakia voted against the delay.

Lodge said the United States is willing and ready to put the question on the Assembly work program or to postpone it — whatever the rest of the committee wanted. But he asked the committee whether Russian attack on the United States didn't mask another Communist aggression in the making.

France's Henri Hoppenot, supporting the delay move, hinted mysteriously that in a fortnight "events in Europe or here" might have taken a turn that will influence Vishinsky not to press his point. He did not explain what he meant although Vishinsky asked him to.

Vishinsky voiced Russian charges as well as Red China accusations that the United States was guilty of aggression against Formosa, which he called an integral part of China, and against Red mainland China.

Probers Hear Captain Video Explain Show

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—"Captain Video" stepped out of his space suit temporarily today to play a starring role before a Senate subcommittee probing the impact of TV crime and horror shows on teenagers.

The captain, whose off-stage name is Al Todge and who comes from New York City, said his six-year-old program never mentions the word "kill," makes no use of guns that shoot people dead—but only weapons which "immobilize, but don't pain."

Moreover, he told the subcommittee headed by Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ): "We don't use capital punishment. We confine our criminals in rehabilitation centers on the planet Ganymede."

Hendrickson asked:

"Captain, is there much tension in your show?"

"Well," said Hodge, "it is an adventure show." He emphasized the word "is."

The committee heard earlier testimony that some television crime and violence shows build up tensions in teenagers which provoke anxiety complexes sometimes followed by violence.

This morning the committee viewed excerpts from five films, all recently aired over television networks. One of these showed a man groaning in pain when an opponent's foot smashed down hard on the victim's hand.

Hendrickson said:

"Captain, in your show would you stomp on somebody's hand?"

Hodge said no, he wouldn't.

Asked whether he considered violence in teen-age TV shows a bad thing, Hodge said: "Violence is a nebulous word." He said the question came down to whether portrayal was in good taste and that he personally was completely opposed to "horror for horror's sake."

Herbert Beaser, subcommittee counsel, asked whether Hodge thinks a horror TV show could breed juvenile delinquents. Hodge said:

"I can't reconcile a TV program actually causing someone to become a juvenile delinquent."

Diplomats Walk Out On Moscow Informal Party

MOSCOW, Oct. 19 (AP) — Seven Western ambassadors walked out of a Burmese dinner party in Moscow yesterday rather than dine with Chinese Communists and European Soviet satellite representatives.

The diplomats had been invited to an "informal dinner" and were taken aback when they saw who was there.

The British were especially upset over the presence of East Germans.

Those who strode out of the Sovietskaya Hotel dining room were the British, Dutch, French, Norwegian, Canadian, Greek and United States ambassadors.

"We put on our coats and went," U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen said today.

Bohlen said that all seven ambassadors sent word to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, who also was present, expressing "personal regrets" for any appearance of snubbing him.

The Big Three Western ambassadors — U.S., British and French —called in correspondents today to explain the situation. They said they felt they had been forced into a situation which was completely untenable and which they claimed was either deliberate or stupid.

The entire diplomatic corps was invited by the Burmese Ambassador to the dinner on invitations reading: "Dear Colleagues: Hope you will be able to dine with me informally on the 18th of October."

For some reason this aroused suspicion among the diplomatic corps. One diplomat said he asked who was coming. He said he received the reply from Bermese Ambassador Maung Ohn: "I cannot possibly tell you who my guests are."

Bathurst Says W. German Pact Will Be Signed

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BONN, Germany, Oct. 19 (AP) — British legal adviser Maurice Bathurst predicted today the four-nation pact restoring to West Germany almost all the rights of a fully sovereign nation will be signed in Paris this week.

Under Bathurst's chairmanship, British, American, French and German experts have worked night and day for more than a week to prepare for the Paris foreign ministers' conference a protocol ending the nine-year occupation.

It was dispatched to the governments yesterday with a few holes in it. Bathurst told reporters, however, the remaining points could be settled swiftly either by his committee, which meets in Paris Wednesday, or the four foreign ministers themselves.

The series of documents transferring supreme control of West Germany from the three occupation powers to the Bonn government will require parliamentary ratification in Bonn, Paris and London. The U. S. Congress has already authorized the restoration of West German sovereignty.

The agreement will be substantially the same as the Bonn conventions, signed in 1952, which were to complement the now-dead European army pact. The committee's main task has been to revise these conventions. For one thing, all references to EDC had to be eliminated.

The broad intention of the protocol and five attached schedules is to:

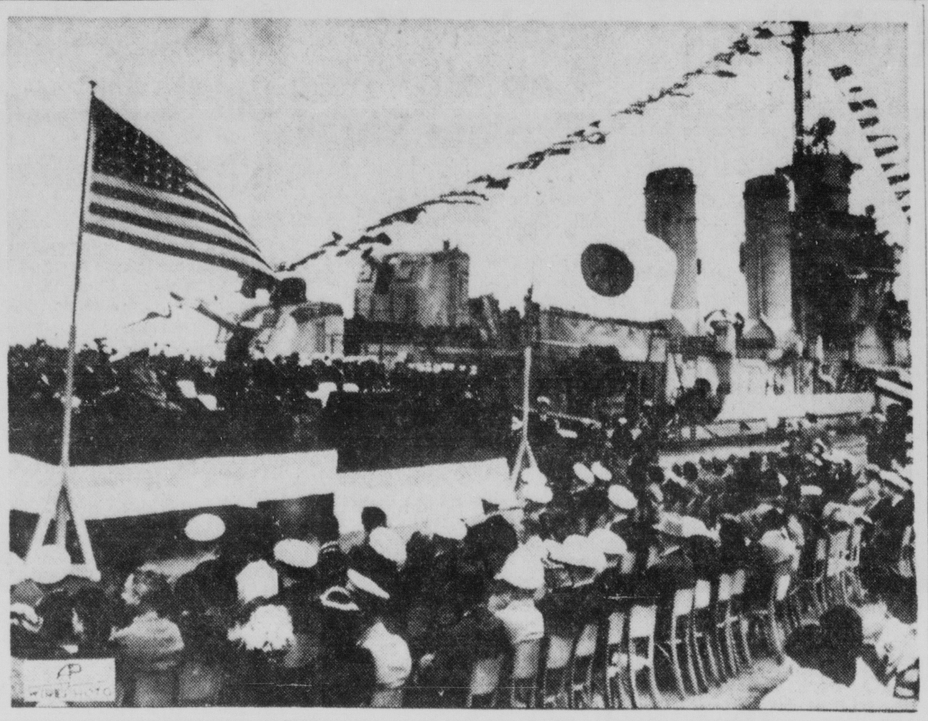

1. Give the Bonn government full control of its internal and external affairs.

2. Provide for the continued presence and security of Allied forces in West Germany and West Berlin.

3. Preserve the Allied position in dealing with the Russians on the security of Berlin, reunification of Germany and the conclusion of a final peace treaty between the World War II Allies and Germany.

Some provisions are temporary, to bridge any gap between West Germany's achievement of sovereignty and her admittance to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

For instance the Allied Military Security Board — watchdog for the Allied prohibitions on German rearmament — will be abolished by the sovereignty protocol, Bathurst said. But an Allied-German commission will be set up to handle arms control questions until West Germany is a member of NATO and bound by whatever common controls are agreed upon in Paris. This body will make decisions by majority vote.

SHIPS TRANSFERRED TO JAPAN — In ceremonies yesterday at the Charleston Naval Shipyard, Rear Adm. Harry Sanders, commander of the United States Atlantic Fleet Mine Force, decommissions the USS destroyers USS Ellyson and Macomb just before the two veteran warships were transferred to the Japanese government. Accepting for Japan was Ambassador to the U. S. Sadeo Iguchi.

Judge Denies Negro In Suit

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 19 (AP)—Federal District Judge Stephen S. Chandler today held the Oklahoma law requiring the word Negro after a candidate's name was not discrimination and a violation of constitutional rights.

Chandler dismissed a $200,000 damage action by A. B. McDonald, Oklahoma City Negro real estate operator.

Ohio River Now Below Flood Stage

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Ohio River was cresting below flood stages at all downstream points today.

After surging from its banks and causing great damage during the past weekend from Pittsburgh to Wheeling, W. Va., the rain-swollen river faded from a flood threat to mere "high waters" in most spots.

Schine's Request For Investigative Experience Denied

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 19 (AP)—Pfc. G. David Schine, one of the Army's better known GI's, was reported to have been turned down yesterday on his request that he be allowed to pick up some investigative experience on his own time.

He later flew from here to Los Angeles. Military sources said he is on furlough until Nov. 3 when he is due to report to Ft. Lewis prior to an Alaska assignment as a military policeman.

Mayor Critical Of Flood News

WHEELING, W.Va., Oct. 19 (AP)—Mayor Charles J. Shuck of Wheeling today criticized accounts of the Ohio River flood here last weekend.

"Great damage has been done our community by the gross exaggeration on the part of the newspapers, television and radio concerning the recent rise of the Ohio River here," the mayor said in a statement.

"Only a small percentage of areas were slightly inundated, and less than a 100 families were forced to leave their homes for a period of 24 hours. Business continued as usual and actual damage was nominal," the mayor added.

Three Tulane U. Students Guilty In Panty Raid

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19 (AP)—Three Tulane University students were convicted today of disturbing the peace following a panty raid by 500 male students at a girls' dormitory on the Tulane campus.

Judge Paul Garafalo found the three students guilty in Municipal Court.

Jerry Wells, 17, of Los Angeles, Calif., and Richard Bowen, 20, Columbus, Ohio, were given $20 fine or 20 day sentences. Tommy James, 20, Shreveport, La., was given a $10 fine or 10 days sentence.

The raiding party swarmed into the dormitory last night as police rushed every available car and crash truck to the campus. Someone touched off a fire alarm and 10 pieces of firefighting equipment sped to the campus.

Wallace, Taylor Knew Party Red

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Senate Internal Security subcommittee today made public sworn testimony that Henry A. Wallace and Glen Taylor headed the Progressive party ticket in 1948 "with full knowledge" the party was under Communist control.

Wallace is a former Democratic vice president. Taylor is now seeking election as Democratic senator from Idaho. He had served a prior term as senator.

Fists Break Up Deputy Meeting

ROME, Oct. 19 (AP)—Italy's Chamber of Deputies broke up in a fist-swinging brawl tonight as Christian Democrats and Communists called each other "Fascist."

The outburst forced temporary suspension of the session which had been drawing near a vote of confidence on Italy's settlement with Yugoslavia of the Trieste dispute. The Senate has already passed a similar vote.

Shrieking "scoundrels," "idiots," "madmen," and "sons of dogs," the angered Communist left poured from its seats and struggled to reach the center benches.

Chamber President Giovanni Gronchi shouted for order, then blasted on his whistle which brought a stream of husky ushers down the aisles to forcibly hold the Communists back.

The disorder broke out when Christian Democrat Deputy Giuseppe Togni denounced the Communists as "subjects of a nation which is not Italy and to laws not made in Rome. . . ."

Communists shrieked "fascist" at him and he yelled "fascist" right back.

Highway Travel Is Nearing Normal

Highway travel is nearing normal in this area, and the telephone and power situation is back in efficient operation after cleaning up Hurricane Hazel.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, said Garrett County, hit hard by slides, has two-way traffic on all main roads. Allegany County roads are in good shape, he said.

Slides have been cleaned up at the trouble spots, Gorman, Kitzmiller and on the Jennings-Grantsville road, Chaires said.

The bridge into Friendsville on Route 42 over Bear Creek is open for two-way traffic, but the deck has not been repaved.

All water and slide damage will be cleaned up by the end of the week, Chaires said.

C. Walter Haschert Jr., manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, said the repair task was completed as the last of some 800 phones was restored to service.

He said not more than 600 phones were out at one time as the result of rain and wind. There was no damage to phone lines or poles from flood waters in Cumberland, he added.

Haschert said 16 repairmen from here were sent to the Eastern Shore Sunday to help restore communications in that area, which was hard hit by the hurricane.

Line department crews from the Potomac Edison Company have been "loaned" to neighboring utilities to help in repairing damage wrought by Hurricane Hazel.

After making necessary major repairs on lines in the Cumberland area, the crews were dispatched to the Alexandria, Baltimore and Washington sections which suffered much more from the big blow than did Potomac Edison Company customers here.

Fundamentalists Meet Tomorrow

The Laymen's Christian Fundamentalist Association of Cumberland will hold a seminar on Soteriology tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in the Malta Hall, 67 Prospect Square.

Dr. R. W. Trevaskis Sr., secretary, will give a review of "Anagennesis", the subject discussed at the September seminar.

W. Carl Richards, moderator, will lead the discussion of "Fides Generalis and Fides Specialis," the current subject for discussion.

County Roads Storm Damage Is Discussed

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners was informed that it will take about three months to repair county roads and bridges damaged by the terrific rainstorm last Friday and Saturday

J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, estimates that it will cost at least $75,000 to place roadways and bridges in good condition. Road workers are busy repairing bridges and roads which were hit hardest.

Creek Area Worst

The Georges Creek area had the worst damage with more than 1,000 feet of Laurel Run Road being washed out. The commissioners yesterday decided to have this road filled in by private contract. This is necessary because the county does not have enough heavy equipment to do the work quickly.

While the Laurel Run Road work is under way county equipment will be used on the Beechwood Road near Lonaconing. Residents in areas served by these two roads are unable to drive their cars to and from work and access is also denied other vehicles which would use the two thoroughfares.

Two bridges were damaged on the Beechwood Road, with one collapsing under the weight of a loaded coal truck. The eastern section of the county was not as hard hit with recent ditching of roads aiding this section. One-way traffic is in effect at a number of points east of Cumberland.

New Type Plating

Chapman was also authorized to purchase a new type structural steel bridge plating for the bridge on the New Row Road at Mt. Savage.

The steel plating is corrugated and is welded to the bridge stringers. After it is in place a light coating of bituminous surfacing is applied. The cost of the steel plates for the 28 foot long bridge is estimated at $985.

Chapman said this is several hundred dollars more than for wooden planking but the steel plates are more enduring and will carry a heavier load. The bridge will carry traffic from State Route 36 to the new Mt. Savage School.

Want Ditch Filled

A group of firemen from the District 16 Volunteer Fire Company appeared before the board to ask that a ditch in front of their driveway be filled in to allow equipment to answer blazes in that neighborhood.

It was pointed out to the men that on August 19 the county road grader had shaped up the road in that section and no complaint had been received until yesterday. The heavy rain over the weekend deepened a ditch in front of the fire hall, it was said.

County Roads Supervisor Chapman commented that the fire hall grounds were built about four feet higher than the roadway and in time of rain the surface water runs onto the driveway. Installation of a drain pipe would allow surface water to run off and provide a smooth driveway, the commissioners pointed out.

Local PTA Group Appoints Officer

Mrs. Charles Fields was appointed financial secretary of the Parent-Teacher Association of SS. Peter and Paul School at a meeting Sunday afternoon in the SS. Peter and Paul Parish Hall.

She succeeds Mrs. Raymond Kammauf, who resigned, John Wolfhope, president, announced.

James B. Reinhart, chairman of the safety committee, reported the school has a staff of 30 patrolmen.

A by-laws committee named is comprised of Edward Brookman, Harry I. Stegmaier, and Clement May.

Mrs. C. O. Newnam and the committee of home room mothers will continue the weekly card parties Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the parish hall for the benefit of the school repair fund.

The combined Sixth and Seventh Grade room taught by Sister Gabriel won the attendance award.

Highway Travel Is Nearing Normal

Highway travel is nearing normal in this area, and the telephone and power situation is back in efficient operation after cleaning up Hurricane Hazel.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, said Garrett County, hit hard by slides, has two-way traffic on all main roads. Allegany County roads are in good shape, he said.

Slides have been cleaned up at the trouble spots, Gorman, Kitzmiller and on the Jennings-Grantsville road, Chaires said.

The bridge into Friendsville on Route 42 over Bear Creek is open for two-way traffic, but the deck has not been repaved.

All water and slide damage will be cleaned up by the end of the week, Chaires said.

C. Walter Haschert Jr., manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, said the repair task was completed as the last of some 800 phones was restored to service.

He said not more than 600 phones were out at one time as the result of rain and wind. There was no damage to phone lines or poles from flood waters in Cumberland, he added.

Haschert said 16 repairmen from here were sent to the Eastern Shore Sunday to help restore communications in that area, which was hard hit by the hurricane.

Line department crews from the Potomac Edison Company have been "loaned" to neighboring utilities to help in repairing damage wrought by Hurricane Hazel.

After making necessary major repairs on lines in the Cumberland area, the crews were dispatched to the Alexandria, Baltimore and Washington sections which suffered much more from the big blow than did Potomac Edison Company customers here.

Fundamentalists Meet Tomorrow

The Laymen's Christian Fundamentalist Association of Cumberland will hold a seminar on Soteriology tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in the Malta Hall, 67 Prospect Square.

Dr. R. W. Trevaskis Sr., secretary, will give a review of "Anagennesis", the subject discussed at the September seminar.

W. Carl Richards, moderator, will lead the discussion of "Fides Generalis and Fides Specialis," the current subject for discussion.

County Roads Storm Damage Is Discussed

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners was informed that it will take about three months to repair county roads and bridges damaged by the terrific rainstorm last Friday and Saturday

J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, estimates that it will cost at least $75,000 to place roadways and bridges in good condition. Road workers are busy repairing bridges and roads which were hit hardest.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (INS)—Bit by bit and ever so subtly your life is being altered by the United Nations.

This is not an easy fact to accept or a verdict to swallow. For countless generations the nations of the world have gone their separate ways grouping periodically to saturate the earth with blood, panting through a few years of peace generally marked by expressions that war as a means of settling international disputes must be outlawed.

Moral leaders of the stature of Christ and material forces as overpowering as Caesar's legions and, centuries later, the British navy, have sought to bring a permanent peace to man—and failed because of man's own perverseness. The League of Nations, till then history's most important step toward accord, lasted only as long as Russia, Japan, Mussolini and Hitler wanted it to last.

The United Nations is nine years old. It permanent headquarters in mid-town New York has become the No. 1 tourist attraction of the city. But it is not a well-known organization. Nor, by and large, a trusted one — though representatives of 60 nations are here dedicated to work for peace as they understand the meaning of the word.

This week the American Association for the U.N. and the National Education Association are doing what they can to explain U.N. to the hesitant people. It is United Nations week.

What's U. N. done? Well, it stopped what could have been one of history's goriest wars, the one between India and Pakistan over Kashmir. It broke up what the Dutch called a "police action" in Indonesia — an action that gave every promise of spreading through Southeast Asia — and brought about a cease-fire and Indonesian independence.

It cleaned up the war in Palestine. It had nothing to do with getting the U. S. involved in the Korean War. We were committed to protect South Korea and sent troops there hours before U.N. met to back that move. Its eventual contributions were limited, but it changed the war from a U.S. vs. the communists war to a U.N. versus the communists conflict. It established the precedent of being ready to fight further Red aggression.

If you pay $350 a year taxes, 75 cents of it goes to pay our share in the operation of U.N. Much of that six-bits is used to fight disease and raise the level of living in underprivileged lands. Lands that buy from us in ever-increasing volume each year. But the main object is peace.

"The task of maintaining peace and upholding the fundamental principles of freedom and justice is staggering in today's world," says V. J. Skutt, national chairman of U.N. week and president and chairman of the board of Mutual of Omaha. "The United Nations remains the one instrument which can enable us to find a way."

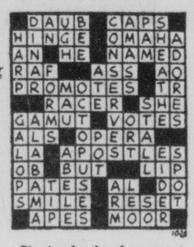

Henry Ford II adds, "had there been no U.N., the world might even now be locked in an atomic war and, at the very least, it is probable that millions of the world's people—many of them Americans —would have died violently in the past eight years."

U.N. has a great number of flaws, some of them to be mended next year when the charter is revised. It has no means of enforcing its will by arms, nor does that seem to be its intention. Much of its most enduring work goes almost unnoticed: for example the testing of 36,000,000 children for TB and the inoculation of 18,000,000 of these; the quelling of a cholera epidemic in Egypt (1947) for the first time in history, etc.

In a sense, U.N. is something like Congress. Ignore it by staying away from the polls, and rascals in time take over. U.N. takes a little knowing, a comprehension of its weakness so that these can be strengthened, and an acknowledgment that it's a lot better than no organization at all.

Henry Ford II adds, "had there been no U.N., the world might even now be locked in an atomic war and, at the very least, it is probable that millions of the world's people—many of them Americans —would have died violently in the past eight years."

U.N. has a great number of flaws, some of them to be mended next year when the charter is revised. It has no means of enforcing its will by arms, nor does that seem to be its intention. Much of its most enduring work goes almost unnoticed: for example the testing of 36,000,000 children for TB and the inoculation of 18,000,000 of these; the quelling of a cholera epidemic in Egypt (1947) for the first time in history, etc.

In a sense, U.N. is something like Congress. Ignore it by staying away from the polls, and rascals in time take over. U.N. takes a little knowing, a comprehension of its weakness so that these can be strengthened, and an acknowledgment that it's a lot better than no organization at all.

Each of the next 25 winners will receive a certificate worth $15.00 when applied against the purchase of any major electric appliance sold in the stores of this Company.

THIS CONTEST IS OPEN ONLY TO CUSTOMERS OF THE POTOMAC EDISON SYSTEM AND THEIR FAMILIES

FREE LIGHT BULB TO EVERY ENTRANT

Every entrant in this contest who completes an official entry blank in accordance with the rules and turns it in at a Potomac Edison System store will receive a 100 watt light bulb free. In addition, every entrant will be competing for one of the 44 big prizes.

IT'S EASY—All you have to do is check what you believe to be the proper answers in Part I of the Contest Blank, then complete in 25 words or less, the statement, "I think the modern electric way is the best way to cook because_____." There's nothing to buy, nothing to sell, no gimmicks of any kind, so read the hints below and then start your entry. Have other members of your family enter too. You can get additional entry blanks at our store.

HERE ARE SOME HINTS—why the Modern Electric Way is the best way to cook. Don't try to cover all of them in your entry. Just pick the one or two features that appeal to you most.

- CLEAN—no smoke or soot to soil walls, woodwork and curtains.
- COOL—because no air is needed for flame it is possible to insulate completely.
- SAFE—nothing to leak, spill, burn or explode.
- PRODUCES PERFECT RESULTS—precision controls assure the exact temperatures recipes call for.
- AUTOMATIC—time and temperature settings permit complete control of cooking, even though cook is away from house.
- ECONOMICAL—only a few cents a day plus big savings through less spoilage.
- HEALTHFUL—preserves more of health promoting vitamins, minerals and natural juices.
- MODERN—most recent, most scientific, most automatic and most convenient way of cooking ever developed.
- EFFICIENT—no waste of heat, complete control.

There are many other features. If you don't already know them go to your electric range dealer for a free demonstration.

SIMPLE RULES—

1. Clip the entry blank in this advertisement or obtain one from our nearest store.
2. Complete the blank in accordance with instructions, turn it in at your electric company store and receive a free 100 watt bulb.
3. All entries must be received in our stores before 5:00 P.M., Saturday, November 13, 1954.
4. You may make as many entries as you wish but all entries must be on official blanks.
5. This contest is limited to customers of the electric companies comprising the Potomac Edison System and members of their families.
6. Employes of any of the companies comprising the Potomac Edison System and members of their immediate families are not eligible to compete.
7. All entries become the property of The Potomac Edison Company to use as desired.
8. The decision of the judges will be final.
9. In cases of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.
10. Winners will be notified by mail and their names will be published in this paper.
11. If winner prefers electric appliances other than those designated as prize, the retail value of the prize won may be applied against the retail price of any other electric appliance sold by this Company.

Kenneweg Co. Liquidation Is Planned

The Kenneweg Company, one of the oldest wholesalers in the general grocery line in this area, is liquidating its business, W. E. White, chairman of the board, announced yesterday.

Liquidation should be complete by the first of the year, White said, adding there is a considerable stock to be moved.

Established here in 1890, the wholesale business occupies the historic, old building at 184 Baltimore Street. Originally located directly across the street, the concern moved to the present headquarters in 1894.

An office is also maintained at Meyersdale.

White said the liquidation will affect approximately 30 employes.

In explaining the decision to liquidate, White said a majority of company stock is owned by heirs of the Lynn Estate, none of whom resides here. They wish to invest in enterprises nearer their homes, he added.

White said no decision has been made for disposition of the building.

Kenneweg has served Allegany and Garrett counties in Maryland; Mineral, Hampshire, Hardy and Tucker counties in West Virginia and Bedford and Somerset counties in Pennsylvania.

The Kenneweg Building has three stories and a siding on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

C. F. Kenneweg formed the business in 1890 when he came to Cumberland from Pittsburgh. In 1893, the Kenneweg Company was incorporated with a capital of $150,000.

The officers were E. H. Welch, president; D. P. Miller, vice president; and John G. Lynn Jr., secretary-treasurer.

These three and F. W. King and W. E. White, the current board chairman, formed the Board of Directors.

In 1907 Kenneweg disposed of his holdings in the company and retired in Pittsburgh.

MORE THAN PROTECTION

There's more to a Woodmen membership than its unexcelled life insurance protection.

A patient in Woodmen War Memorial Hospital, San Antonio, where Woodmen who have been members a year or more and are afflicted with tuberculosis, freely receive the best health-restoring care, wrote the following on "Why I Am A Woodman":

"I am proud because the Woodmen of the World provides such wonderful protection and contributes so freely to other worthy causes. I have the satisfaction of a contented, peaceful mind knowing that my loved ones are secured by the strongest fraternal insurance society in the world. I am proud to be a Woodman because of the excellent treatment offered our afflicted members."

Free treatment at Woodmen War Memorial Hospital is but one of many plus benefits Woodmen receive with safe, sound, legal reserve life insurance their Society provides them at cost. Cost Of Gasoline Cut Temporarily

A temporary competitive allowance at the refinery or wholesale level has resulted in a reduction in the price of gasoline here.

The drop is 3.7 cents on both regular and premium (high test) motor fuel, sources from two major companies said.

One spokesman said the reduction is a voluntary reduction by the company and can be removed at any time.

A service station operator explained that the tank wagon price remains the same. The reduction passed on to the public is the result of the voluntary allowance granted by the company, he said.

Regular gas, at some stations, is selling for 24.9 cents a gallon, and high test at 27.9 and 28.9 cents a gallon depending on brand.

Five Amcelle Workers Win Service Awards

Five workers at the Amcelle plant have been honored for the completion of 25 years of service with the Celanese Corporation of America.

Harold A. Bosley, RFD 5, Potomac Park, completed his quarter century of service at Amcelle Monday. He was presented a gold pocket watch by R. Finley Thompson, plant manager.

Bosley works in Bobbin Stores, where he operates a machine that cuts colored Celaperm yarn into staple fiber.

He is married and has ree girls, one boy and one grandchild. His favorite hobby is hunting.

Miss Evelyn M. May, Cresaptown; Henry A. Lease, Cresaptown; Raymond D. Shank, 99 James Street, and Joseph A. Rohman, Route 2, Williams Road, were presented gold watches Friday.

Miss May is an operator in the Down-Twisting Department of Textile. Although born in Boynton, Pa., she has been a Cresaptown resident most of her life. In 25 years, she has been furloughed only once—for 25 days in 1930. Almost all of her outside activities are connected with the Cresaptown Methodist Church and flower growing

Lease is a helper on the steam and gasoline cranes. He is married and the father of six living children—two girls and four boys—all of whom are married except one boy who is in the Army. His hobbies are watching baseball and softball.

Shank is a machinist in Textile Engineering, but at various times at Amcelle has worked at two other trades—millwright and carpenter.

He is married and the father of two girls and one boy. He is affiliated with Lodge 662, Loyal Order of Moose. His favorite sport is hunting.

Rohman is a foreman in Spinning Engineering where preparatory work is being done on the new Celanese product "Arnel." Most of his work life has been spent in the Cellulose Acetate Engineering Section as a foreman and pipefitter.

He is a widower and has one son. He is a member of Loyal Order of Moose, Lodge 271.

Cost Of Gasoline Cut Temporarily

A temporary competitive allowance at the refinery or wholesale level has resulted in a reduction in the price of gasoline here.

The drop is 3.7 cents on both regular and premium (high test) motor fuel, sources from two major companies said.

One spokesman said the reduction is a voluntary reduction by the company and can be removed at any time.

A service station operator explained that the tank wagon price remains the same. The reduction passed on to the public is the result of the voluntary allowance granted by the company, he said.

Regular gas, at some stations, is selling for 24.9 cents a gallon, and high test at 27.9 and 28.9 cents a gallon depending on brand.

Five Amcelle Workers Win Service Awards

Five workers at the Amcelle plant have been honored for the completion of 25 years of service with the Celanese Corporation of America.

Harold A. Bosley, RFD 5, Potomac Park, completed his quarter century of service at Amcelle Monday. He was presented a gold pocket watch by R. Finley Thompson, plant manager.

Bosley works in Bobbin Stores, where he operates a machine that cuts colored Celaperm yarn into staple fiber.

He is married and has ree girls, one boy and one grandchild. His favorite hobby is hunting.

Miss Evelyn M. May, Cresaptown; Henry A. Lease, Cresaptown; Raymond D. Shank, 99 James Street, and Joseph A. Rohman, Route 2, Williams Road, were presented gold watches Friday.

Miss May is an operator in the Down-Twisting Department of Textile. Although born in Boynton, Pa., she has been a Cresaptown resident most of her life. In 25 years, she has been furloughed only once—for 25 days in 1930. Almost all of her outside activities are connected with the Cresaptown Methodist Church and flower growing.

Lease is a helper on the steam and gasoline cranes. He is married and the father of six living children—two girls and four boys—all of whom are married except one boy who is in the Army. His hobbies are watching baseball and softball.

Shank is a machinist in Textile Engineering, but at various times at Amcelle has worked at two other trades—millwright and carpenter.

He is married and the father of two girls and one boy. He is affiliated with Lodge 662, Loyal Order of Moose. His favorite sport is hunting.

Rohman is a foreman in Spinning Engineering where preparatory work is being done on the new Celanese product "Arnel." Most of his work life has been spent in the Cellulose Acetate Engineering Section as a foreman and pipefitter.

He is a widower and has one son. He is a member of Loyal Order of Moose, Lodge 271.

MORE THAN PROTECTION

There's more to a Woodmen membership than its unexcelled life insurance protection.

A patient in Woodmen War Memorial Hospital, San Antonio, where Woodmen who have been members a year or more and are afflicted with tuberculosis, freely receive the best health-restoring care, wrote the following on "Why I Am A Woodman":

"I am proud because the Woodmen of the World provides such wonderful protection and contributes so freely to other worthy causes. I have the satisfaction of a contented, peaceful mind knowing that my loved ones are secured by the strongest fraternal insurance society in the world. I am proud to be a Woodman because of the excellent treatment offered our afflicted members."

Free treatment at Woodmen War Memorial Hospital is but one of many plus benefits Woodmen receive with safe, sound, legal reserve life insurance their Society provides them at cost. City Receives Blueprints For Market Street Bridge

Mayor Roy W. Eves announced last night that final plans for the new Market Street Bridge have been received from the J. E. Greiner Company of Baltimore.

The span is one of three bridges across Wills Creek which the city will replace in connection with the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection program.

Mayor Eves said the plans for the bridge will be studied by the Mayor and Council before any formal action is taken.

Construction of the steel span will be scheduled after the new Valley Street Bridge is opened to traffic.

Work on the span is being rushed toward completion by the S. T. Brotemarkle Construction Company.

The concrete deck for the bridge has all been poured and workers are now building forms for curbing and sidewalks.

City officials said the contractor has advised them he hopes to complete the project by the end of the year.

The third new bridge, at Baltimore Street, is to be the last of the new spans, and will likely be built several years from now, when the Corps of Engineers schedules further swift-channel improvement work on Wills Creek.

The Brotemarkle firm is also making progress on a second city-federal project, the Frederick Street improvement program.

Officials said the firm has already laid most of the storm sewer needed and plans to complete grading work this fall.

This would put the firm in position to begin paving work as soon as the construction season begins next spring.

Ryan Visits Three Counties In One Day

FREDERICK, Oct. 19 (AP) — Edward J. Ryan, Frostburg attorney running for Maryland's 6th District congressional seat, touched three of the district's five counties in his campaigning today.

He started out in Montgomery County.

By noon he had moved to Frederick County, making no formal appearances but devoting his time to hand-shaking tours of several communities.

On his evening schedule was a Democratic dinner at Williamsport, in Washington County.

Roche Trial Set To Begin Nov. 18

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP) — The murder trial of David Eugene Roche, former city employe charged with poisoning his young wife last August, was set today for Nov. 18.

Judge Emory H. Niles, scheduled to preside at the trial, set the date today after a brief hearing on defense motions to require the State to provide the results of a chemical anaylsis and other evidence.

Wins Confidence Vote

ROME, Wednesday, Oct. 20 (AP)—Premier Mario Scelba won a vote of confidence on the Trieste issue today in the brawling Chamber of Deputies. The vote was 295 to 265.

A baked ham supper and bazaar will be held by the Navy Mothers Club tomorrow from 5 until 7 at the VFW home. Tickets may be purchased at the door. The meeting will follow.

Rites Planned For Victim Of Lake Drowning

Mrs. Edward Moon's Body Is Recovered

A funeral service for Mrs. Elinor Lois Moon, 26, of near Oakland, whose body was recovered yesterday morning from the waters of Deep Creek Lake beneath the Glendale Bridge, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in Maple Springs Church.

Interment will be in the church cemetery. Rev. Paul Crumbley and Rev. William Renn will officiate.

Mrs. Moon, who had been missing since early Monday morning, was located with the use of grappling hooks, and her body was recovered at 10:45 a. m. yesterday by Frank Schell of Route 219 north of Oakland.

Dragging operations began shortly after the auto in which Mrs. Moon had driven her husband to work was found abandoned about 1,000 feet from the bridge.

Volunteer firemen, National Guard members and employes of the State Department of Forests and Parks joined in the search with members of the Sheriff's Office and the Maryland State Police.

The search was discontinued temporarily Monday night and was resumed again yesterday morning.

Mrs. Moon reportedly had been in ill health since Easter. She and her husband, Edward G. Moon, had been married only about 10 months.

A native of Oakland, she was born September 24, 1928, and was a daughter of Walter and Pearl (Swires) Schlosnagle, who reside near Oakland. She was a member of the Church of the Brethren at Maple Springs.

Surviving, besides her parents and husband, are her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Amanda Huff; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Cathryn Roth, Cleveland; Mrs. Margaret Jean Arnold, Gormania; Miss Linda Joy Schlosnagle, at home, and two brothers, Walter Dale and David Wayne Schlosnagle, at home.

The body is at the Bolden Funeral Home in Oakland.

Japan Accepts Two U.S. Navy Destroyers

CHARLESTON, S.C., Oct. 19 (AP)—Japanese crews marched aboard two American destroyers today and ran up the flag of the Rising Sun.

Ambassador Sadao Iguchi, accepting the loan of the slim, trim, fully-armed ships, said they would "become the nucleus of the defense on the seas we are now building up."

With speechmaking done and papers signed, the American crews of the ex-Ellyson and ex-Macomb trooped off their ships and Japanese crews filed aboard. The new crews have been training here since Sept. 1, working with United States crewmen and officers.

Vote Republican On November 2

In a little less than two weeks Allegany Countians again will cast their ballots to select their leaders for another four years.

The Cumberland News urges you to vote Republican when you go to the polls on Tuesday, November 2. You will find in a study of the candidates that the Republican party offers you the experience, capability and knowledge needed for the most satisfactory and successful conduct of government.

With the national administration Republican under the wise leadership of Dwight Eisenhower, it is only logical to realize that in order to get the most out of our government that it be Republican all the way.

With Republican leadership nationally as well as on the state and county level, it follows naturally that legislation for our benefit will not be delayed or perhaps lost in the red tape that evolves when the opposition tries to throw a block into the majority party's machinery.

Some Republicans are assured of election because they have no opposition from the Democrats but there are others who face a contest and their success will be assured only if each and every Republican votes on election day for the Republican candidates.

Now is no time for lethargy. Even Governor McKeldin, who has given Maryland a progressive and efficient administration and deserves to be returned to office, feels that his race for re-election may be close.

You may be certain that the Democrats are working hard to return the governorship to their party and to grab as many other offices as they can. In sports vernacular they are "hungry" because they haven't had a winner.

If there are any animosities, jealousies or ill feelings of any kind among Republicans, they should be forgotten now and all forces should join together to put on a united, hard-hitting drive to assure the party's success at the polls on November 2.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Spies

Nations during war and peace have always employed spies of one kind or another. Generally, while the espionage is welcome, the spies are not always unsavory persons. They are often suspected of selling whatever information they collect to both sides. The most modern practice is to organize espionage professionally because so many technical phases are involved, including the stealing and breaking of codes. All esiponage work of the American government is centered in the CIA. The Russians not only employ the MVD (formerly NKVD and the GPU) for this purpose, but also the Fourth Bureau of the Army and the International Communist organization. Theirs is an extremely complicated enterprise.

Espionage is an ordinary operation of statecraft and each spy is an expendable person. Noel and Hermann Field, Americans, were believed by the Russians to have been double or triple agents. They are now probably dead. Whittaker Chambers and Elizabeth Bentley have told their story and several Americans are in prison because of them, including Alger Hiss. However, espionage organizations are built on the assumption that here and there a spy will betray his employers or will disappear off the face of the earth. Such persons are immediately replaced and the work goes on.

It is stupid to believe that because some have been uncovered in this country or in Great Britain or France that others have not gone to work in their stead. Both espionage and counter-espionage must be continuing jobs. For instance, it must be assumed that someone took the place of Dr. Otto John in West Germany before John exposed himself by going over to East Germany. He may even have trained his successor.

The current explosion over espionage in France is more serious than usual because such important figures are involved, but those in France are not in more important posts than Harry Dexter White held or than some of the 39 Americans in the United Nations, who were brought before the federal grand jury in New York or before the McCarran Committee, held.

It is very difficult to prove espionage in a country such as ours because spies naturally do not arrange to be caught. Abraham Brothman, for instance, who was engaged in "industrial espionage," was convicted, not for espionage, but for obstructing justice in the Harry Gold case. Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were condemned to death for their espionage activities, but Dr. Klaus Fuchs only got a sentence of 14 years in England for doing the same thing. True Fuchs confessed and the Rosenbergs did not, but without Fuchs' confession the Gold-Greenglass-Rosenberg outfit in this country might never have been convicted. As a matter of fact, the FBI and the United States attorney in New York came close to them several years before they were actually indicted and always failed to make the connection.

The case of Joseph Petersen, research analyst of the National Security Agency, which has to do with secret codes, is still in the hush-hush stage because a friendly power is involved, according to the best information available at the moment. We do not even know what he is actually arrested for. What seems to be involved is that agents placed in right spots with friendly powers can receive data for the use of an unfriendly power. By this system of indirection, a cover is provided both for the spy in this country and the spies in some other country because contact with the enemy is never provable. It means that there can be no security in such an international body as NATO. If information and data that must be passed among allies can be diverted to the enemy, the danger to successful united action is very great, indeed.

For instance, if what we told our allies during the Korean War was repeated to the Kremlin, it is sound to assume that such a Red Chinese commander as Lin Piao knew what was to happen before MacArthur did. General MacArthur was puzzled by this condition which he recognized, but he was not aware of the mechanism for the leak. The disappearance of Guy Burgess and Donald MacLean, British Foreign Office men of importance, behind the iron curtain may never be correctly explained, but the accepted inference is that they were engaged in espionage and if so, their knowledge was sufficiently important to have them removed from detention and imprisonment in their own country.

The Old Rug Trick

Truman Gives Best Arguments For Election Of GOP

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Former President Truman has made a speech which, for sheer political blundering, exceeds anything that has yet emerged in the present campaign. He has asked for the election of a Democratic Congress supposedly to help President Eisenhower carry out the Truman foreign policies. This he wants because, he says, "many of our friends and allies have lost confidence in the stability of American foreign policy."

So, in order to reassure our allies, Mr. Truman thinks it is necessary to repudiate President Eisenhower in his conduct of foreign policy. Moscow will cheer that statement. Also throughout Europe, where they are very familiar with what it means when a parliamentary majority is lost by a prime minister, the opinion will be that, if a Democratic Congress is elected, President Eisenhower no longer speaks for the United States. Clement Attlee has been telling audiences abroad that a Democratic Congress is coming in and that this will mean the admission of Red China to the United Nations and the abandonment of Formosa.

Truman's Attitude Amazing

It is amazing that a man who carried the burdens of the presidency for nearly eight years should be telling the whole world that he wants to see the present incumbent of the White House repudiated. For that's the interpretation which will certainly be placed abroad upon the election if the Republicans have been deprived of a majority in both houses of Congress. Indeed, in parliamentary governments they usually call for the resignation of the executive when a majority is lost in the legislature.

The first statement on foreign policy in that speech made by Mr. Truman, quoted exactly, reads as follows:

"In less than 20 months many of our friends and allies have lost confidence in the stability of American foreign policy. This is a very serious business. Our own security and the peace of the world is jeopardized by a diplomacy that is ever shifting. Frenzied diplomacy has taken the place of our former sure-footed, bi-partisan foreign policy. A chorus of conflicting voices of self-appointed Republican spokesmen has so confused our friends and allies as to endanger the friendly cooperation we need to keep the free nations of the world together and free."

But who directs diplomatic negotiations? This is an executive function under the Constitution. Mr. Truman plainly is banging away at the secretary of state, John Foster Dulles. It is difficult to see how the election of a Democratic Congress is to give the Democratic party control of the diplomacy of the Department of State.

Mr. Truman revives the old bogey about "isolationists who would turn their backs on the United Nations and go it alone." The former President evidently hasn't read the recent dispatches, or he would discover that various European nations, particularly France, have been veering toward the idea of "going it alone" but the United States has been standing firm for cooperation and European unity. Mr. Truman cannot name a single Republican who has dissented from the diplomacy of Mr. Dulles in Europe. But there are plenty of Democrats who have been throwing brickbats at it.

Forgot About George

As for the constitutional amendment which Mr. Truman says Republicans have proposed in order "to cripple the ability of the President of the United States to conduct foreign affairs," the former chief executive seems to have overlooked the fact that Senator Walter George of Georgia, Democrat, who is to be chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee if the Democrats win control, is the author of a constitutional amendment which nearly passed the Senate and which was supported by many Republicans as a substitute for the Bricker Amendment.

Mr. Truman speaks of the split in the Republican party and seeks to give the impression, of course, that the Democratic party is a cohesive group. He omits to mention that a coalition of Democrats and Republicans ruled Congress when he was president and that on many basic issues, including American participation in the U.N. if Red China is admitted, the Democrats today are split.

It is difficult to follow the contradictions in Mr. Truman's latest utterance. In one part of his speech he says:

"And for the record, let it be said that this administration itself has in fact not adopted nor proposed a new foreign policy of its own . . . No sooner did the Republicans take over power than they quietly appropriated the very same basic foreign policy which they had so bitterly and unjustly attacked. But they took it over with a difference. What a sad difference! The foreign policy of the Democratic administration was bi-partisan, and it was administered as a bi-partisan policy."

Ignored Bi-Partisan Policy

Nobody ever heard of two political parties "administering a bi-partisan policy" in the State Department. It is true that people from the minority party are usually invited in as advisers but the responsibility for administration must and does rest with the party in power. As for "bi-partisan policy," Mr. Truman ignored it almost completely with respect to the Far East when he was president, as Senator Vandenberg, Republican leader, complained again and again.

Mr. Truman, moreover, didn't go to Congress for authority to intervene in Korea, though the Constituiton says Congress alone can declare war. Any talk about the amenities of the presidential office is not very persuasive coming from Mr. Truman when it is considered that, without requesting action by either house, a war was undertaken by him which cost America more than 140,000 casualties. What is worse, nobody in Congress was consulted when the decision was reached to tie the hands of General MacArthur so he couldn't fight back against Chinese bases. The parents of more than 40,000 dead American boys wished that a bi-partisan foreign policy had been in effect then. Mr. Truman has unwittingly furnished the best argument yet for the election of a Republican House and Senate on November 2.

Suggestions For Removing Or Hiding Unwanted Hair

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Some individuals are more hairy than others and if you have too much or too little, blame your ancestors. Hair grows excessively on the scalp and to a lesser extent, on the chin, upper lip, and sides of the face. This extra dividend is welcomed by most men, but proves embarrassing to women. So far as they are concerned, hair on the face definitely is unwanted.

Superfluous, or unwanted hair either is permanent or transient. If 100 women with hair on the upper lip and chin were examined thoroughly, nothing would be found to account for the growth in 99 of them. The other might have a disturbance of the adrenal, thyroid, or sex glands. This is mentioned because the condition occurs so frequently, it is regarded as normal.

Skin is covered with fine down (lanugo), which is thicker in some than in others. When the hair is fine and blond little need be done. If the color is darker, the simplest treatment is to bleach with hydrogen peroxide and ammonia water.

For coarse hair, milady has a number of choices. Shaving has many advantages but most women hesitate to resort to this procedure. I presume they are afraid it will alter the texture of hair or cause more to grow. These possibilities have been disproved on many occasions. Shaving too close leads to irritation and now and then to ingrown hairs.

A razor also is sharp, as a trim little teen-ager recently discovered. This young lady was invited out and had an hour to bathe and dress. She spied hair on her legs and decided to use father's best razor. Her limbs were smooth but she spent more than one-half hour soothing her wounds. Hereafter, she expects to do her barbering when she has more time to be careful.

A small patch of hair is more easily removed with tweezers or rubbed away with an abrasive such as a fine pumice stone. Also recommended is wax, applied when it is soft and gummy. As it is removed, the hair comes with it. In this way, wax acts like adhesive tape.

There are many chemical depilatories on the market. These products contain one of the sulfides that kills hair at the surface of the skin. It is important for those with tender skin to remember, however, that a solution powerful enough to remove hair also is powerful enough to cause dermatitis.

Electrolysis is another well recognized method for eliminating excess hair. In this procedure, a fine wire is inserted along the shaft of the hair. It is then charged with electricity, which destroys the root.

This is a tricky maneuver that should be used by experts only. Too little current, for example, has a temporary effect; too much leads to scarring.

TOMORROW: Babies come that way.

JUVENILE ARTHRITIS

Mrs. D. writes: My 13-year-old son has Still's disease. All his muscles and joints hurt and he has small red marks on arms and legs. His pulse and temperature are up. Will you please tell me something about this disease?

REPLY

This is the form of rheumatoid arthritis that affects children. The cause is not known, although many authorities suspect a streptococcal infection. It is treated in the same manner as the adult type of the disease.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

Dr. Morris Fishbein knows a man in the luggage business, who has a unique system for enjoying his vacation. "I drive out to the airport," he said. "Just to see the planes take off and arrive?" asked Dr. Fishbein. "Nah," scoffed the luggage man. "Who cares about planes? But I get genuine pleasure from seeing the redcaps scuff up the suitcases."

Fellow bought a jug of moonshine from a West Virginia mountaineer but was back at the still an hour later, complaining, "This stuff is so strong I can't even swallow it." "You can't swallow it!" cried the mountaineer. "What's strange about that? It takes two men to drink my whisky!"

My sympathy goes to the dean of the mid-Western university who sighed, "It's too bad colleges don't teach everything some of the prosperous alumni think they know!"

Approaching Elections In 21 States Are Diagnosed For Possible Results

By Drew Fearson

WASHINGTON—Here is a quick run-down on how the election is shaping up in the most bitterly fought congressional race in 20 years—a race into which Republicans are throwing almost as much as if the presidency were at stake:

NEW YORK—Whoever carries this largest electoral state has a leg up in nominating the presidential candidates in 1956. So far it looks as if Sen. Irving Ives, Republican, is slightly ahead in the run for governor. However, contributions began to flow in to Averell Harriman, Democrat, in increased quantities the day Charles Wilson barked his dog remark. In the end he could win.

PENNSYLVANIA—For the first time in 20 years it looks as if the Democrats would elect a governor. When young George Leader, relatively unknown Democratic chicken farmer was nominated, he was tabbed a throw-away candidate. Now, thanks to GOP bumbling, the scandals of Governor Fine's organization, and unemployment, he's likely to win. Democrats will also pick up about five House seats.

CALIFORNIA — Gov. "Goody" Knight, Republican, holds the lead for re-election, but Democrat Richard Graves is pushing him more than expected. Congressman Sam Yorty, Democrats, an early odds-off candidate, now looks like an even bet with GOP Sen. Tom Kuchel. Some polls place him slightly ahead.

IOWA—Sen. Guy Gillette, Democrat, will be almost unbeatable despite Iowa's rock-ribbed Republicanism. This time, young Clyde Herring, son of the late Democratic senator by that name, is making quite a race for the governorship.

WYOMING — Ex-Sen. Joe O'Mahoney, long a fixture in the Senate, is a sure-shot to come back. This will reduce the Republican margin by one seat.

COLORADO—John Carroll, livewire ex-congressman and former member of Truman's White House staff, is ahead in the race for senator. Carroll and retiring Sen. Ed Johnson, once political enemies, have patched up their feud and are pulling together — a combination hard to beat. Johnson is running for governor.

IDAHO—A few years ago, Glen Taylor, Democratic senator and vice presidential candidate on the Henry Wallace Progressive ticket, was considered all washed up politically. Now he's giving GOP Senator Dworshak such a race that he's likely to win. Taylor has cut out the cowboy crooning and is campaigning on a straight anti-Republican ticket. The electric power lobby and Hells Canyon are his biggest issue.

OREGON — Hasn't elected a Democratic senator in 40 years, but it looks as if young Dick Neuberger, author and newspaperman, might make it. GOP Sen. Guy Cordon has lots of money behind him, but Neuberger has two great assets —in addition to his own ability— his wife, an Oregon legislator, and the indefatigable Sen. Wayne Morse who is talking in every nook and corner of the state.

SOUTH DAKOTA—Normally, a Democrat hasn't a chance in this state. However, a secret Republican poll shows GOP Sen. Karl Mundt, who reaped both fame and criticism in the Army-McCarthy hearings, to be only slightly ahead of Kenneth Holum, the Farmer-Democrat. In other words, South Dakota is a doubtful state.

KANSAS—Sen. Andy Schoeppel, incumbent Republican, told Vice President Nixon when he went through Kansas recently that "if the election was held today, I'd lose." He urged Nixon to stay and make an extra speech, which Nixon did. Despite this, George McGill, the ex-senator who wrote the first farm price support bill under FDR, is running like a house afire, may upset all the political timetables. Kansas is also a doubtful state.

MINNESOTA — Sen. Hubert Humphrey, Democrat, is considered unbeatable.

WEST VIRGINIA — Sen. Matt Neely, Democrat, is unbeatable.

OHIO — Congressman George Bender, Republican, is running neck and neck with Sen. Tom Burke, Democrat, the long-time and able former mayor of Cleveland. Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, the biggest businessman in Ohio, is putting big money and heavy pressure behind Bender, while Burke is running with a bare campaign cupboard. It's anybody's race.

NEW JERSEY — Republican squabbling plus the serious GOP scandals in New Jersey seem certain to defeat Clifford Case, Republican, in the Senate race. Election of Congressman Charles Howell, Democrat, would take one seat away from the Republican margin.

KENTUCKY—The Veep is having a tougher time defeating Sen. John Sherman Cooper than any other previous Republican, but it looks as if he would win. Barkley is one of the most revered figures in Kentucky. His election would take another cut out of the Republican Senate margin.

ILLINOIS—If all the Republican money poured into Illinois is officially tabulated, it should prove larger than that of any other state. The McCarthyites, the Chicago Tribune crowd, and various other Republican factions would like nothing better than to defeat Sen. Paul Douglas, ex-Marine hero Democrat, who has stood up against Eisenhower on economic policies, while supporting him on foreign policies. However, they are going to have a tough time. It looks as if Douglas would win.

MASSACHUSETTS—As a result of Sen. Jack Kennedy's desertion of ex-Congressman Foster Furcolo, Sen. Leverett Salton.tall, Republican, will be re-elected.

MONTANA — Republicans are throwing a lot of money into Montana to try to defeat elder statesman Jim Murray, who would head the Senate Labor Committee if the Democrats control the Senate. Despite this, Murray will win.

NEVADA — Allan Bible, understudy and friend of the late Pat McCarran and a Democrat, will be elected to fill his friend's seat.

MICHIGAN — After Sen. Blair Moody died, everyone figured that Sen. Homer Ferguson, Republican, was certain of re-election. However, an unspectacular, tenacious Democrat named Pat McNamara has been creeping up on him. When Charlie Wilson let loose his dog remark in Detroit the other day, Ferguson almost wept. In hard-to-get-work Detroit it could cost Homer the election.

Measuring U. N.'s Cost

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK (INS) — Continuing our discourse on U.N. where I'm afraid some of us went to sleep Sunday (Ed. Note: This is United Nations Week), a familiar rap against the often misunderstood outfit is that it is draining our treasury.

Actually, U.N. doesn't cost much, as price tags are measured today. The statistics vary. In a pamphlet called "A United Nations Audit" the tab is set at a bit more than 50 cents a head per annum. Other figures place it at 16 cents. "A United Nations Audit" says:

"A large part of the total American contribution to the work of the U.N. about $82,000,000, comes back to us in the form of wages paid to American employes of the U.N. Secretariat and amounts spent here by the U.N. and its employes, an estimated $37,000,000 a year."

Henry Cabot Lodge, who places the U.S. contribution to U.N. at $26,000,000 a year, points out something I've never thought of before about the aid the other free nations of the organization gave the U.S. and South Korea in the Korean War. Limited though it was — Lodge places the actual muscle at two divisions — we would have had to put those two missing divisions in the field to have done as well, he argues.

And he adds significantly that it costs $300,000,000 a year to maintain a division. Perhaps he meant $300,000,000 to equip one and maintain it for a year. Nonetheless, the figure holds its importance. Lodge's point was that U.N. participation in a war in which only we were committed, by pact, might have saved us many lives and the cost of two divisions maintained for the length of the war and the interminable truce talks.

The actual cost of operating the wondrous buildings in midtown New York — now the top tourist lure of the town — figures out to less than 10 cents a year per American. The next biggest slice of the half buck we each throw into the kitty, according to "A United Nations Audit," is for relief and work among the Palestine refugees in the Near East. That costs less than nine-and-a-half cents a head, and it takes care of a lot of people.

To straighten out those who are in desperate need of medical aid and may never have heard of it—beyond bark chewing — U.N.'s World Health Organization costs you under two cents a year. But so many nations and contributors are involved that 18,000,000 children have been inoculated against TB, for example.

The important International Telecommunication Union, which keeps your radio set from becoming a babel of tongues, costs you less than one one-hundredth-of-a-cent a year. It arranges radio traffic, so to speak.

Lodge wrote:

"The United Nations technical assistance program has put 1,500 experts of more than 60 nationalities to work helping to drain the swamps, irrigate the deserts, eliminate disease and increase the food supply in underdeveloped areas. This program has nothing to do with handouts, it is real sharing. It helps the people of these areas to develop their economies to a point where life is worth living and worth fighting for. Our humanitarian interest and our enlightened self-interest in the strength of the free world are both served equally well by this program."

Why do we insist on supporting U.N.? Lodge answers:

"It's a place where is located the greatest sounding board in the world . . . where public opinion is developed . . . It is a place in which the age-old American belief that a meeting of minds produces more wisdom than the single opinion of even a brilliant mind is often demonstrated. The U.S. frequently brings proposals before the U.N. which have been altered and improved as a result of debate . . . U.N. has gone further toward organizing security than any other body in modern history."

Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, the biggest businessman in Ohio, is putting big money and heavy pressure behind Bender, while Burke is running with a bare campaign cupboard. It's anybody's race.

NEW JERSEY — Republican squabbling plus the serious GOP scandals in New Jersey seem certain to defeat Clifford Case, Republican, in the Senate race. Election of Congressman Charles Howell, Democrat, would take one seat away from the Republican margin.

KENTUCKY—The Veep is having a tougher time defeating Sen. John Sherman Cooper than any other previous Republican, but it looks as if he would win. Barkley is one of the most revered figures in Kentucky. His election would take another cut out of the Republican Senate margin.

ILLINOIS—If all the Republican money poured into Illinois is officially tabulated, it should prove larger than that of any other state. The McCarthyites, the Chicago Tribune crowd, and various other Republican factions would like nothing better than to defeat Sen. Paul Douglas, ex-Marine hero Democrat, who has stood up against Eisenhower on economic policies, while supporting him on foreign policies. However, they are going to have a tough time. It looks as if Douglas would win.

MASSACHUSETTS—As a result of Sen. Jack Kennedy's desertion of ex-Congressman Foster Furcolo, Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, Republican, will be re-elected.

MONTANA — Republicans are throwing a lot of money into Montana to try to defeat elder statesman Jim Murray, who would head the Senate Labor Committee if the Democrats control the Senate. Despite this, Murray will win.

NEVADA — Allan Bible, understudy and friend of the late Pat McCarran and a Democrat, will be elected to fill his friend's seat.

MICHIGAN — After Sen. Blair Moody died, everyone figured that Sen. Homer Ferguson, Republican, was certain of re-election. However, an unspectacular, tenacious Democrat named Pat McNamara has been creeping up on him. When Charlie Wilson let loose his dog remark in Detroit the other day, Ferguson almost wept. In hard-to-get-work Detroit it could cost Homer the election.

Truman Gives Best Arguments For Election Of GOP

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Former President Truman has made a speech which, for sheer political blundering, exceeds anything that has yet emerged in the present campaign. He has asked for the election of a Democratic Congress supposedly to help President Eisenhower carry out the Truman foreign policies. This he wants because, he says, "many of our friends and allies have lost confidence in the stability of American foreign policy."

So, in order to reassure our allies, Mr. Truman thinks it is necessary to repudiate President Eisenhower in his conduct of foreign policy. Moscow will cheer that statement. Also throughout Europe, where they are very familiar with what it means when a parliamentary majority is lost by a prime minister, the opinion will be that, if a Democratic Congress is elected, President Eisenhower no longer speaks for the United States. Clement Attlee has been telling audiences abroad that a Democratic Congress is coming in and that this will mean the admission of Red China to the United Nations and the abandonment of Formosa.

Truman's Attitude Amazing

It is amazing that a man who carried the burdens of the presidency for nearly eight years should be telling the whole world that he wants to see the present incumbent of the White House repudiated. For that's the interpretation which will certainly be placed abroad upon the election if the Republicans have been deprived of a majority in both houses of Congress. Indeed, in parliamentary governments they usually call for the resignation of the executive when a majority is lost in the legislature.

The first statement on foreign policy in that speech made by Mr. Truman, quoted exactly, reads as follows:

"In less than 20 months many of our friends and allies have lost confidence in the stability of American foreign policy. This is a very serious business. Our own security and the peace of the world is jeopardized by a diplomacy that is ever shifting. Frenzied diplomacy has taken the place of our former sure-footed, bi-partisan foreign policy. A chorus of conflicting voices of self-appointed Republican spokesmen has so confused our friends and allies as to endanger the friendly cooperation we need to keep the free nations of the world together and free."

But who directs diplomatic negotiations? This is an executive function under the Constitution. Mr. Truman plainly is banging away at the secretary of state, John Foster Dulles. It is difficult to see how the election of a Democratic Congress is to give the Democratic party control of the diplomacy of the Department of State.

Mr. Truman revives the old bogey about "isolationists who would turn their backs on the United Nations and go it alone." The former President evidently hasn't read the recent dispatches, or he would discover that various European nations, particularly France, have been veering toward the idea of "going it alone" but the United States has been standing firm for cooperation and European unity. Mr. Truman cannot name a single Republican who has dissented from the diplomacy of Mr. Dulles in Europe. But there are plenty of Democrats who have been throwing brickbats at it.

Forgot About George

As for the constitutional amendment which Mr. Truman says Republicans have proposed in order "to cripple the ability of the President of the United States to conduct foreign affairs," the former chief executive seems to have overlooked the fact that Senator Walter George of Georgia, Democrat, who is to be chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee if the Democrats win control, is the author of a constitutional amendment which nearly passed the Senate and which was supported by many Republicans as a substitute for the Bricker Amendment.

Mr. Truman speaks of the split in the Republican party and seeks to give the impression, of course, that the Democratic party is a cohesive group. He omits to mention that a coalition of Democrats and Republicans ruled Congress when he was president and that on many basic issues, including American participation in the U.N. if Red China is admitted, the Democrats today are split.

It is difficult to follow the contradictions in Mr. Truman's latest utterance. In one part of his speech he says:

"And for the record, let it be said that this administration itself has in fact not adopted nor proposed a new foreign policy of its own . . . No sooner did the Republicans take over power than they quietly appropriated the very same basic foreign policy which they had so bitterly and unjustly attacked. But they took it over with a difference. What a sad difference! The foreign policy of the Democratic administration was bi-partisan, and it was administered as a bi-partisan policy."

Ignored Bi-Partisan Policy

Nobody ever heard of two political parties "administering a bi-partisan policy" in the State Department. It is true that people from the minority party are usually invited in as advisers but the responsibility for administration must and does rest with the party in power. As for "bi-partisan policy," Mr. Truman ignored it almost completely with respect to the Far East when he was president, as Senator Vandenberg, Republican leader, complained again and again.

Mr. Truman, moreover, didn't go to Congress for authority to intervene in Korea, though the Constitution says Congress alone can declare war. Any talk about the amenities of the presidential office is not very persuasive coming from Mr. Truman when it is considered that, without requesting action by either house, a war was undertaken by him which cost America more than 140,000 casualties. What is worse, nobody in Congress was consulted when the decision was reached to tie the hands of General MacArthur so he couldn't fight back against Chinese bases. The parents of more than 40,000 dead American boys wished that a bi-partisan foreign policy had been in effect then. Mr. Truman has unwittingly furnished the best argument yet for the election of a Republican House and Senate on November 2.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Spies

Nations during war and peace have always employed spies of one kind or another. Generally, while the espionage is welcome, the spies are not always unsavory persons. They are often suspected of selling whatever information they collect to both sides. The most modern practice is to organize espionage professionally because so many technical phases are involved, including the stealing and breaking of codes. All esiponage work of the American government is centered in the CIA. The Russians not only employ the MVD (formerly NKVD and the GPU) for this purpose, but also the Fourth Bureau of the Army and the International Communist organization. Theirs is an extremely complicated enterprise.

Espionage is an ordinary operation of statecraft and each spy is an expendable person. Noel and Hermann Field, Americans, were believed by the Russians to have been double or triple agents. They are now probably dead. Whittaker Chambers and Elizabeth Bentley have told their story and several Americans are in prison because of them, including Alger Hiss. However, espionage organizations are built on the assumption that here and there a spy will betray his employers or will disappear off the face of the earth. Such persons are immediately replaced and the work goes on.

It is stupid to believe that because some have been uncovered in this country or in Great Britain or France that others have not gone to work in their stead. Both espionage and counter-espionage must be continuing jobs. For instance, it must be assumed that someone took the place of Dr. Otto John in West Germany before John exposed himself by going over to East Germany. He may even have trained his successor.

The current explosion over espionage in France is more serious than usual because such important figures are involved, but those in France are not in more important posts than Harry Dexter White held or than some of the 39 Americans in the United Nations, who were brought before the federal grand jury in New York or before the McCarran Committee, held.

It is very difficult to prove espionage in a country such as ours because spies naturally do not arrange to be caught. Abraham Brothman, for instance, who was engaged in "industrial espionage," was convicted, not for espionage, but for obstructing justice in the Harry Gold case. Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were condemned to death for their espionage activities, but Dr. Klaus Fuchs only got a sentence of 14 years in England for doing the same thing. True Fuchs confessed and the Rosenbergs did not, but without Fuchs' confession the Gold-Greenglass-Rosenberg outfit in this country might never have been convicted. As a matter of fact, the FBI and the United States attorney in New York came close to them several years before they were actually indicted and always failed to make the connection.

The case of Joseph Petersen, research analyst of the National Security Agency, which has to do with secret codes, is still in the hush-hush stage because a friendly power is involved, according to the best information available at the moment. We do not even know what he is actually arrested for. What seems to be involved is that agents placed in right spots with friendly powers can receive data for the use of an unfriendly power. By this system of indirection, a cover is provided both for the spy in this country and the spies in some other country because contact with the enemy is never provable. It means that there can be no security in such an international body as NATO. If information and data that must be passed among allies can be diverted to the enemy, the danger to successful united action is very great, indeed.

For instance, if what we told our allies during the Korean War was repeated to the Kremlin, it is sound to assume that such a Red Chinese commander as Lin Piao knew what was to happen before MacArthur did. General MacArthur was puzzled by this condition which he recognized, but he was not aware of the mechanism for the leak. The disappearance of Guy Burgess and Donald MacLean, British Foreign Office men of importance, behind the iron curtain may never be correctly explained, but the accepted inference is that they were engaged in espionage and if so, their knowledge was sufficiently important to have them removed from detention and imprisonment in their own country.

You're Telling Me!

Viet Nam's President Bao Dai refuses to leave France and return home because, says he, of his health. We think we know what he means.

A Rutherford, N. J., firm trying to get rid of bothersome pigeons, spread cracked corn, which had been soaked in alcohol, around. Three times the usual number of pigeons showed up. That kind of pest riddance program, says Aitch Kay, is for the birds.

Grandma Jenkins is in favor of the Do-It-Yourself idea if it includes everybody washing and drying their own dishes.

The man at the next desk suggests that perhaps the reason why folk are always seeing those "flying saucers" in flight and never landing is because the strangers from space probably can't find a parking place.

Student duelling has been revived in Germany. And we used to think those U. S. collegians who a few years ago swallowed goldfish and gnawed phonograph records as downright silly!

Measuring U. N.'s Cost

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK (INS) — Continuing our discourse on U.N. where I'm afraid some of us went to sleep Sunday (Ed. Note: This is United Nations Week), a familiar rap against the often misunderstood outfit is that it is draining our treasury.

Actually, U.N. doesn't cost much, as price tags are measured today. The statistics vary. In a pamphlet called "A United Nations Audit" the tab is set at a bit more than 50 cents a head per annum. Other figures place it at 16 cents. "A United Nations Audit" says:

"A large part of the total American contribution to the work of the U.N. about $82,000,000, comes back to us in the form of wages paid to American employes of the U.N. Secretariat and amounts spent here by the U.N. and its employes, an estimated $37,000,000 a year."

Henry Cabot Lodge, who places the U.S. contribution to U.N. at $26,000,000 a year, points out something I've never thought of before about the aid the other free nations of the organization gave the U.S. and South Korea in the Korean War. Limited though it was — Lodge places the actual muscle at two divisions — we would have had to put those two missing divisions in the field to have done as well, he argues.

And he adds significantly that it costs $300,000,000 a year to maintain a division. Perhaps he meant $300,000,000 to equip one and maintain it for a year. Nonetheless, the figure holds its importance. Lodge's point was that U.N. participation in a war in which only we were committed, by pact, might have saved us many lives and the cost of two divisions maintained for the length of the war and the interminable truce talks.

The actual cost of operating the wondrous buildings in midtown New York — now the top tourist lure of the town — figures out to less than 10 cents a year per American. The next biggest slice of the half buck we each throw into the kitty, according to "A United Nations Audit," is for relief and work among the Palestine refugees in the Near East. That costs less than nine-and-a-half cents a head, and it takes care of a lot of people.

To straighten out those who are in desperate need of medical aid and may never have heard of it— beyond bark chewing — U.N.'s World Health Organization costs you under two cents a year. But so many nations and contributors are involved that 18,000,000 children have been inoculated against TB, for example.

The important International Telecommunication Union, which keeps your radio set from becoming a babel of tongues, costs you less than one one-hundredth-of-a-cent a year. It arranges radio traffic, so to speak.

Lodge wrote:

"The United Nations technical assistance program has put 1,500 experts of more than 60 nationalities to work helping to drain the swamps, irrigate the deserts, eliminate disease and increase the food supply in underdeveloped areas. This program has nothing to do with handouts, it is real sharing. It helps the people of these areas to develop their economies to a point where life is worth living and worth fighting for. Our humanitarian interest and our enlightened self-interest in the strength of the free world are both served equally well by this program."

Why do we insist on supporting U.N.? Lodge answers:

"It's a place where is located the greatest sounding board in the world . . . where public opinion is developed . . . It is a place in which the age-old American belief that a meeting of minds produces more wisdom than the single opinion of even a brilliant mind is often demonstrated. The U.S. frequently brings proposals before the U.N. which have been altered and improved as a result of debate . . . U.N. has gone further toward organizing security than any other body in modern history."

Suggestions For Removing Or Hiding Unwanted Hair

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Some individuals are more hairy than others and if you have too much or too little, blame your ancestors. Hair grows excessively on the scalp and to a lesser extent, on the chin, upper lip, and sides of the face. This extra dividend is welcomed by most men, but proves embarrassing to women. So far as they are concerned, hair on the face definitely is unwanted.

Superfluous, or unwanted hair either is permanent or transient. If 100 women with hair on the upper lip and chin were examined thoroughly, nothing would be found to account for the growth in 99 of them. The other might have a disturbance of the adrenal, thyroid, or sex glands. This is mentioned because the condition occurs so frequently, it is regarded as normal.

Skin is covered with fine down (lanugo), which is thicker in some than in others. When the hair is fine and blond little need be done. If the color is darker, the simplest treatment is to bleach with hydrogen peroxide and ammonia water.

For coarse hair, milady has a number of choices. Shaving has many advantages but most women hesitate to resort to this procedure. I presume they are afraid it will alter the texture of hair or cause more to grow. These possibilities have been disproved on many occasions. Shaving too close leads to irritation and now and then to ingrown hairs.

A razor also is sharp, as a trim little teen-ager recently discovered. This young lady was invited out and had an hour to bathe and dress. She spied hair on her legs and decided to use father's best razor. Her limbs were smooth but she spent more than one-half hour soothing her wounds. Hereafter, she expects to do her barbering when she has more time to be careful.

A small patch of hair is more easily removed with tweezers or rubbed away with an abrasive such as a fine pumice stone. Also recommended is wax, applied when it is soft and gummy. As it is removed, the hair comes with it. In this way, wax acts like adhesive tape.

There are many chemical depilatories on the market. These products contain one of the sulfides that kills hair at the surface of the skin. It is important for those with tender skin to remember, however, that a solution powerful enough to remove hair also is powerful enough to cause dermatitis.

Electrolysis is another well recognized method for eliminating excess hair. In this procedure, a fine wire is inserted along the shaft of the hair. It is then charged with electricity, which destroys the root.

This is a tricky maneuver that should be used by experts only. Too little current, for example, has a temporary effect; too much leads to scarring.

TOMORROW: Babies come that way.

JUVENILE ARTHRITIS

Mrs. D. writes: My 13-year-old son has Still's disease. All his muscles and joints hurt and he has small red marks on arms and legs. His pulse and temperature are up. Will you please tell me something about this disease?

REPLY

This is the form of rheumatoid arthritis that affects children. The cause is not known, although many authorities suspect a streptococcal infection. It is treated in the same manner as the adult type of the disease.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Dr. Morris Fishbein knows a man in the luggage business, who has a unique system for enjoying his vacation. "I drive out to the airport," he said. "Just to see the planes take off and arrive?" asked Dr. Fishbein. "Nah," scoffed the luggage man. "Who cares about planes? But I get genuine pleasure from seeing the redcaps scuff up the suitcases."

Fellow bought a jug of moonshine from a West Virginia mountaineer but was back at the still an hour later, complaining, "This stuff is so strong I can't even swallow it." "You can't swallow it!" cried the mountaineer. "What's strange about that? It takes two men to drink my whisky!"

My sympathy goes to the dean of the mid-Western university who sighed, "It's too bad colleges don't teach everything some of the prosperous alumni think they know!"

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18 (INS) — Anyone who has seen Barry Sullivan in "Caine Mutiny Court Martial" on the New York stage knows that he is an actor who never really came into his own in Hollywood. He has played in some important pictures, but he never seemed to make the big league.

Now Barry is going to make a try for it by doing the life story of Ted Williams, the baseball great, as his first independent production. This will include Ted's experiences in the two wars as well as his homelife.

Barry already has a million dollars backing for this first venture.

When the happily married couples, with two careers in one family, are mentioned, somehow the Robert Ryans are rarely listed—and yet they are definitely two of the most devoted, and creative.

Right now, for instance, Jessica Ryan has finished up her fifth novel, which is to be published by Doubleday, while Bob, having just finished shooting on "Bad Day At Black Rock" is going into "Bow Tamely To Me." This is the Benedict Bogeaus film for RKO, which will star Barbara Stanwyck and David Farrar, and which Allan Dwan will direct.

As soon as Bob wraps this up, he's organizing his own touring company of "Macbeth," no less.

Could very well be that Kerwin Mathews will be to motion pictures what Dr. Frank Baxter is to TV.

Both of these men taught drama at college. Dr. Baxter started out with Shakespearean readings on TV and now he's a great attraction on his medium.

Mr. Mathews, after one brief test, was signed by Jerry Wald for "Five Against The House," which stars Guy Madison and Kim Novak.

Professor Mathews who is tall, dark and younger than Professor Baxter, taught at Beloit College, not far from my home town, while Professor Baxter is still teaching at U.S.C.

When Eddie Fisher was here a week ago, there was a very small party at Debbie's home where he and Debbie told her family and Milton Blackstone, Eddie's manager, that they plan to marry. There was no public announcement at the time because it was Yom Kippur, a holy day in Eddie's faith.

But, unless there's a big, big change in plans, when Eddie gets out here next Saturday, October 23, he and Debbie will tell the world of their engagement.

When I told Debbie she'd probably forget to tell me, she said, "why you already had the story." And I did.

I always knew that Portland Mason would be an actress. She's never had any other idea in her head since she was able to speak.

Now her father, James Mason, has produced four half-hour television shows which were sent to England. One of them is called "The Child," in which Miss Porty is the star. The four films are being returned to America for showing, so if you're interested, you'll be able to see the wonder child as an actress.

George Burns says of Portland, "she uses words so big, I split them up and have plenty of conversation for the whole day!"

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Rita Moreno and Geordie Hormel had dinner at the home of his mother last week a couple of times so this looks like love. She's sticking right by Geordie in his troubles.

Elaine Stewart, now in New York, has been a twosome at the Harwyn Club with textile man Bob Evans, who used to be her favorite boy friend when she was a model.

Jeanne Crain is the next one of our glamor girls to turn singer and to play Las Vegas. She's only waiting until she finishes "Gentlemen Marry Brunettes" before she signs with the Last Frontier.

A new twosome at the Plymouth House was Katy Jurado and Paul Hesse.

Jeanette MacDonald, who was so critically ill with virus, is now well enough to take an afternoon walk in New York.

Eileen Barton, a big click at the Copa, opens November 2 at the Mocambo. Frank Sinatra, a partner with Eileen's father, Ben Barton, in the music publishing business, will introduce her.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Mrs. Clyde J. Rowe, left, formerly of Westernport, is shown presenting the Rowe Memorial Cup to Mrs. E. P. Cotter and Richard Freeman, both of Washington, who won the open pairs event Sunday night in the Mason-Dixon Contract Bridge Tournament at the Cumberland Country Club. Freeman was one of the "Original Quiz Kids" and is the youngest person ever to attain life master bridge rating in America. Mrs. Rowe offered the cup as a memorial to her husband, who died earlier this year.

Two Men Enlist

PARSONS—Sergeant DeNeal E. Phillips of the U.S. Army Recruiting Station reported that two men enlisted in the regular army for a three-year period. Both men have been sent to Fort Jackson, S. C., for basic training.

The men are John Mitchell, of Hambleton who has chosen the Corp of Engineers and James H. Knaggs of Thomas, the Quartermaster Corps.

Lighting experts predict that four-fifths of all American homes will be using fluorescent lighting.

As soon as Bob wraps this up, he's organizing his own touring company of "Macbeth," no less.

Could very well be that Kerwin Mathews will be to motion pictures what Dr. Frank Baxter is to TV.

Both of these men taught drama at college. Dr. Baxter started out with Shakespearean readings on TV and now he's a great attraction on his medium.

Mr. Mathews, after one brief test, was signed by Jerry Wald for "Five Against The House," which stars Guy Madison and Kim Novak.

Professor Mathews who is tall, dark and younger than Professor Baxter, taught at Beloit College, not far from my home town, while Professor Baxter is still teaching at U.S.C.

When Eddie Fisher was here a week ago, there was a very small party at Debbie's home where he and Debbie told her family and Milton Blackstone, Eddie's manager, that they plan to marry. There was no public announcement at the time because it was Yom Kippur, a holy day in Eddie's faith.

But, unless there's a big, big change in plans, when Eddie gets out here next Saturday, October 23, he and Debbie will tell the world of their engagement.

When I told Debbie she'd probably forget to tell me, she said, "why you already had the story." And I did.

I always knew that Portland Mason would be an actress. She's never had any other idea in her head since she was able to speak.

Now her father, James Mason, has produced four half-hour television shows which were sent to England. One of them is called "The Child," in which Miss Porty is the star. The four films are being returned to America for showing, so if you're interested, you'll be able to see the wonder child as an actress.

George Burns says of Portland, "she uses words so big, I split them up and have plenty of conversation for the whole day!"

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Rita Moreno and Geordie Hormel had dinner at the home of his mother last week a couple of times so this looks like love. She's sticking right by Geordie in his troubles.

Elaine Stewart, now in New York, has been a twosome at the Harwyn Club with textile man Bob Evans, who used to be her favorite boy friend when she was a model.

Jeanne Crain is the next one of our glamor girls to turn singer and to play Las Vegas. She's only waiting until she finishes "Gentlemen Marry Brunettes" before she signs with the Last Frontier.

A new twosome at the Plymouth House was Katy Jurado and Paul Hesse.

Jeanette MacDonald, who was so critically ill with virus, is now well enough to take an afternoon walk in New York.

Eileen Barton, a big click at the Copa, opens November 2 at the Mocambo. Frank Sinatra, a partner with Eileen's father, Ben Barton, in the music publishing business, will introduce her.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Win Bridge Honors

Mrs. Clyde J. Rowe, left, formerly of Westernport, is shown presenting the Rowe Memorial Cup to Mrs. E. P. Cotter and Richard Freeman, both of Washington, who won the open pairs event Sunday night in the Mason-Dixon Contract Bridge Tournament at the Cumberland Country Club. Freeman was one of the "Original Quiz Kids" and is the youngest person ever to attain life master bridge rating in America. Mrs. Rowe offered the cup as a memorial to her husband, who died earlier this year.

Two Men Enlist

PARSONS—Sergeant DeNeal E. Phillips of the U.S. Army Recruiting Station reported that two men enlisted in the regular army for a three-year period. Both men have been sent to Fort Jackson, S. C., for basic training.

The men are John Mitchell, of Hambleton who has chosen the Corp of Engineers and James H. Knaggs of Thomas, the Quartermaster Corps.

Meter Receipts Drop

KEYSER — Parking meter receipts for the week ending last Saturday amounted to $247.43. The meter receipts thep revious week were $254.10.

Lighting experts predict that four-fifths of all American homes will be using fluorescent lighting.

Chief W.M Engineer Heads Railroad Reconstruction

The chief engineer of the Western Maryland Railway is on the job directing reconstruction work on the sections of the 20 miles of the railroad inactivated by the high waters Friday and Saturday.

Joseph M. Miller, superintendent of the Elkins Division of the railroad, said F. L. Etchison, Baltimore, chief engineer, and Edwin D. Billmyer, division engineer, are on the job supervising the project of getting the Elkins branch back in operation.

Every available carpenter, bridgeman and laborer is in the section between Luke and Bayard, Miller said.

40 Lengths Of Track Out

Traffic on the Connellsville branch has not been affected too much, Miller said. A big slide near Colmar was cleared up and trains moved as usual.

In the trouble spot, just east of Chaffee there is one place where the North Branch of the Potomac River washed out 40 rail lengths of track.

At the west end of Shell the tracks are being shifted closer to the mountain and cribbing and bridging completed before a fill can be deposited beneath the tracks.

The railway at Waldman, at the mouth of the Stony River in the North Branch, work is almost completed.

Another bad spot is at Hanging Rock west of West Virginia Central Junction where another 40 rail lengths of track was undermined at a depth of five to eight feet. Other bad places are at Shaw, Neff's and Gleason.

There are 125 cars and three work trains busy in the big job of getting the Elkins branch in operation.

Miller said the railway is hoping that traffic can be resumed in the next 24 hours.

Trains are being backed up at Elkins during the temporary curtailment.

Train At Bayard

One 100-car train has been stopped at Bayard since Friday. Sunday evening the work train got through to take the Diesel engine back to Elkins.

Miller explained that in all of the reconstruction, carpenters first must bridge the track above the washouts strong enough to hold the cars loaded with ballast and fill material.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is back in operation, after recuperating from floods on the Cumberland Division and slides on the Pittsburgh Division.

Milk is a health food that your daily diet should include in one form or another.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

I asked a nutritionist what would be her first suggestion for the betterment of the average woman's diet. "Drink more milk," she responded quickly.

Now, no food expert am I. But I do know how important it is that the normal diet include milk, the most nearly perfect of all foods. Milk contains high-quality proteins necessary to maintain health; calcium, for strong bones and sound teeth; B vitamins (thiamine and riboflavin) which promote growth, healthy skin, and bright eyes.

What's that? You don't like milk? You refuse to drink it for fear of gaining weight? Let my nutritionist answer those questions for you:

An Expert Speaking!

"Use nonfat dry milk in cooking. It is a rich source of important nutrients, for it is top-quality pasteurized milk with only the fat and water removed. You're getting real milk nourishment without the fat.

"When preparing canned soups, blend nonfat dry milk powder with the condensed soup, then add the water required. Use one-third cup of nonfat dry milk with a ten-and-a-half ounce can of condensed soup, adding one can of water.

"For extra nutrition, add non-fat dry milk powder to hamburger mixtures, to meat or fish loaf, or croquettes.

"For a low-calorie recipe enriched with milk nutrients try a Bavarian-type dessert by folding unsweetened whipped topping into a fruit-flavored gelatin. Make the whipped topping this way: Pour one-half cup of water into a small mixing bowl, then stir in one tablespoon of lemon juice and one teaspoon of vanilla. Sprinkle one-half cup milk powder over the top of the water, and beat until stiff. If you wish, sprinkle three tablespoons of granulated sugar on the surface of the water and beat until blended, and the mixture is stiff enough to hold soft peaks. This makes two-and-a-half cups."

J. R. P. Adds

Thank you, Miss Nutritionist! You see, you need milk in one form or another. Surveys show that most women, particularly teenagers and women over 40, don't consume enough milk; they indicate, too, that calcium is the nutrient most frequently lacking in city diets.

Take your choice: drink your milk, or eat it . . . don't go without!

Trucker Hurt In Accident

Earl Crites, 37, of RD 1, Oldtown, suffered serious facial injuries early yesterday when he was struck by the rim of a truck tire at the Red Head Service Station on Williams Street.

Police said Crites was putting air in the tire when the rim flew off. He was admitted to Memorial Hospital with a severe right eye injury and possible skull fracture. His condition is "fair."

George Francis Sleeman of Mt. Pleasant Street, Frostburg, was taken to Memorial Hospital after he apparently fell from a ladder while painting at 54 Greene Street.

James Harry Kiracofe, 14, of Hagerstown, was accidentally shot in both hands Saturday while hunting squirrels near Town Hill Mountain in Allegany County.

Kiracofe picked up a squirrel he had just shot and was looking at the animal when another hunter, thinking the squirrel was running up a tree, shot at the dead animal.

Buckshot was removed from the wound and it was dressed at the emergency room of the Washington County Hospital.

False Flood Alarm Brings Jail Term

Accused of spreading false flood reports due to high waters caused by "Hurricane Hazel" last Friday, Charles W. Johnson, 18, of 162 North Mechanic Street, was given a 25-day jail sentence yesterday in Police Court.

Johnson was jailed in default of a $25 fine imposed by Magistrate Donald W. Mason. He pleaded not guilty to a disorderly conduct charge.

New Laws Discussed At Local Meeting

Recent laws affecting retired Civil Service employes were discussed at a meeting of Cumberland Chapter 410, National Association of Retired Civil Employes, in the Post Office Building.

The laws, one of which grants retired Civil Service employes a $1,200 income tax exemption, and the other making permanent a temporary retirement increase granted such retirees two years ago, were explained by John Nesline, Washington, field organizer for the national association.

Harold J. Howard, president of Chapter 410, said four new members, George W. Pulliam, James A. Grabenstein, A. Bay Windemuth and Charles L. Twigg, have been admitted to the local chapter.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!
Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.
To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:
First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.
Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!
Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.
To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:
First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.
Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Medical Staff Adopts Plan For Better Service

Frostburg To Have Doctors On Weekends

FROSTBURG—The medical staff of Miners Hospital met recently at the home of Dr. C. Paul Miller and discussed plans to give better service over the weekends to area residents.

A plan was worked out whereby a member of the staff will be available to calls from residents of the community over weekends and holidays.

Dr. W. E. Gattens, president of the staff, said that plans have been made for one doctor to be available 24-hours-a-day over the weekends.

Dr. Gattens said that if a patient enters the hospital and his family physician is out of town, then the hospital will have the patient call the doctor who happens to be on call that day.

Each doctor will be on call every two weeks, Dr. Gattens said.

Specialists from Baltimore have also been added to the consultation staff to handle referrals of a complicated nature.

W. Md. Railway To Sell Tract In Piedmont

Town May Buy Land For Public Parking

PIEDMONT—Piedmont may purchase that portion of ground from Third Street to Child's Avenue from the Western Maryland Railway Company where their tracks are located. It was formerly used by the company-absorbed Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad.

Mayor Allan L. Hill stated at a meeting of the City Council Monday evening that he had with C. H. Stoner, Baltimore, real estate agent with the company, been over the situation. The mayor stated that Stoner advised him he would recommend to the company that they sell this ground to the city but no price was named by the company's agent.

If the town secures this property they would use it for a parking lot to provide additional parking space.

The company has sold the ground from Third Street to the former C and P bridge to Fred Tichness, off Third Street, who operated a feed store. Mayor Hill said Stoner told him that the company had sold all of the rails and the railroad bridge between Piedmont and Westernport to Abe Feldstein, Cumberland.

This bridge was built in 1924 after the former bridge was taken out by the flood on March 29 of that year.

The second reading of the ordinances for improving traffic conditions was approved. These streets include parts of Fredlock, East Harrison, Gocke, Marshall, East Harrison and Gocke Streets.

It was ordered that a letter of appreciation be sent to Radio Station WDYR of Keyser for the fine public service they rendered the residents of the Tri-Towns area during the flood last Friday evening.

Mayor Hill announced that 335 garbage cards have been sold for the fourth quarter.

Hazel Gobbled Up Millions Of Apples In Storm Region

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 19 (AP)—Appalachian Apple Service today estimated Hurricane Hazel last week blew between two and three million bushels of apples off trees in its belt, which extends from the Allentown-Reading section in Pennsylvania to the Winchester section of Virginia.

Some growers put the estimate as high as four million bushels.

The apple service gave these estimates of damage in the various sections:

Allentown - Reading: Fifty per cent of the crop had been picked, 90 per cent of apples still on trees were blown down. Many trees were uprooted.

Chambersburg - Gettysburg: 30 percent of the apples still on the trees (half the crop) blown down.

Western Maryland: Damage light.

Frederick and Clark counties, Virginia: 15 per cent of the unpicked crop blown down.

Soap Box Derby Champ Joins Navy

Ernesto Claude Mellon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude M. Mellon, Maryland Avenue, McCoole, receives a hearty "Well Done" from Chief Boatswain's Mate E. R. Morgan, of the Navy Recruiting Station in Baltimore. Ernesto was the Soap Box Derby Champion of Cumberland in 1950. He graduated from Bruce High School in Westernport, and is presently undergoing recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Bainbridge. The "Champ" is interested in becoming a machinist while in the Navy.

Democrats Will Rally Tonight In Frostburg

FROSTBURG — The home of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, will be the scene of a big Democratic rally today at 7:30 p. m.

Dr. W. O. McLane, chairman of the Allegany County Democratic campaign committee, will preside.

Dr. McLane said Democratic candidates for county office will be present—William L. Wilson Jr., for state senator; Charles Buskirk and Leslie O. Clark, House of Delegates; Graydon S. Dunlap, sheriff, and James P. Russell, county commissioner.

In addition the Allegany County Democratic State Central Committee and the various campaign committees will participate in the program.

As the Democratic campaign rolls into its final days, another rally, one of the biggest, will be held Tuesday, October 26, at 7:30 p. m. in the first floor of the Cumberland K. of C. Home North Mechanic Street there.

Scheduled for the Cumberland event, which is for campaign workers and Democrats from all over the county, will be C. Ferdinand Sybert, candidate for attorney-general; T. Barton Harrington, Baltimore, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee of Maryland, and Mrs. Esther Murray, Washington, of the CIO's National Political Action Committee.

Wednesday, October 27, the final rally in the Georges Creek section will be held at Westernport.

The climax of the Democratic campaign will be the campaign dinner for Dr. Harry C. Byrd, candidate for governor; C. Ferdinand Sybert, candidate for attorney-general; Edward J. Ryan, for Congress, and other candidates to be held October 30 in the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Judge See Gives Charge To Jurors

KEYSER—The October term of Mineral County Court opened yesterday, here, with Judge Ernest A. See presiding.

Judge See charged the grand jury after naming William Shepp as foreman.

Judge See discussed the possible penalties in cases to be handled by the jurors and referred to two cases which cover the shooting of firearms during the hunting season, that resulted in injuries to two hunters.

Judge See also referred to other cases, including the careless operation of automobiles on the highway which result in accidents. He cited the danger of drunken driving, not only to the driver, but to the public as well.

Sixteen cases were to be probed by the grand jury, including two breaking and entering charges in addition to two larceny cases, two shooting accidents and a drunken driving case.

Grand jurors summoned include Arlie McGee and Russell Stickley, Welton District; Coyd Yost, S. E. Hanna, W. D. Gengerich and Claude A. Martin, New Creek; John Powell and Webb Sanders, from Frankfort District; S. S. Smith and G. M. Simpson, Cabin Run District; George Burdeck and Walter Barrick, Elk District, and Thomas J. Martin, Joseph E. Maybury and Norman Baughman, Piedmont District.

W. Md. Railway To Sell Tract In Piedmont

Town May Buy Land For Public Parking

PIEDMONT—Piedmont may purchase that portion of ground from Third Street to Child's Avenue from the Western Maryland Railway Company where their tracks are located. It was formerly used by the company-absorbed Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad.

Mayor Allan L. Hill stated at a meeting of the City Council Monday evening that he had with C. H. Stoner, Baltimore, real estate agent with the company, been over the situation. The mayor stated that Stoner advised him he would recommend to the company that they sell this ground to the city but no price was named by the company's agent.

If the town secures this property they would use it for a parking lot to provide additional parking space.

The company has sold the ground from Third Street to the former C and P bridge to Fred Tichness, off Third Street, who operated a feed store. Mayor Hill said Stoner told him that the company had sold all of the rails and the railroad bridge between Piedmont and Westernport to Abe Feldstein, Cumberland.

This bridge was built in 1924 after the former bridge was taken out by the flood on March 29 of that year.

The second reading of the ordinances for improving traffic conditions was approved. These streets include parts of Fredlock, East Harrison, Gocke, Marshall, East Harrison and Gocke Streets.

It was ordered that a letter of appreciation be sent to Radio Station WDYR of Keyser for the fine public service they rendered the residents of the Tri-Towns area during the flood last Friday evening.

Mayor Hill announced that 335 garbage cards have been sold for the fourth quarter.

Hazel Gobbled Up Millions Of Apples In Storm Region

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 19 (AP)—Appalachian Apple Service today estimated Hurricane Hazel last week blew between two and three million bushels of apples off trees in its belt, which extends from the Allentown-Reading section in Pennsylvania to the Winchester section of Virginia.

Some growers put the estimate as high as four million bushels.

The apple service gave these estimates of damage in the various sections:

Allentown - Reading: Fifty per cent of the crop had been picked, 90 per cent of apples still on trees were blown down. Many trees were uprooted.

Chambersburg - Gettysburg: 30 percent of the apples still on the trees (half the crop) blown down.

Western Maryland: Damage light.

Frederick and Clark counties, Virginia: 15 per cent of the unpicked crop blown down.

Potomac State Plays Shepherd In Homecoming Saturday

20 High School Grads Of Area To See Action

Coach Fuoss' Rams Own 3-1-1 Record; Game Set For 2 P. M.

Approximately 20 former high school boys of the tri-state area will be seen in action Saturday when Potomac State and Shepherd College clash for the 28th time on the gridiron at Stayman Field, Keyser, at 2 p. m.

It's Potomac State's homecoming game and is expected to attract a large turnout.

Shepherd's lineup will include Phil Adams, Romney; Edgar "Barney" Tucker and Kenny Owens, formerly of Fort Hill High; Lee Weller and Dick Widdows, who played football at Allegany High; Ben Brakeall and Dave Wright, of Ridgeley; Charley Emery, Keyser; Don Largent, Paw Paw, and Willard Look, of Wardensville.

The Rams, coached by Donald E. Fuoss, own a 3-1-1 record. The Shephertstown team has defeated Fairmont State, 14-6. Bridgewater, 14-7 and Newport News, 40-13, lost to Randolph Macon, 25-7 and played a 7-7 tie with Glenville.

Former area schoolboy athletes who will be seen in Potomac State uniforms are George Campbell, Piedmont; Keith D. Collett, Parsons; Jimmy Fazzalore, Bob Smith and Jack Wilson, Keyser; Roger Parker and Bob and Bill Sirk, of Romney.

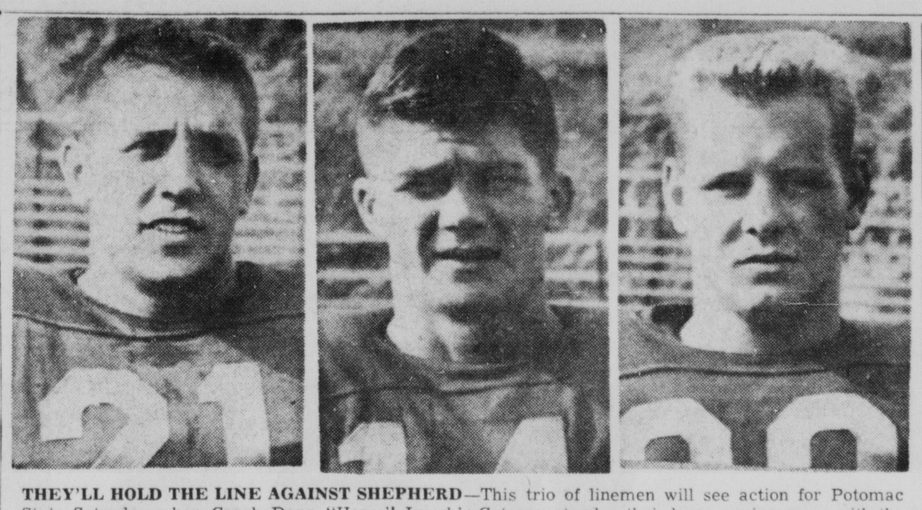

Shepherd whipped Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's Catamounts at Shepherdstown last year, 14-0. The series, started in 1923, is very much in favor of Potomac State which has won 21 games to Shepherd's three while three contests ended in draws.

Lough's grid assistants are John Maiden and John Fox.

The Catamounts have beaten Bainbridge Naval, 83-0 and Salem College, 20-7, and lost to West Virginia Tech, 20-8.

1923—Potomac, 35- 0	1937—Potomac, 14- 0
1924—Potomac, 35- 0	1938—Potomac, 13- 0

1935—0-0 tie	1953—Sheph'rd, 14- 0
1936—6-6 tie

THEY'LL HOLD THE LINE AGAINST SHEPHERD—This trio of linemen will see action for Potomac State Saturday when Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's Catamounts play their homecoming game with the Shepherd College Rams Saturday afternoon at Keyser. They are, left to right: Jim Sperandio, sophomore guard of Catawba, W. Va., and graduate of Fairmont East High School; Will Main, sophomore center, graduate of Frederick (Md.) High School, and Jack Coolidge, sophomore guard, from Washington and Lee High School, Arlington, Va. Saturday's game at Stayman Field is set for 2 p. m.

Boxold Paces Conference In Total Offense

Duke's Bob Pascal Tops ACC Rushing

GREENSBORO, N. C., Oct. 19 (AP)—Charlie Boxold, quarterback for the Maryland Terrapins, took full advantage of the Saturday idleness of South Carolina's Mackie Prickett, and the Maryland star becomes the new yardmaker in the Atlantic Coast Conference, the No. 1 in total individual offense.

Boxold, according to statistics released by the ACC Service Bureau today, made up the slight difference that he trailed Prickett by completing three of six passes against North Carolina for 63 yards.

Duke's Bob Pascal gained 68 yards in 12 carries against Army, enough for one touchdown and the yardage to elevate the junior halfback to the No. 1 position in conference rushing. He passed both Connie Gravitte of North Carolina, who carried the ball only once against Maryland (for two yards), and John Zubaty of N. C. State. Pascal has averaged 5.2 yards per carry.

Two new names figured in the statistical story this week, George Marinkov, the sophomore scatback of N. C. State, and Dick Bielski, the senior fullback of Maryland. Marinkov rushed 57 yards in 10 carries against Florida State, and moved from nowhere into the No. 4 rushing position. Bielski had the third best day of the conference season, getting 102 yards in 13 carries against North Carolina.

VMI And Mountaineers To Play At Bluefield

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 19 (AP)—Halfback Dale Vaughn was limited to light running today as Virginia Military Institute held its first workout of the week in preparation for Saturday's game with West Virginia at Bluefield, W. Va. Vaughn is nursing a bruised hip received in the Virginia game last week.

The Keydets worked against West Virginia pass patterns and kicked against pressure, generally stressing running and conditioning. The squad finished the day's work with a complete review of offensive assignments.

Coach John McKenna is hoping his squad will be able to generate more offense against West Virginia than it has shown in the past two weeks.

Collins Scores TKO

BOSTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Featherweight Tommy Collins, 129½, of Boston, scored the third straight victory of his boxing comeback campaign tonight with a sixth round technical knockout over Bobby Why, 128¾, Los Angeles, in their scheduled 10-rounder at Boston Arena.

Referee Jimmy Mc Carron awarded the bout to Collins when Why, who had been down for a nine count in the fifth round, was unable to come out for the sixth.

Ted Atkinson rode his first winner on May 18, 1938 at Beulah Park in Ohio. The horse's name was Musical Jack.

Trojans' Jon Arnett Is Voted Back Of Week In College Poll

Beard And Wyant Receive Mention

[By The Associated Press]

Southern California's Jon Arnett, who did a great job of upholding football form on a day when upsets were a dime a dozen and stellar performances equally inexpensive, is the Associated Press Back of the Week.

Arnett was chosen today by sports writers and broadcasters.

The Southern California tailback is the second sophomore to be named Back of the Week this season. Lenny Dawson, Purdue passing star, was the first.

Arnett, 19-year-old speedster from Los Angeles, is quite accustomed to receiving such special mention. He was picked as "Player of the Year" in Los Angeles High School football in 1952; was a standout on the Southern California freshman team last year and was singled out as the Trojan sophomore most likely to succeed after spring practice.

In last Saturday's game Arnett ran for 179 yards in 18 carries and scored all three USC touchdowns in a 24-14 victory over the Webfoots. In addition he completed four of five passes for 39 yards.

A prep school gymnast and track star, Arnett can run 100 yards in 10 seconds and broad jump better than 24 feet. He impressed television watchers last Saturday with his exceptional shiftness in addition to his speed.

Still, Arnett didn't have a very big edge over Albert Elmore of Alabama, Duane Nutt of Southern Methodist. Fred Wyant of West Virginia, Dick Bielski of Maryland and Tom Gastall of Boston University when it came to picking this week's standout back.

Elmore completed eight of 13 passes for 100 yards and three touchdowns against Tennessee and rushed for 107 yards more. Nutt also threw three touchdown passes against Rice.

maneuvered West Virginia into a last-quarter victory over Penn State. He scored two touchdowns, passed for 130 yards and made a perfect pitchout to Dick Nicholson for the winning score. Bielski not only gained 102 yards on slippery turf but added some devastating blocking and tackling.

Galstall's performance against Syracuse prompted losing Coach Ben Schwartzwalder to call him, "the finest quarterback we have seen."

Other Back of the Week nominations included:

Dickie Beard, Virginia Tech.

Diaz Gets Nod

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Oct. 19 (AP)—Miguel Diaz, 148, Havana, Cuba, scored a bloody unanimous 10-round decision over Rocky Casillo, 146, Blue Island, Ill., in the auditorium tonight.

Bob And Jack Andrews Chosen Football Players Of The Week

Fort Hill Halfback And Center Cited For Stellar Play In Handley Contest

Selection of Bob Andrews, senior and right halfback as the Back of the Week in recognition of his brilliant all-around performance as the Fort Hill High Sentinels lost a 7-6 squeaker to Handley High School of Winchester here Saturday night, was announced last night by the Knights of Columbus committee of sportswriters and sportscasters.

The Fort Hill-Handley game was the only contest in which a local team played at home over the past weekend.

Bob Gained 125 Yards

Bob starred on both offense and defense. He carried the ball 20 times, picking up 125 yards while losing only five. He made a nice gain of 21 yards to set up the Sentinel touchdown with Landis going over on the next play from 12 yards out. In the punting department, his five kicks averaged 29.8 yards.

The Sentinels' high point man this season also recovered a Handley fumble in the third period and ran back a punt 29 yards to get Fort Hill's touchdown drive under way. Bob had received mention in the selections every week and finally got the nod.

Other backs who have been cited for K. of C. awards since the start of the season are Jerry Landis, Fort Hill; Joe Conroy and Harold Hudson, LaSalle, and Don "Ducky" Perdew of Allegany.

Jack Is Named Lineman

The K. of C. committee yesterday also announced the selection of Center Jack Andrews, Fort Hill senior, as the Lineman of the Week, for his play in the Fort Hill-Handley contest.

Jack is the fifth player chosen since the season got under way and joins Ken Poling, Fort Hill end; Rod Breedlove, Dick Johnson and Carl Brown, of Allegany, as nominees for the K. of C. Player of the Year Award.

Other Sentinels who came in for consideration were Donald Shaffer and Dick Alderton, ends, and Dale Hillegas, guard.

The Fort Hill pivot man intercepted a pair of Handley aerials and was responsible for many of the long Sentin l running plays and gave excellent protection for the Fort Hill passer.

The Andrews boys are not related but they both live in the same neighborhood. Jack's home is on Oldtown Road and Bob lives on Utah street. Both are 17.

YMCA Sunday School League Holds First Meeting On Monday

The first meeting of the YMCA Sunday School Basketball League for the 1954-55 season will be held at the "Y" Monday, October 25, at 8 p. m.

Churches desiring to participate are requested to have an adult representative present at this meeting.

Officers who served the past year are Arthur Davis, Emmanuel Episcopal, president; William "Bee" Orndorff, Emmanuel Methodist, vice president, and Clifton Van Roby, of the Central YMCA, secretary-treasurer.

Grace Baptist won the title last season, defeating Episcopal in the finals, 58-53.

The upcoming season is the 27th for the league. Twenty-eight teams participated in the 1953-54 race.

Women's Shuffleboard Contests Set Tonight

Frostburg American Legion, deadlocked with the Hi Dee Club and Clingerman's for first place in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League, will shoot it out with Cas Taylor's last place team on the latter's board in one of the five matches on tap for tonight.

Clingerman's visits the Purple Heart Club, the Hi Dee Club is host to the Woodmen of the World, Pocahontas invades Stadium Inn, Frostburg, and the Golden Nugget of Frostburg engages the Cresaptown Firemen's team at the latter place.

The three deadlocked leaders own 6-3 records while Stadium Inn, Pocahontas and W.O.W. are one game off the pace with 5-4 records.

Mims Whips Lee

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19—(INS)—Top-ranking middleweight contender Holly Mims punched out a unanimous 10-round decision tonight over Veteran Bobby Lee of Baltimore.

Mims, a popular Washington favorite, took command at the outset of the bout and steadily piled up points against Lee. Referee Eddie Lafond scored it 99 to 86 in favor of Mims, Judge Benny Alperstein called it 99 to 90 and Judge Charles Dryer, 100 to 93.

A crowd of 1,205 watched the bout at Turner's Arena.

AL Head Studies Athletics' Sale

Harridge Waits Until Final Papers Drawn

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (AP)—The American League's formal blessing of the Philadelphia Athletics' new deal again failed to materialize today.

League President Will Harridge reiterated his stand of yesterday that he would have no statement "until final papers have been drawn for the purchase of the Philadelphia club's stock."

In the meantime, Harridge is studying all angles of the sale of the A's by the Mack family to a group of Philadelphia businessmen. The league has the right to approve or disapprove the sale.

The eight new owners of the club have scheduled an organization meeting in Philadelphia tomorrow and must be certified by the league before they are officially in business.

Asked what the league might do if the six votes required for approval were not forthcoming, Harridge said:

"We would have to cross that bridge when we came to it."

Potomac State Plays Shepherd In Homecoming Saturday

20 High School Grads Of Area To See Action

Coach Fuoss' Rams Own 3-1-1 Record; Game Set For 2 P. M.

Approximately 20 former high school boys of the tri-state area will be seen in action Saturday when Potomac State and Shepherd College clash for the 28th time on the gridiron at Stayman Field, Keyser, at 2 p. m.

It's Potomac State's homecoming game and is expected to attract a large turnout.

Shepherd's lineup will include Phil Adams, Romney; Edgar "Barney" Tucker and Kenny Owens, formerly of Fort Hill High; Lee Weller and Dick Widdows, who played football at Allegany High; Ben Brakeall and Dave Wright, of Ridgeley; Charley Emery, Keyser; Don Largent, Paw Paw, and Willard Look, of Wardensville.

The Rams, coached by Donald E. Fuoss, own a 3-1-1 record. The Shephertstown team has defeated Fairmont State, 14-6, Bridgewater, 14-7 and Newport News, 40-13, lost to Randolph Macon, 25-7 and played a 7-7 tie with Glenville.

Former area schoolboy athletes who will be seen in Potomac State uniforms are George Campbell, Piedmont; Keith D. Collett, Parsons; Jimmy Fazzalore, Bob Smith and Jack Wilson, Keyser; Roger Parker and Bob and Bill Sirk, of Romney.

Shepherd whipped Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's Catamounts at Shepherdstown last year, 14-0. The series, started in 1923, is very much in favor of Potomac State which has won 21 games to Shepherd's three while three contests ended in draws.

Lough's grid assistants are John Maiden and John Fox.

The Catamounts have beaten Bainbridge Naval, 83-0 and Salem College, 20-7, and lost to West Virginia Tech, 20-8.

1923—Potomac, 35- 0	1937—Potomac, 14- 0
1924—Potomac, 35- 0	1938—Potomac, 13- 0

1936—6-6 tie

THEY'LL HOLD THE LINE AGAINST SHEPHERD—This trio of linemen will see action for Potomac State Saturday when Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's Catamounts play their homecoming game with the Shepherd College Rams Saturday afternoon at Keyser. They are, left to right: Jim Sperandio, sophomore guard of Catawba, W. Va., and graduate of Fairmont East High School; Will Main, sophomore center, graduate of Frederick (Md.) High School, and Jack Coolidge, sophomore guard, from Washington and Lee High School, Arlington, Va. Saturday's game at Stayman Field is set for 2 p. m.

Boxold Paces Conference In Total Offense

Duke's Bob Pascal Tops ACC Rushing

GREENSBORO, N. C., Oct. 19 (AP)—Charlie Boxold, quarterback for the Maryland Terrapins, took full advantage of the Saturday idleness of South Carolina's Mackie Prickett, and the Maryland star becomes the new yardmaker in the Atlantic Coast Conference, the No. 1 in total individual offense.

Boxold, according to statistics released by the ACC Service Bureau today, made up the slight difference that he trailed Prickett by completing three of six passes against North Carolina for 63 yards.

Duke's Bob Pascal gained 68 yards in 12 carries against Army, enough for one touchdown and the yardage to elevate the junior halfback to the No. 1 position in conference rushing. He passed both Connie Gravitte of North Carolina, who carried the ball only once against Maryland (for two yards), and John Zubaty of N. C. State. Pascal has averaged 5.2 yards per carry.

Two new names figured in the statistical story this week, George Marinkov, the sophomore scatback of N. C. State, and Dick Bielski, the senior fullback of Maryland. Marinkov rushed 57 yards in 10 carries against Florida State, and moved from nowhere into the No. 4 rushing position. Bielski had the third best day of the conference season, getting 102 yards in 13 carries against North Carolina.

VMI And Mountaineers To Play At Bluefield

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 19 (AP)—Halfback Dale Vaughn was limited to light running today as Virginia Military Institute held its first workout of the week in preparation for Saturday's game with West Virginia at Bluefield, W. Va. Vaughn is nursing a bruised hip received in the Virginia game last week.

The Keydets worked against West Virginia pass patterns and kicked against pressure, generally stressing running and conditioning. The squad finished the day's work with a complete review of offensive assignments.

Coach John McKenna is hoping his squad will be able to generate more offense against West Virginia than it has shown in the past two weeks.

Collins Scores TKO

BOSTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Featherweight Tommy Collins, 129½, of Boston, scored the third straight victory of his boxing comeback campaign tonight with a sixth round technical knockout over Bobby Why, 128¾, Los Angeles, in their scheduled 10-rounder at Boston Arena.

Referee Jimmy Mc Carron awarded the bout to Collins when Why, who had been down for a nine count in the fifth round, was unable to come out for the sixth.

Ted Atkinson rode his first winner on May 18, 1938 at Beulah Park in Ohio. The horse's name was Musical Jack.

Trojans' Jon Arnett Is Voted Back Of Week In College Poll

Beard And Wyant Receive Mention

[By The Associated Press]

Southern California's Jon Arnett, who did a great job of upholding football form on a day when upsets were a dime a dozen and stellar performances equally inexpensive, is the Associated Press Back of the Week.

Arnett was chosen today by sports writers and broadcasters.

The Southern California tailback is the second sophomore to be named Back of the Week this season. Lenny Dawson, Purdue passing star, was the first.

Arnett, 19-year-old speedster from Los Angeles, is quite accustomed to receiving such special mention. He was picked as "Player of the Year" in Los Angeles High School football in 1952; was a standout on the Southern California freshman team last year and was singled out as the Trojan sophomore most likely to succeed after spring practice.

In last Saturday's game Arnett ran for 179 yards in 18 carries and scored all three USC touchdowns in a 24-14 victory over the Webfoots. In addition he completed four of five passes for 39 yards.

A prep school gymnast and track star, Arnett can run 100 yards in 10 seconds and broad jump better than 24 feet. He impressed television watchers last Saturday with his exceptional shiftness in addition to his speed.

Still, Arnett didn't have a very big edge over Albert Elmore of Alabama, Duane Nutt of Southern Methodist, Fred Wyant of West Virginia, Dick Bielski of Maryland and Tom Gastall of Boston University when it came to picking this week's standout back.

Elmore completed eight of 13 passes for 100 yards and three touchdowns against Tennessee and rushed for 107 yards more. Nutt also threw three touchdown passes against Rice.

maneuvered West Virginia into a last-quarter victory over Penn State. He scored two touchdowns, passed for 130 yards and made a perfect pitchout to Dick Nicholson for the winning score. Bielski not only gained 102 yards on slippery turf but added some devastating blocking and tackling.

Galstall's performance against Syracuse prompted losing Coach Ben Schwartzwalder to call him, "the finest quarterback we have seen."

Other Back of the Week nominations included:

Dickie Beard, Virginia Tech.

Bob And Jack Andrews Chosen Football Players Of The Week

Fort Hill Halfback And Center Cited For Stellar Play In Handley Contest

Selection of Bob Andrews, senior and right halfback as the Back of the Week in recognition of his brilliant all-around performance as the Fort Hill High Sentinels lost a 7-6 squeaker to Handley High School of Winchester here Saturday night, was announced last night by the Knights of Columbus committee of sportswriters and sportscasters.

The Fort Hill-Handley game was the only contest in which a local team played at home over the past weekend.

Bob Gained 125 Yards

Bob starred on both offense and defense. He carried the ball 20 times, picking up 125 yards while losing only five. He made a nice gain of 21 yards to set up the Sentinel touchdown with Landis going over on the next play from 12 yards out. In the punting department, his five kicks averaged 29.8 yards.

The Sentinels' high point man this season also recovered a Handley fumble in the third period and ran back a punt 29 yards to get Fort Hill's touchdown drive under way. Bob had received mention in the selections every week and finally got the nod.

Other backs who have been cited for K. of C. awards since the start of the season are Jerry Landis, Fort Hill; Joe Conroy and Harold Hudson, LaSalle, and Don "Ducky" Perdew of Allegany.

Jack Is Named Lineman

The K. of C. committee yesterday also announced the selection of Center Jack Andrews, Fort Hill senior, as the Lineman of the Week, for his play in the Fort Hill-Handley contest.

Jack is the fifth player chosen since the season got under way and joins Ken Poling, Fort Hill end; Rod Breedlove, Dick Johnson and Carl Brown, of Allegany, as nominees for the K. of C. Player of the Year Award.

Other Sentinels who came in for consideration were Donald Shaffer and Dick Alderton, ends, and Dale Hillegas, guard.

The Fort Hill pivot man intercepted a pair of Handley aerials and was responsible for many of the long Sentinel running plays and gave excellent protection for the Fort Hill passer.

The Andrews boys are not related but they both live in the same neighborhood. Jack's home is on Oldtown Road and Bob lives on Utah street. Both are 17.

Women's Shuffleboard Contests Set Tonight

Frostburg American Legion, deadlocked with the Hi Dee Club and Clingerman's for first place in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League, will shoot it out with Cas Taylor's last place team on the latter's board in one of the five matches on tap for tonight.

Clingerman's visits the Purple Heart Club, the Hi Dee Club is host to the Woodmen of the World, Pocahontas invades Stadium Inn, Frostburg, and the Golden Nugget of Frostburg engages the Cresaptown Firemen's team at the latter place.

The three deadlocked leaders own 6-3 records while Stadium Inn, Pocahontas and W.O.W. are one game off the pace with 5-4 records.

YMCA Sunday School League Holds First Meeting On Monday

The first meeting of the YMCA Sunday School Basketball League for the 1954-55 season will be held at the "Y" Monday, October 25, at 8 p. m.

Churches desiring to participate are requested to have an adult representative present at this meeting.

Officers who served the past year are Arthur Davis, Emmanuel Episcopal, president; William "Bee" Orndorff, Emmanuel Methodist, vice president, and Clifton Van Roby, of the Central YMCA, secretary-treasurer.

Grace Baptist won the title last season, defeating Episcopal in the finals, 58-53.

The upcoming season is the 27th for the league. Twenty-eight teams participated in the 1953-54 race.

Mims Whips Lee

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19—(INS)—Top-ranking middleweight contender Holly Mims punched out a unanimous 10-round decision tonight over Veteran Bobby Lee of Baltimore.

Mims, a popular Washington favorite, took command at the outset of the bout and steadily piled up points against Lee. Referee Eddie Lafond scored it 99 to 86 in favor of Mims, Judge Benny Alperstein called it 99 to 90 and Judge Charles Dryer, 100 to 93.

A crowd of 1,205 watched the bout at Turner's Arena.

AL Head Studies Athletics' Sale

Harridge Waits Until Final Papers Drawn

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (AP)—The American League's formal blessing of the Philadelphia Athletics' new deal again failed to materialize today.

League President Will Harridge reiterated his stand of yesterday that he would have no statement "until final papers have been drawn for the purchase of the Philadelphia club's stock."

In the meantime, Harridge is studying all angles of the sale of the A's by the Mack family to a group of Philadelphia businessmen. The league has the right to approve or disapprove the sale.

The eight new owners of the club have scheduled an organization meeting in Philadelphia tomorrow and must be certified by the league before they are officially in business.

Asked what the league might do if the six votes required for approval were not forthcoming, Harridge said:

"We would have to cross that bridge when we came to it."

Big Year for Him

WINNER of 20 games in his rookie year, Bob Grim, Yankee star selected as "Rookie of the Year" in the American league, will go to Hawaii shortly to play exhibition baseball with Ed Lopat's All-Stars. His home is in Brooklyn. (International)

Valley at Mt. Savage
Flintstone at Beall

Displaying their best scoring punch of the season, Coach Augie Eichhorn's Bruce High School booters tallied in every period yesterday to turn back Beall High School by the score of 5-1 in a W.M.I. Soccer League contest at Westernport.

Bruce had scored only three points in its three previous league games.

"Kip" Montgomery put the Bulldogs out in front four minutes after the game got under way on a shot from ten yards out. Later in the period Gary Dayton slammed one through the uprights from a scrimmage in front of the goal.

Sweene Averts Shutout

Beall's lone score came on Neil Sweene's field goal from the 10-yard mark early in the second stanza. Montgomery, however, gave Bruce a 3-1 advantage at halftime when he registered on a penalty shot.

Billy Bennett, a Ninth Grader, left-footed a hook shot into the net from 15 yards out in the third quarter while in the final period Donnie Wilkinson hit the target from the 20-yard mark. The ball appeared as though it would sail over the crossbar but dipped under to elude the outstretched hands of the Beall goalie.

Bob Kertesz, Montgomery and Billy Salesky were Bruce's outstanding players while Dick Hawkins, Ronnie Rice and Neil Sweene were Beall's best bets.

The victory was Bruce's second in four outings and tied the Bulldogs with Beall for the runner-up spot, two games back of the front-running and undefeated Valley High Black Knights of Lonaconing.

Coach John Thomas' Mt. Savage High Braves shook a three-game losing streak to post their first win of the season over the Flintstone High Aggies at Mt. Savage. The score was 3-2.

Bishields Scores Twice

George Bishields racked up two of the Mt. Savage goals, one in the opening period and the other in the second quarter. Dale Whitehead scored for the Braves in the second quarter.

Ronald Shipley's goal enabled Flintstone to knot the count at 1-1 in the opening period and Thornton Robinette registered from the penalty line for the Aggies in the final heat.

Wayne Fleegle, Bishields and Whitehead of Mt. Savage and Shipley, Thornton and Ted Robinette of Flintstone were the outstanding players in this close battle. The lineups:

Lynn Beightol Injured, May Not Play Friday

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 19 (AP)—Maryland lost two substitute backs to the injured list today but regained a first string tackle for Friday night's game against undefeated Miami.

Coach Jim Tatum reported that halfback Ed Vereb will be out and quarterback Lynn Beightol is on the doubtful list.

"However, we've got Dick Shipley back and that's going to help us," he said. "He was playing the best defense at tackle before he got hurt two weeks ago."

Hugh Duffy, 87, Hall Of Fame Player, Dies

Batting Mark Of .438 Was Highest In Majors

BOSTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Hugh Duffy, whose .438 batting average with the 1894 Boston National League baseball team never has been equalled, died today at his home.

He would have been 88 Nov. 25.

In 60 years only four batsmen in the major leagues have come close to Duffy's record. Willie Keeler batted .432 in 1897, Rogers Hornsby .424 in 1924 and Ty Cobb and George Sisler each batted .420.

A junior-size powerhouse who stood 5 feet 7 and weighed 150, Duffy was elected to the baseball Hall of Fame in 1945. In 18 years in the major leagues, he not only set the batting mark on so high a pinnacle no one since has been able to reach it, but he also hit over .300 for 11 seasons and twice won the National League batting title. His lifetime batting average was .330.

After his unparalleled .438 batting performance, Duffy recalled he was paid a "magnificent" salary of $2,400.

He was an active scout for the Boston Red Sox of the American League through the 1953 season.

His wife died Aug. 22, 1953, after 56 years of marriage. They had no children.

Duffy managed Milwaukee in 1901 and the Philadelphia Nationals in 1904-06. His active career ended there. He was a non-playing manager of the Chicago White Sox in 1910 and 1911 and managed the Boston Red Sox in 1921-22.

Wins British Title

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK Oct. 19—(INS)—Kansas City insists it is a major league town with a minor league ball club, a statement which immediately poses three questions.

First, what is a major league town?

Second, how will Kansas City fans react to their failure to land an alleged major league club like the Athletics?

Third, aren't the Kansas City Blues of the American Association just about as good as the Philadelphia A's?

The late fight promoter Mike Jacobs always insisted that Philadelphia was not a "major league" town, although it draws 100,000 persons for an Army-Navy football game and drew 120,000 who paid $1,895,733 (without TV) for the first fight between Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey.

When we recalled these facts to Mike's attention one day, he snarled:

"Doesn't make any difference. Don't forget that those big football and fight gates came mostly from out-of-towners.

"I can show you figures to prove most of my ringside seats were bought by New Yorkers. Philly is a two-buck town. You can even buy things there cheaper than you can in New York."

That last crack seemed a strange indictment. It merely shows that Philadelphians are more discriminating, know values better and insist on getting their money's worth.

It seems to us that Philadelphia's failure to support two major league clubs may be due in part to too many other attractions. Still, it must be admitted that Philadelphia refused to support the A's even when Connie Mack had an all-conquering club. It could be that a little baseball goes a long way in Philadelphia.

In regard to the second question, the Yanks, who own the Kansas City franchise are worried and they realize that they will have to put a truly powerful club there to offset the disappointment of not landing a major league franchise.

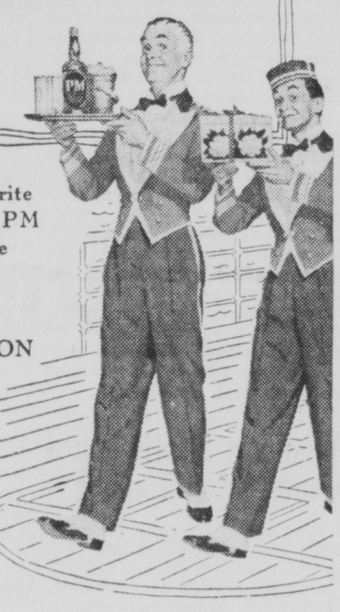

If we lived in Kansas City we would not be too down-hearted about failure to have a club like the A's to root for. The A's, as they are now, are strictly a bush-league outfit and their transfer to Kansas City would not make them any better.

Baltimore already has discovered that a change of uniform and a change of locale does not make a major league club.

In any event, the next time Kansas City has a chance for a major league outfit, it would do well to remember that, when dealing with baseball people, there may be many a slip twixt the cup and the lip.

Displaying their best scoring punch of the season, Coach Augie Eichhorn's Bruce High School booters tallied in every period yesterday to turn back Beall High School by the score of 5-1 in a W.M.I. Soccer League contest at Westernport.

Bruce had scored only three points in its three previous league games.

"Kip" Montgomery put the Bulldogs out in front four minutes after the game got under way on a shot from ten yards out. Later in the period Gary Dayton slammed one through the uprights from a scrimmage in front of the goal.

Sweene Averts Shutout

Beall's lone score came on Neil Sweene's field goal from the 10-yard mark early in the second stanza. Montgomery, however, gave Bruce a 3-1 advantage at halftime when he registered on a penalty shot.

Billy Bennett, a Ninth Grader, left-footed a hook shot into the net from 15 yards out in the third quarter while in the final period Donnie Wilkinson hit the target from the 20-yard mark. The ball appeared as though it would sail over the crossbar but dipped under to elude the outstretched hands of the Beall goalie.

Bob Kertesz, Montgomery and Billy Salesky were Bruce's outstanding players while Dick Hawkins, Ronnie Rice and Neil Sweene were Beall's best bets.

The victory was Bruce's second in four outings and tied the Bulldogs with Beall for the runner-up spot, two games back of the front-running and undefeated Valley High Black Knights of Lonaconing.

Coach John Thomas' Mt. Savage High Braves shook a three-game losing streak to post their first win of the season over the Flintstone High Aggies at Mt. Savage. The score was 3-2.

Bishields Scores Twice

George Bishields racked up two of the Mt. Savage goals, one in the opening period and the other in the second quarter. Dale Whitehead scored for the Braves in the second quarter.

Ronald Shipley's goal enabled Flintstone to knot the count at 1-1 in the opening period and Thornton Robinette registered from the penalty line for the Aggies in the final heat.

Wayne Fleegle, Bishields and Whitehead of Mt. Savage and Shipley, Thornton and Ted Robinette of Flintstone were the outstanding players in this close battle. The lineups:

Lynn Beightol Injured, May Not Play Friday

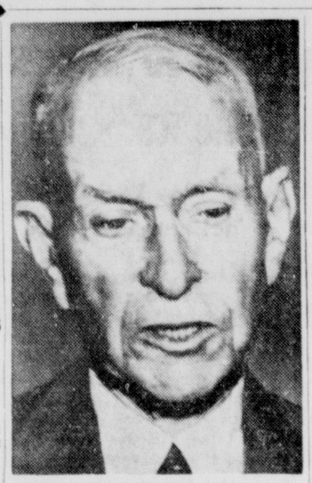

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 19 (AP)—Maryland lost two substitute backs to the injured list today but regained a first string tackle for Friday night's game against undefeated Miami.

Coach Jim Tatum reported that halfback Ed Vereb will be out and quarterback Lynn Beightol is on the doubtful list.

"However, we've got Dick Shipley back and that's going to help us," he said. "He was playing the best defense at tackle before he got hurt two weeks ago."

Hugh Duffy, 87, Hall Of Fame Player, Dies

Batting Mark Of .438 Was Highest In Majors

BOSTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Hugh Duffy, whose .438 batting average with the 1894 Boston National League baseball team never has been equalled, died today at his home.

He would have been 88 Nov. 25.

In 60 years only four batsmen in the major leagues have come close to Duffy's record. Willie Keeler batted .432 in 1897, Rogers Hornsby .424 in 1924 and Ty Cobb and George Sisler each batted .420.

A junior-size powerhouse who stood 5 feet 7 and weighed 150, Duffy was elected to the baseball Hall of Fame in 1945. In 18 years in the major leagues, he not only set the batting mark on so high a pinnacle no one since has been able to reach it, but he also hit over .300 for 11 seasons and twice won the National League batting title. His lifetime batting average was .330.

After his unparalleled .438 batting performance, Duffy recalled he was paid a "magnificent" salary of $2,400.

He was an active scout for the Boston Red Sox of the American League through the 1953 season.

His wife died Aug. 22, 1953, after 56 years of marriage. They had no children.

Duffy managed Milwaukee in 1901 and the Philadelphia Nationals in 1904-06. His active career ended there. He was a non-playing manager of the Chicago White Sox in 1910 and 1911 and managed the Boston Red Sox in 1921-22.

Wins British Title

LONDON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Dai Dower, 21-year-old Welsh miner, tonight won the British Empire flyweight boxing title by outpointing Zulu champion Jake Tuli of South Africa in a 15-round bout. Both weighed 111¾.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK Oct. 19—(INS)—Kansas City insists it is a major league town with a minor league ball club, a statement which immediately poses three questions.

First, what is a major league town?

Second, how will Kansas City fans react to their failure to land an alleged major league club like the Athletics?

Third, aren't the Kansas City Blues of the American Association just about as good as the Philadelphia A's?

The late fight promoter Mike Jacobs always insisted that Philadelphia was not a "major league" town, although it draws 100,000 persons for an Army-Navy football game and drew 120,000 who paid $1,895,733 (without TV) for the first fight between Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey.

When we recalled these facts to Mike's attention one day, he snarled:

"Doesn't make any difference. Don't forget that those big football and fight gates came mostly from out-of-towners.

"I can show you figures to prove most of my ringside seats were bought by New Yorkers. Philly is a two-buck town. You can even buy things there cheaper than you can in New York."

That last crack seemed a strange indictment. It merely shows that Philadelphians are more discriminating, know values better and insist on getting their money's worth.

It seems to us that Philadelphia's failure to support two major league clubs may be due in part to too many other attractions. Still, it must be admitted that Philadelphia refused to support the A's even when Connie Mack had an all-conquering club. It could be that a little baseball goes a long way in Philadelphia.

In regard to the second question, the Yanks, who own the Kansas City franchise are worried and they realize that they will have to put a truly powerful club there to offset the disappointment of not landing a major league franchise.

If we lived in Kansas City we would not be too down-hearted about failure to have a club like the A's to root for. The A's, as they are now, are strictly a bush-league outfit and their transfer to Kansas City would not make them any better.

Baltimore already has discovered that a change of uniform and a change of locale does not make a major league club.

In any event, the next time Kansas City has a chance for a major league outfit, it would do well to remember that, when dealing with baseball people, there may be many a slip twixt the cup and the lip.

Gavilan Is 19-10 Choice To Retain Welterweight Title

Johnny Saxton Tests Champ In Philadelphia

Twice Postponed Bout At Convention Hall To Attract 11,000

By JACK HAND

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19 (AP) — After two postponements due to hand trouble and a case of mumps, Kid Gavilan finally is ready to defend his world welterweight title against New York's Johnny Saxton tomorrow night at Convention Hall.

Kid Gavilan

The sleek Cuban remains a strong 19 to 10 favorite in the 15-round match, despite the usual rumors that he will have trouble making the 147-pound class limit.

The fighters will weigh in at noon tomorrow for the nationally televised (CBS) bout starting at 10 p.m. (EST).

Expects $80,000 Gate

Promoter Herman Taylor talks of a gate of 11,000 and $80,000 with an advance sale of about $30,000. The advance sale just about matches the total paid back in refunds after the fight was postponed, July 14 and Sept. 1. More conservative estimates hint the crowd may be no more than 8,500 and the gate about $60,000. The TV rights will bring another $40,000.

Gavilan hasn't fought since April 2 when he failed in his bid for Bobo Olson's middleweight crown. He used his right hand sparingly in that bout and later claimed he had injured the hand in a Feb. 23 tune-up match with Johnny Cunningham at Miami.

The Saxton match was set back for the first time in July when Gavilan, trouping Cuba with a song and dance unit, reported his hand still was in a cast. The September show was postponed on the eve of the fight when the doctors discovered the Keed had the mumps.

Gavilan, 28, is a veteran of 116 pro fights since 1943 with a 98-14-4 record. He has knocked out 27 opponents and never has been stopped.

Saxton Never Kayoed

Saxton, 24-year-old Golden Glove grad, never has been knocked out in 47 fights as a pro since 1949. He has 43-2-2 record, losing only to Gil Turner and Del Flanagan last year.

The bout presents one unique angle. Saxton, convicted of 12 traffic violations in New York is booked to start serving a 15-day jail sentence the day after the fight, champ or no champ.

Fight Turned Down

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (AP)—A proposed bout by the International Boxing Club between Al Andrews, Superior, Wis., middleweight, and Rocky Casillo of Blue Island, Ill., today was turned down by the Illinois State Athletic Commission.

The commission said it felt "Casillo was not a suitable opponent." The IBC had proposed the bout for Nov. 10.

Andrews knocked out Gil Turner in his last start.

Johnson Heights Wins Touch Grid Overtime Battle

Johnson Heights eked out a 7-6 decision over John Humbird in a Grade School Division game in the City Rec Touch Football League yesterday at Taylor Field.

The regulation game ended in a 6-6 tie and Johnson Heights outgained their opponents in a sudden death extra period to win.

At Stitcher Field, E. Wagner scored two touchdowns to give the West Side Lions a 12-0 decision over Centre Street.

Penn Avenue walloped the Penn Avenue Mustangs in a High School Division game at Penn Field by the score of 36-12.

At Constitution Park, the Penn Avenue Cubs, paced by K. Boggs who scored twice, defeated the Baker Street Bears, 18-6, in a Junior High Division contest. The scores:

Colgate Coach Gets Five-Year Contract

HAMILTON, N. Y., Oct. 19 (AP)—Colgate University has extended grid Coach Hal Lahar's contract for five years.

Lahar, now in his third year at Colgate, currently is piloting an undefeated Red Raider eleven that has turned back Cornell, Holy Cross, Rutgers and Dartmouth.

Dalton Hillegas scooted over from the six-yard mark in the third quarter for the only touchdown of the game as Fort Hill High School's Jayvees defeated the Beall High junior varsity gridders yesterday at Frostburg by the score of 6-0.

The victory was the fourth in a row for Coach Wayne Boor's undefeated Little Sentinels.

The Fort Hillians reeled off seven first downs to five for the Little Mountaineers and chalked up 152 net yards rushing to the losers' 65.

The teams will clash again Monday at Fort Hill.

Mays And Minoso Capture Slugging Honors For Year

Willie Made 87 Extra Base Hits For Giants

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP) — Outfielders Willie Mays of the New York Giants and Orestes (Minnie) Minoso of the Chicago White Sox, a pair of powerful righthanded hitters, today were crowned the major league slugging kings for 1954.

Mays, returning from a two-year Army hitch to spark the Giants to the world championship, topped the National League with a lusty .667 slugging average. Minoso, in his fourth season in the majors, was the American League leader with .535.

Statistics compiled by the Associated Press revealed that Mays accumulated 377 total bases in 565 at bats. Slugging averages are computed by dividing a players's number of times at bat into his total bases.

Mays, who also led his league in batting, delivered 195 hits, including 33 doubles, 13 triples, most in the league, and 41 home runs.

Minoso, runnerup to Cleveland's Bobby Avila in the American League batting race, produced 304 total bases in 568 trips. The speedy Cuban collected 29 doubles, 18 triples, most in the league and 19 homers among his 182 hits.

In 1953 Minoso finished sixth in the AL slugging derby with .466. Al Rosen of the Indians captured the title with .613, but he slipped to third in 1954.

Brooklyn's Duke Snider tailed Mays for National League slugging supremacy with a .647 average and big Ted Kluszewski of the Cincinnati Redlegs ranked third at .639. Snider was the NL slugging leader in 1953, barely edging Milwaukee's Ed Mathews, .6271 to .6269.

Snider amassed 378 total bases, most in both circuits, in 584 at bats. Kluszewski, the major league home run pace-setter with 49, accounted for 366 total bases in 573 trips.

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cards wound up fourth in the slugging ratings with .607 mark, as a result at 359 TB's in 591 times at bat.

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees trailed Minoso in the American League slugging trade with 284 total bases in 543 at bats for a .523 average. Mantle's collection of 163 hits included 16 doubles, 12 triples and 27 home runs.

Rosen was next with .506, achieved on 236 total bases in 466 trips. Among his 140 hits were 20 doubles, two triples and 24 homers.

The fighters will weigh in at noon tomorrow for the nationally televised (CBS) bout starting at 10 p.m. (EST).

Expects $80,000 Gate

Promoter Herman Taylor talks of a gate of 11,000 and $80,000 with an advance sale of about $30,000. The advance sale just about matches the total paid back in refunds after the fight was postponed, July 14 and Sept. 1. More conservative estimates hint the crowd may be no more than 8,500 and the gate about $60,000. The TV rights will bring another $40,000.

Gavilan hasn't fought since April 2 when he failed in his bid for Bobo Olson's middleweight crown. He used his right hand sparingly in that bout and later claimed he had injured the hand in a Feb. 23 tune-up match with Johnny Cunningham at Miami.

The Saxton match was set back for the first time in July when Gavilan, trouping Cuba with a song and dance unit, reported his hand still was in a cast. The September show was postponed on the eve of the fight when the doctors discovered the Keed had the mumps.

Gavilan, 28, is a veteran of 116 pro fights since 1943 with a 98-14-4 record. He has knocked out 27 opponents and never has been stopped.

Saxton Never Kayoed

Saxton, 24-year-old Golden Glove grad, never has been knocked out in 47 fights as a pro since 1949. He has 43-2-2 record, losing only to Gil Turner and Del Flanagan last year.

The bout presents one unique angle. Saxton, convicted of 12 traffic violations in New York is booked to start serving a 15-day jail sentence the day after the fight, champ or no champ.

Fight Turned Down

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (AP)—A proposed bout by the International Boxing Club between Al Andrews, Superior, Wis., middleweight, and Rocky Casillo of Blue Island, Ill., today was turned down by the Illinois State Athletic Commission.

The commission said it felt "Casillo was not a suitable opponent." The IBC had proposed the bout for Nov. 10.

Andrews knocked out Gil Turner in his last start.

Johnson Heights Wins Touch Grid Overtime Battle

Johnson Heights eked out a 7-6 decision over John Humbird in a Grade School Division game in the City Rec Touch Football League yesterday at Taylor Field.

The regulation game ended in a 6-6 tie and Johnson Heights outgained their opponents in a sudden death extra period to win.

At Stitcher Field, E. Wagner scored two touchdowns to give the West Side Lions a 12-0 decision over Centre Street.

Penn Avenue walloped the Penn Avenue Mustangs in a High School Division game at Penn Field by the score of 36-12.

At Constitution Park, the Penn Avenue Cubs, paced by K. Boggs who scored twice, defeated the Baker Street Bears, 18-6, in a Junior High Division contest. The scores:

Dalton Hillegas scooted over from the six-yard mark in the third quarter for the only touchdown of the game as Fort Hill High School's Jayvees defeated the Beall High junior varsity gridders yesterday at Frostburg by the score of 6-0.

The victory was the fourth in a row for Coach Wayne Boor's undefeated Little Sentinels.

The Fort Hillians reeled off seven first downs to five for the Little Mountaineers and chalked up 152 net yards rushing to the losers' 65.

The teams will clash again Monday at Fort Hill.

Mays And Minoso Capture Slugging Honors For Year

Willie Made 87 Extra Base Hits For Giants

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP) — Outfielders Willie Mays of the New York Giants and Orestes (Minnie) Minoso of the Chicago White Sox, a pair of powerful righthanded hitters, today were crowned the major league slugging kings for 1954.

Mays, returning from a two-year Army hitch to spark the Giants to the world championship, topped the National League with a lusty .667 slugging average. Minoso, in his fourth season in the majors, was the American League leader with .535.

Statistics compiled by the Associated Press revealed that Mays accumulated 377 total bases in 565 at bats. Slugging averages are computed by dividing a players's number of times at bat into his total bases.

Mays, who also led his league in batting, delivered 195 hits, including 33 doubles, 13 triples, most in the league, and 41 home runs.

Minoso, runnerup to Cleveland's Bobby Avila in the American League batting race, produced 304 total bases in 568 trips. The speedy Cuban collected 29 doubles, 18 triples, most in the league and 19 homers among his 182 hits.

In 1953 Minoso finished sixth in the AL slugging derby with .466. Al Rosen of the Indians captured the title with .613, but he slipped to third in 1954.

Brooklyn's Duke Snider tailed Mays for National League slugging supremacy with a .647 average and big Ted Kluszewski of the Cincinnati Redlegs ranked third at .639. Snider was the NL slugging leader in 1953, barely edging Milwaukee's Ed Mathews, .6271 to .6269.

Snider amassed 378 total bases, most in both circuits, in 584 at bats. Kluszewski, the major league home run pace-setter with 49, accounted for 366 total bases in 573 trips.

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cards wound up fourth in the slugging ratings with .607 mark, as a result at 359 TB's in 591 times at bat.

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees trailed Minoso in the American League slugging trade with 284 total bases in 543 at bats for a .523 average. Mantle's collection of 163 hits included 16 doubles, 12 triples and 27 home runs.

Rosen was next with .506, achieved on 236 total bases in 466 trips. Among his 140 hits were 20 doubles, two triples and 24 homers.

Radio And Television

Better Late Than Never

Well, it's a little late, but I don't think the last of the Max Liebman specials—Mr. Liebman is terribly, terribly tired of the word spectacular—should go unnoticed. This show, "Sunday in Town," (NBC-TV 7:30 p. m. EST) brought together the very considerable talents of Judy Holliday, Steve Allen and a brand new comic named Dick Shawn and it was, I think, the best of these lavish operations so far.

The whole hour and a half revolved around New York's famed City Center where all sorts of things take place — opera, ballet, plays and Jose Ferrer. This gave Mr. Liebman scope to move in almost any direction he chose. Following an opening ballet, which was a little too stylized and maybe a little stuffy, Mr. Allen teamed up with Miss Holliday in a wonderfully hilarious bit wherin he takes her to her first opera. These two — the dry, urbane, aloof Mr. Allen and the scatterbrained Miss Holliday — are a great comedy team and I hope NBC has enough sense to throw them together again.

Liebman then unveiled Mr. Shawn whose journey to stardom is one of the quickest trips on record. Shawn started in show business in 1953 in the Poconos and already he's on a network. Last fall, he appeared at the Palace on Broadway with Betty Hutton and the day after his opening, his name was given second billing on the marquee. Of this appearance Abel Green, editor of "Variety" wrote: "For the history books, young Mr. Shawn will go down in the decadent vaudeville annals as one act who was 'made' in a straight vaudeville theater as late as the fall of 1953. This hasn't happened in show biz in 20 years."

Shawn's style and material are a little hard to explain. He does a bit about waiting for old Massa Somebody or Other to come home from the Civil War, which takes forever to build but is well worth it. Then he did an imitation of the relaxed or Perry Como-type singer doing "Vesta La Giubba" which was not only very funny but very original The boy (age 27) needs experience, but he's awfully good.

Miss Holliday was very good in an ingenious (but overlong) bit where she played a waitress who was trying to get the luncheon order from a ballet company while it was rehearsing and somehow got mixed up in the ballet herself. Then the three stars did a marvelous rendition of "Mississippi Mud." This was so strong that it should have closed the show. Originally it was scheduled that way and I don't know why they switched it.

My objection to this show was that there was too much ballet. The ballet which ended the show with music by Virgil Thomson was intermittently interesting and very well performed by the City Center ballet company but it was much, much too long for this sort of show. Mr. Liebman's ballet mania had ought to be curbed. I don't mean eliminated, just held in check.

To pass to other matters, I have before me a front page editorial from "The Territorial Enterprise" of Virginia City, Nev., thundering against television. Television has not yet defiled that ancient and largely moribund mining town, and the editor of that sheet wants it kept that way. The editor in question is Lucius Beebe, a refugee from "21" who for the last year or so has been inhabiting the Far West.

I bring it up here because the editorial postures of "The Territorial Enterprise" have always been pretty strange and always highly entertaining. In addition to television, Mr. Beebe is also violently opposed to Methodists and all their works and never ceases castigating them.

GAME IS YOUR HOPE

YOUR main hope, when you make a takeout or informatory double, is that it will result in your side reaching a makeable game. Since it conventionally shows more strength than would an original bid, it tells your partner that your pair may have a game even if his hand is weaker than an opening bid hand, which ordinarily is reckoned as about half the strength required for a major suit or No Trump game. If your partner, after such a double, takes any action which indicates he has better than a worthless hand, you should feel that your main objective is probably in sight, and act accordingly.

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.

East	South	West	North
1 ♦	Dbl.	Pass	1 ♠
2 ♣	Pass	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	2 ♠

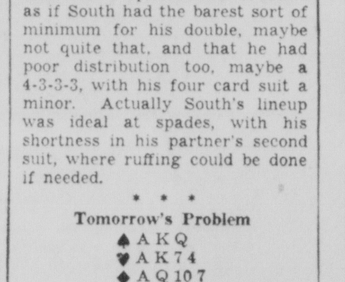

Only one of South's three turns brought sound action, the first, when he doubled. Being well above the minimum for his double, and his hand being made still stronger by virtue of the fact that East's strength was at his right, South should have happily shown a fit for the spades on his second turn, over the 2-Clubs. When his turn came again, North made a voluntary bid, not forced out of him by a double, when he called 2-Hearts. Right there, South should have shown his pleasure with the whole situation, by bidding 3-Spades instead of two, or maybe even 4-Spades if he had plenty of eggs for breakfast.

It happened that taking ten tricks proved easy for North, who lost only one trick in hearts and two in diamonds. But no game was scored because it was not bid.

South tried to blame North for not bidding again over the 2-Spades, but nobody at the table agreed with him. North said the mere preference shift from 2-Hearts to 2-Spades made it sound as if South had the barest sort of minimum for his double, maybe not quite that, and that he had poor distribution too, maybe a 4-3-3-3, with his four card suit a minor. Actually South's lineup was ideal at spades, with his shortness in his partner's second suit, where ruffing could be done if needed.

Better Late Than Never

Well, it's a little late, but I don't think the last of the Max Liebman specials—Mr. Liebman is terribly, terribly tired of the word spectacular—should go unnoticed. This show, "Sunday in Town," (NBC-TV 7:30 p. m. EST) brought together the very considerable talents of Judy Holliday, Steve Allen and a brand new comic named Dick Shawn and it was, I think, the best of these lavish operations so far.

The whole hour and a half revolved around New York's famed City Center where all sorts of things take place — opera, ballet, plays and Jose Ferrer. This gave Mr. Liebman scope to move in almost any direction he chose. Following an opening ballet, which was a little too stylized and maybe a little stuffy, Mr. Allen teamed up with Miss Holliday in a wonderfully hilarious bit wherin he takes her to her first opera. These two — the dry, urbane, aloof Mr. Allen and the scatterbrained Miss Holliday — are a great comedy team and I hope NBC has enough sense to throw them together again.

Liebman then unveiled Mr. Shawn whose journey to stardom is one of the quickest trips on record. Shawn started in show business in 1953 in the Poconos and already he's on a network. Last fall, he appeared at the Palace on Broadway with Betty Hutton and the day after his opening, his name was given second billing on the marquee. Of this appearance Abel Green, editor of "Variety" wrote: "For the history books, young Mr. Shawn will go down in the decadent vaudeville annals as one act who was 'made' in a straight vaudeville theater as late as the fall of 1953. This hasn't happened in show biz in 20 years."

Shawn's style and material are a little hard to explain. He does a bit about waiting for old Massa Somebody or Other to come home from the Civil War, which takes forever to build but is well worth it. Then he did an imitation of the relaxed or Perry Como-type singer doing "Vesta La Giubba" which was not only very funny but very original. The boy (age 27) needs experience, but he's awfully good.

Miss Holliday was very good in an ingenious (but overlong) bit where she played a waitress who was trying to get the luncheon order from a ballet company while it was rehearsing and somehow got mixed up in the ballet herself. Then the three stars did a marvelous rendition of "Mississippi Mud." This was so strong that it should have closed the show. Originally it was scheduled that way and I don't know why they switched it.

My objection to this show was that there was too much ballet. The ballet which ended the show with music by Virgil Thomson was intermittently interesting and very well performed by the City Center ballet company but it was much, much too long for this sort of show. Mr. Liebman's ballet mania had ought to be curbed. I don't mean eliminated, just held in check.

To pass to other matters, I have before me a front page editorial from "The Territorial Enterprise" of Virginia City, Nev., thundering against television. Television has not yet defiled that ancient and largely moribund mining town, and the editor of that sheet wants it kept that way. The editor in question is Lucius Beebe, a refugee from "21" who for the last year or so has been inhabiting the Far West.

I bring it up here because the editorial postures of "The Territorial Enterprise" have always been pretty strange and always highly entertaining. In addition to television, Mr. Beebe is also violently opposed to Methodists and all their works and never ceases castigating them.

Card of Thanks

We desire to extend our heartfelt thanks to all who aided and comforted us in our recent sad bereavement, the death of our beloved mother, Eleanor Marple. Especially do we thank the pallbearers, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral, those who sent floral tributes and the ministers, Rev. Carl Johnson, Jr., and Rev. Marlin J. King, for their comforting words.

THE CHILDREN

In Memoriam

In loving memory of William H. Green who was killed two years ago today, October 20, 1952.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our house,
Which never can be filled.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you,
Life will never be the same.
His wife and children

In memory of our darling son, and brother, Pfc. David M. Short, who was killed in Germany, October 19, 1946.

Eight years ago you left us, never to return;
It breaks our hearts to know that
Dave was called away from us;
But we know that you are at rest,
How we long to have you back,
Someday we will come to you.
We know you are in good hands with God.
His parents Mr. & Mrs. Herbert Short,
Brothers and Sister.

Card of Thanks

We desire to extend our heartfelt thanks to all who aided and comforted us in our recent sad bereavement, the death of our beloved mother, Eleanor Marple. Especially do we thank the pallbearers, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral, those who sent floral tributes and the ministers, Rev. Carl Johnson, Jr., and Rev. Marlin J. King, for their comforting words.

THE CHILDREN

In Memoriam

In loving memory of William H. Green who was killed two years ago today, October 20, 1952.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our house,
Which never can be filled.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you,
Life will never be the same.
His wife and children

In memory of our darling son, and brother, Pfc. David M. Short, who was killed in Germany, October 19, 1946.

Eight years ago you left us, never to return;
It breaks our hearts to know that
Dave was called away from us;
But we know that you are at rest,
How we long to have you back,
Someday we will come to you.
We know you are in good hands with God.
His parents Mr. & Mrs. Herbert Short,
Brothers and Sister.

Gains Posted By Aircraft, Rails As Market Goes Up

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP) — Gains of two to three points were posted by some railroad and aircraft shares today as the Stock Market moved generally higher.

The airlines also were active and higher. And here and there throughout the list, selected issues advanced a point or more.

Paced by Atlantic Coast Line, Union Pacific and Northern Pacific, the rails moved to a new average high for the year. Douglas, Boeing, Sperry and Glenn Martin were the favorites in the plane-makers' section. United Airlines scored an advance of more than a point in its group.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 70 cents to $135.60. The rails were up $1.60 to a new 1954 high of $101.50. The industrials climbed 50 cents and the utilities 10 cents.

Volume was on the light side at 1,900,000 shares. Yesterday also was rather quiet, with 1,790,000 shares changing hands.

In other sections of the list, good gains were made by Armco Steel, Goodyear, Zenith, Western Union, Bethlehem, Consolidated Natural Gas, Kaiser Aluminum, Magnavox and Industrial Rayon. Among the few wide losers were Rohm & Haas, Allied Chemical, General Foods, and Columbia Pictures.

American Airlines headed the most active list, gaining 3/8 at 15½ on 30,600 shares. Schering Corp. was No. 2 with a gain of a point at 137/8. It was followed by Glenn Martin, up 1⅛; Burlington Mills, up 3/8, and Baltimore & Ohio, ahead ¼.

Halloween Event At Moorefield Planned By PTA

MOOREFIELD — The chairman of the finance committee of Moorefield Parent Teacher Association appointed chairmen for various committees for the Halloween Carnival, at the meeting Monday night at Moorefield Graded School building. Mr. Burns stated that Mrs. G. B. Stalnaker and Mrs. David Hahn would be co-chairmen for the carnival.

Sub chairmen are: Food Sale, Mrs. W. W. Vance; Penny Pitch, and other activities, Ted Burns; Pop Corn Table, Mrs. Price Riggleman; Chance Cake, Miss Judy Burns with Miss Isobel Powers; Guess Jar, Miss Judy Bauserman with Miss Betty Gamble; Cake Walk, Ted Burns; Ice Cream, Mrs. Page Weese; Fish Pond, E. B. Simmons; Carnival Queen, Mrs. Hansel Harper; Cashiers, J. A. Mathias and Raymond Sindy. Some committees were appointed and other committees were left to the chairman.

The Carnival will be held on Friday night, October 29, after the Lions Club Parade.

The Rev. Paul Sutton, president of the Parent Teacher organization, called for committee reports. The treasurer announced there was $87.46 in the treasury. Mrs. R. J. Bean reported a total membership of 200. During the contest for members, Mrs. R. M. Gamble's Second Grade had won the out-door ball given as a prize. Miss Ada Heishman's Fourth Grade had won a basket ball.

The room count gave the $2 to Irvin Sherman's Fifth Grade.

The program, presented by Mrs. Donald Baker, was a tribute to the teachers. She read an original poem listing the teachers in the Moorefield schools. Mrs. Aleck Welton played "Manhattan Serenade."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Frances Denny, Mrs. C. A. Ludwick and Mrs. Wyndell Everett.

Gains Posted By Aircraft, Rails As Market Goes Up

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP) — Gains of two to three points were posted by some railroad and aircraft shares today as the Stock Market moved generally higher.

The airlines also were active and higher. And here and there throughout the list, selected issues advanced a point or more.

Paced by Atlantic Coast Line, Union Pacific and Northern Pacific, the rails moved to a new average high for the year. Douglas, Boeing, Sperry and Glenn Martin were the favorites in the planemakers' section. United Airlines scored an advance of more than a point in its group.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 70 cents to $135.60. The rails were up $1.60 to a new 1954 high of $101.50. The industrials climbed 50 cents and the utilities 10 cents.

Volume was on the light side at 1,900,000 shares. Yesterday also was rather quiet, with 1,790,000 shares changing hands.

In other sections of the list, good gains were made by Armco Steel, Goodyear, Zenith, Western Union, Bethlehem, Consolidated Natural Gas, Kaiser Aluminum, Magnavox and Industrial Rayon. Among the few wide losers were Rohm & Haas, Allied Chemical, General Foods, and Columbia Pictures.

American Airlines headed the most active list, gaining ⅜ at 15½ on 30,600 shares. Schering Corp. was No. 2 with a gain of a point at 137⅛. It was followed by Glenn Martin, up 1⅛; Burlington Mills, up ⅜, and Baltimore & Ohio, ahead ¼.

Halloween Event At Moorefield Planned By PTA

MOOREFIELD — The chairman of the finance committee of Moorefield Parent Teacher Association appointed chairmen for various committees for the Halloween Carnival, at the meeting Monday night at Moorefield Graded School building. Mr. Burns stated that Mrs. G. B. Stalnaker and Mrs. David Hahn would be co-chairmen for the carnival.

Sub chairmen are: Food Sale, Mrs. W. W. Vance; Penny Pitch, and other activities, Ted Burns; Pop Corn Table, Mrs. Price Riggleman; Chance Cake, Miss Judy Burns with Miss Isobel Powers; Guess Jar, Miss Judy Bauserman with Miss Betty Gamble; Cake Walk, Ted Burns; Ice Cream, Mrs. Page Weese; Fish Pond, E. B. Simmons; Carnival Queen, Mrs. Hansel Harper; Cashiers, J. A. Mathias and Raymond Sindy. Some committees were appointed and other committees were left to the chairman.

The Carnival will be held on Friday night, October 29, after the Lions Club Parade.

The Rev. Paul Sutton, president of the Parent Teacher organization, called for committee reports. The treasurer announced there was $87.46 in the treasury. Mrs. R. J. Bean reported a total membership of 200. During the contest for members, Mrs. R. M. Gamble's Second Grade had won the out-door ball given as a prize. Miss Ada Heishman's Fourth Grade had won a basket ball.

The room count gave the $2 to Irvin Sherman's Fifth Grade.

The program, presented by Mrs. Donald Baker, was a tribute to the teachers. She read an original poem listing the teachers in the Moorefield schools. Mrs. Aleck Welton played "Manhattan Serenade."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Frances Denny, Mrs. C. A. Ludwick and Mrs. Wyndell Everett.

Chest Campaign To Be Extended Until Tuesday

Pledges At $84,597 Mark Despite Storm

Leaders of the Cumberland Community Chest yesterday extended the campaign to raise $100,999.23 until next Tuesday night after reports showed receipts of $84,597.05, or 83.8 per cent of the goal for the Red Feather drive.

William R. Carscaden, general chairman, said the additional time will be needed to allow the completion of solicitation, especially among industries which were hard hit by Hurricane Hazel.

Yesterday's reports were presented at a joint meeting with the Cumberland Rotary Club in Central YMCA.

Goals Are Near

The Advance Gifts Division reported pledges and gifts totaling $51,166, or 91.3 per cent of its $56,000 goal.

The Classified Division noted a total of $25,570, or 84.8 per cent of its $34,000 objective.

Carscaden announced that the victory meeting of the drive will be held Tuesday at 6:15 p. m. in Central YMCA and urged all workers to complete their calls, since the campaign cannot be continued after that date.

Emergency meetings were called today by the three major units of the campaign to bring a swift windup of the solicitation.

To Plan Strategy

The Advance Gifts Division will meet at 12:30 p. m. in the Fort Cumberland Hotel, Residential workers at 2:15 p. m. at the campaign office, and the Sales Army staff has scheduled a breakfast today at 7:45 a. m.

Robert E. Barnard Jr., Classified chairman, said reports from industries are late, chiefly as a result of damage from the storm, but that all industries are doing a good job and that all reports are encouraging.

He urged that the drives in industries be speeded up as much as possible, so full reports may be presented at the final report meeting Friday at 12:15 p.m. in Central YMCA.

F. Perry Smith, Rotary president, welcomed the Chest delegation. Entertainment was provided by the Allegany Dixiecats.

Goals Are Met

Cobey, Carscaden and Gilchrist, American Dental Laboratory, Typewriter Sales and Service, Edwin M. Horchler office, Green's Fur Shop, Associated Charities, Cadillac Cocktail Lounge, Habeeb Flower Shop.

Himmler Market, Stacey's Food Market, The Hub, May's Costume Hat Shop, E. Baldwin Buchanan, Grace Baptist Church, Charles E. Brode, Russler-Chadwick, William J. Conway.

Joe's Barber Shop, Brown Sign Service, Carl C. Shatzer, Cameron Grocery, Cumberland Heights Grocery, Merten's Plumbing and Heating, Pittsburgh Auto Equipment, Allegany Inn Hotel, offices of Estel C. Kelley, Simon K. Reilly, Walter C. Capper and William A. Gunter.

SS. Peter and Paul Church, State Farm Mutual, Plasterers and Cement Finishers Union Local 296, Hi-Dee Club, Dr. S. E. Enfield, Western Maryland Building and Loan, Hawkinson Retread Company, Clinebell's Cake Box, Kingsley Methodist Church and Rusco Window & Supply.

Cited by Barnard, classified chairman, for meeting their goals were:

Archdeacon To Speak Here

Venerable Albert Lucas, archdeacon of the Episcopal Diocese of Maryland, will discuss the parish survey at a meeting of the congregation of Emmanuel Episcopal Church at 7:30 this evening.

The survey was conducted a year ago in every parish in the diocese to determine needs. Future opportunities also have been charted in the survey.

Refreshments will be provided after the meeting by the Men of Emmanuel.

Man Arrested Here For False Pretense

Joseph A. Naples, of New Castle, Pa., was arrested by City Police yesterday evening and is being held for action of the State's Attorneys office on a state warrant.

Naples, who has aliases of Tony King and Jack Monroe, according to the warrant, allegedly obtained through false pretenses an accordion valued at $250, from Melvin Stewart, who operates the Stewart Music House. Arresting officer was City Police Detective James E. Van.

County GOP Club Plans Rally Here

Top hands from the GOP speakers bureau will speak on behalf of Republican candidates at a meeting of the Young Republican Club of Allegany County here Thursday night.

The rally will be held at 8 p. m. in GOP headquarters in the Fort Cumberland Hotel, with Mrs. Elaine Palmer, president, presiding.

J. Glenn Beall Jr. will speak on behalf of the candidacy of Governor Theodore R. McKeldin and for Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde, candidate for re-election to Congress.

Donald W. Mason will deliver an address on Edward D. E. Rollins, Gov. McKeldin's running mate for attorney general.

James S. Getty, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany County, will speak for GOP candidates for state's attorney, the County Delegation to the General Assembly, county commissioners and sheriff.

Street Workers Speed Clean-Up Of Storm Debris

Catch Basin Work To Take Six Weeks

City Street Department crews have completed the surface clean-up in the wake of Hurricane Hazel, but William H. Buchholtz, commissioner of streets and public property, said it will take up to six more weeks to empty storm debris from catch basins.

Work done so far includes pumping out 54 flooded cellars, the removal of several large trees and up to a dozen loads of limbs blown down as high winds hit, and the scrubbing of nine streets.

Street Superintendent Andrew Heller said men are now busy emptying storm debris from the some 1,200 catch basins which protect the city's storm sewer system.

He said most of the basins can be emptied fairly quickly with the city's mechanical catch basin cleaner.

More time is needed for the other 300 older catch basins, which must be cleaned by hand, since the openings are too small to admit the clam-shell buckets which are part of the mechanical cleaner.

Manslaughter Trial Today

Donald Lee Festerman, 20, of RFD 2, Frostburg, will be tried this morning in Allegany County Circuit Court on a manslaughter charge resulting from the death of a Moscow coal miner on September 12.

The trial will begin at 9:15 a. m. and Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris will preside. Charles Junior Beeman, 52, of Moscow, was killed instantly when struck by a car early Sunday morning, September 12.

The accident occurred as the miner was walking across State Route 36 at Pekin. Festerman, according to the indictment placed on the open docket, was the driver of the vehicle and was "grossly negligent" in the operation of the car, resulting in Beeman's death.

Festerman was released from Allegany County Jail on $1,000 bond pending the court trial.

Parole Stricken Out

Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason yesterday struck out a parole granted last Friday to William "Buck" Brant, no address, and sentenced the man to one year in the House of Correction as a habitual drunkard.

Brant was paroled on the charge last week after he had been convicted of drunkenness five times since August 7.

Kimble Answers Demo Charges On Tax Rate

Says Biggest Debt Is Lane Holdover

State Senator Robert B. Kimble last night replied to Democratic charges that he had made misleading statements on the Maryland tax rate, and quoted a batch of figures tending to show that nearly 70 per cent the state's 1955 indebtedness was incurred under Democratic administrations.

Speaking before 200 persons attending a standing-room-only Republican rally in Midland the Allegany County senator recalled that he had been taken to task publicly last week by "a very prominent and influential citizen" because he had said the present State Administration had provided for a 15 per cent reduction for two separate years, and because he had said the real estate tax was the lowest in Maryland history.

Kimble said his critic had chided him for having voted for a bill last February which raised the 1955 tax rate from 5.67 cents per $100 to 10.39 cents.

Democratic Leftover

"However," said Kimble, "you are entitled to know why my colleagues in the House and I voted to raise the state real estate tax.

"The reason is simply this: when the state passes a state bond act and issue state bonds it must be paid just like any other indebtedness."

Commenting that the Democratic majority in the Legislature also voted for the bill, Kimble pointed out that Gov. McKeldin's budget provided $6,634,890 for payments on principal and interest due in 1955.

"But 8.9 per cent of this amount was incurred in the administration of former Governor Herbert R. O'Connor, 69.1 per cent was by former Governor William Preston Lane Jr., and 22 per cent by Governor McKeldin.

Sen. Kimble then pointed out that .89 cents of the 1955 tax rate is a holdover from the O'Connor administration, 6.06 cents from the Lane administration, and only 3.44 cents from the present administration.

Replies To Critics

Kimble also had some words for critics who he said have charged that his position as a railroad safety engineer has interferred with his work as a legislator.

"As evidence of my fairness and interest in behalf of all classes of business, professions and industry," Kimble declared, "I have letters of commendation from farm organizations, school authorities, teachers, and professional groups."

Kimble cited as an example a letter from Thomas E. Wilderman, general manager of the Maryland Motor Truck Association, citing him for his service "to the people of your county and your state."

James S. Getty, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany County, was toastmaster at the rally in Red Men's Hall.

J. Glenn Beall Jr. of Frostburg, president of the Federation of Young Republicans of Maryland, spoke on behalf of the whole Republican ticket, and criticized Harry C. Byrd, Democratic nominee for governor for "frequent retractions."

GOP Officials Attend

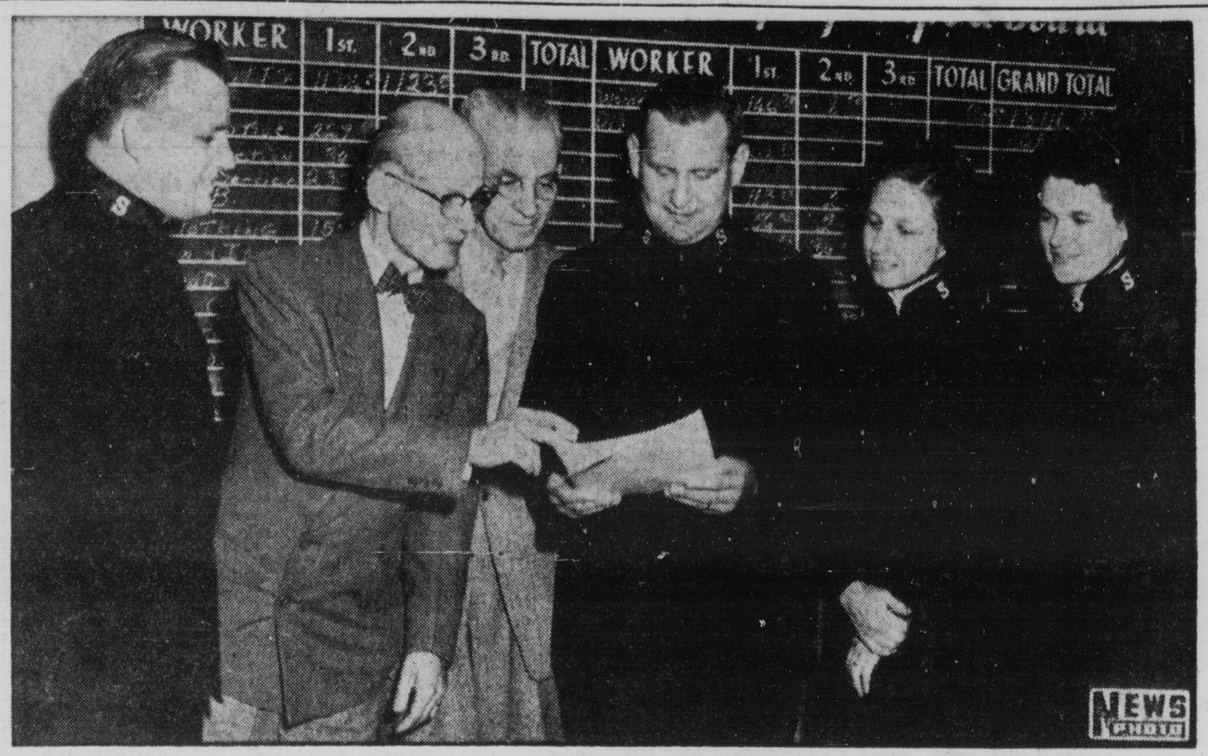

Beall also introduced members of the county delegation to the General Assembly, members of the Board of County Commissioners, the sheriff, and members of the State Central Committee.

The rally was arranged by Trial Magistrate James Blair, Mrs. Blair, and David Williams of the State Central Committee.

Refreshments were served after the speeches, and Dickie Duckworth, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Duckworth of Midland, played a trumpet solo.

Grocers' Dinner Tonight

The annual dinner and entertainment of the Independent Retail Food Dealers Association of Western Maryland will be held tonight at St. Mary's Recreation Hall with some 700 persons expected to attend. Delegations are expected from Hagerstown, Frederick and Baltimore.

Victory Is In Sight

Some of the leaders of the Salvation Army's 1954-55 maintenance appeal are seen last night as they heard reports that the fund drive had reached the $24,377.90 mark, and that the rest of the $25,273 goal will come in within the near future. Discussing the campaign are Lt. Harold May, commander of the South Cumberland Salvation Army Corps; William P. Wendt, who headed the Food and Drug unit; Carl R. Amtower, chairman of Finance and Insurance workers; Capt. and Mrs. Daniel K. Biggs, commanders of the Citadel, and Mrs. Lt. Harold May. Officials said upcoming reports from Advance Gifts, Classified, Women's Division and the Western Maryland and B & O Railroad and the Kelly and Celanese plants should put the drive over the top.

Jewish Board Election Set Tomorrow

Fund Campaign To Be Discussed

The Board of Governors of the Jewish Welfare Fund of Western Maryland, will elect officers tomorrow at 8 p. m. during a meeting in the vestry room of B'er Chayim Temple.

Officers to be named include the president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. Plans for the coming Fall campaign for funds for the United Jewish Appeal and other charitable agencies, will also be made during the meeting.

At a recent meeting the following members were elected to the Board of Governors for a two-year term, Morris Baron, Adolph Hirsch, Mrs. Robert Gerson, Robert Kaplon, George Ossip, Richard Schwab and Moe Sacks.

Other members of the Board, who will serve until the Fall on next year, are Leonard Schwab, Paul Steinberger, Dr. A. C. Eskin, Irwin Pariser, Mrs. Faye Hersch, Max Spear, Frank Kaplon, David Kauffman and Rabbi Joseph Schimmelman, and Rabbi Daniel Lowy, ex-officio with voting powers.

A final accounting report of the fund raising campaign of last year was given by the treasurer. It was decided to continue the cultural programs this year, with the added sponsorship of all the various men's and women's Jewish organizations in Cumberland and a committee was appointed to take charge and make arrangements for these programs.

Meyer To Head Civic Theater

Robert E. Pence, rec director, said Chad Riley was elected vice president; Mrs. Jane Smith, secretary, and William Holt, publicity chairman.

About 18 persons were in attendance at the first fall meeting and named Meyer as director of the first play.

A committee to select the initial play for the season includes Meyer, Mrs. Maxine Drummond and Kenneth Hopwood. The committee expects to have the play chosen prior to the next meeting the first week of November, at which time tryouts will be held.

Barton Bridge To Be Closed For Repairs

Work Will Begin Monday Morning

The Temperance Row Bridge in Barton will be closed for repairs Monday and the work is expected to be completed in several days, according to William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Commissioners.

Cost of the project will be $11,052 and the construction work will be done by the Conn Welding Company of New Castle, Pa.

The contract between the commissioners and the company calls for installation of a new steel deck for the bridge.

The commissioners specified in the contract that the work should be done in such a manner as to cause as little inconvenience as possible to the general public.

A letter has been sent by the commissioners to the Mayor and Council of Barton and the Volunteer Fire Company of that community, to inform them that the project will get under way this Monday.

Meanwhile, volunteer firemen of Barton are providing ample fire protection while the bridge work is being done. Calvin G. Lamberson, fire chief, said yesterday that some of the company's fire fighting equipment will be placed on the opposite side of the span.

Pumping operations in the event of a fire could be done without too much extra work on the part of the volunteers. The company also maintains a portable pump for the fighting of fires.

Approximately 23 families live in the section across the bridge.

PSC Considers C&A Request To Sell Stock

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 19 (AP)—The West Virginia Public Service Commission yesterday took under study a Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Co. petition for permission to sell $900,000 worth of stock to its parent, Columbia Gas System.

The financing move was designed to provide money needed for completion of construction and improvement work scheduled for the remainder of 1954. The sale would involve 36,000 shares of common stock at $25 par value.

Last May 3, The PSC approved the sale of $700,000 in C. & A. notes and stock to Columbia. C. & A. told the commission it would spend $1,604,000 this year for new pipelines and other gas delivery facilities.

A construction budget presented today by C. B. Heist, the company's senior gas engineer, showed that C. & A. is spending $602,000 in 1954 to increase its gas supply and drill new wells in Maryland and West Virginia.

Transmission expenditures of $228,000 will include a $115,000 pipeline now under construction to move larger volumes of gas from the company's main transmission line near Hedgesville, W. Va., to Buckhannon.

An amount totaling $45,000 for new and larger lines in Elkins and Beverly to improve winter gas service.

Also testifying Monday was K. M. Redinger, the company's assistant treasurer.

C. & A. has 20,000 customers in Maryland and 16,000 in West Virginia.

Allegany County 4-H Clubs Hear Conservation Talks

Members of the 4-H Clubs of Allegany County are getting some first-hand information on conservation practices in a series of programs under the direction of members of the Soil Conservation office here.

Already a number of the clubs throughout the county have met with the conservation officials. Last night Martin Gordon, conservation aide for Allegany County, was at Pumpkin Center, where he discussed his work and the benefits of conservation measures.

Tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. members of the Oldtown Senior 4-H Club will meet at the Sportsmen's Club in that community.

Other meetings on the schedule include: Eckhart School, 1:15 p. m. Friday; Flintstone Senior Club, 7:30 p. m. Friday at the home of Mrs. J. S. Roland; October 26, Rawlings and October 27, North Branch.

A meeting in the near future is also planned at Spring Gap. Clubs which already have been visited include LaVale, Baltimore Pike, Winchester Road, and Union Grove. A meeting at McCoole, slated for today has been postponed until November 4, Gordon pointed out.

The meetings, which are annual affairs, this year were arranged in cooperation with assistant County Agent James Weamert. Lecturing at some of the meetings was Kenneth Stone, work unit conservationist.

Ministers Open Fall And Winter Meeting Series

Cumberland Ministerial Association began its new fiscal year Monday with a meeting at Central YMCA, when reports were given and committee memberships were announced.

Association members voted to hold regular meetings on the third Monday of each month at 10 a. m. instead of 10:30 a. m. as in past years. All clergymen of the Cumberland area are invited to take part in these association discussions.

President this year is Rev. Kenneth W. Grove. Vice president is Rev. Frederick J. Eckert. Winfield H. Adams is secretary-treasurer, and Rev. Arthur Scrogum and Rev. C. Lloyd Voll are members of the executive committee.

The library committee of which Rev. Crates S. Johnson is chairman reported that approximately 50 religious books have been given to the Cumberland Free Public Library. Some of these have been donated by individual association members while others have been bought and paid for by the association.

The publicity committee, through Rev. Scrogum, announced that a folder has been printed which bears the names and locations of all churches in the city, together with times of worship. These are to be distributed in such a manner that newcomers and visitors to the city will have at hand information about their own denominations.

Among committees listed by the association are:

Program and devotions—J. Frederick Eckert; chairman; Maurice Robertson, Carl Johnson and H. M. Richardson; sermonette — J. H. Snyder and Winfield Adam; brotherhood—Rabbi Joseph Schimmelman, George Bell, Adam Grim, and Karl Crowe.

Library—C. S. Johnson, Howard Amoss, Paul Brunner and Raymond Crowe; hospital—Carl Clapp; membership — Edgar Hammersla; sunshine service, J. H. Snyder, chairman; H .E. Heckert, Randolph Keefe; Louis Chastain.

Family relations—Rabbi Daniel Lowy, Rev. Grove and H. W. Peters; radio committee — John Bayley Jones, chairman; Raymond Faulds and J. F. Zimmerman; Civil Defense — Rabbi Schimmelman, Rev. Faulds and Rev. Patterson.

The Weather

The air was brisk yesterday as the weatherman gave an indication of the winter season ahead. Topcoats came out again, and the official high yesterday was 55 degrees, the low a chilly 36 degrees. At 7:30 p. m. the mercury stood at 42, and humidity at 6 p. m. was 54 per cent. The forecast for today is sunny and cool.

Optimists Meet Today At Central YMCA

Tax Collections By City Pass Halfway Mark

City tax officials reported yesterday that more than half of the 1954-55 tax levy has been collected, and issued a reminder that Monday at midnight is the deadline for interest-free payment of statements.

This, according to City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson, is 50½ per cent of the $1,011,240 tax levy.

He said the collections are running just about on schedule, citing that collections on last October 20 totaled $507,000, or 51.5 per cent of a $984,900 tax levy.

Davis is preparing for heavy collections during the next few days, since Monday is the last day on which taxes may be paid without interest.

Actually October 24 is the statutory deadline, but the time will be extended since the date falls on Sunday.

Any payments made beginning Tuesday will bear one per cent interest, since the payment of interest, at the rate of one-half per cent a month, dates back to August 24, the day the levy was set.

Included is $52,400,000 of assessable real estate, $17,700,000 on personal property of industries and corporations, and $3,300,000 of personal property held by individuals.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. William D. O'Neill, Baltimore, former residents, announce the birth of a son Friday. The mother is the former Miss Margaret Leasure.

Sacred Heart Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Likens, 26 Douglas Avenue, Lonaconing, a daughter yesterday.

Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Headley Jr., 221 Springdale Street, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Ghost, 621 Greene Street, a daughter Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Blair W. Hose, Moorefield, a daughter Monday.

Oscars Are Presented

William R. Carscaden, general chairman of the 1954-55 Community Chest fund drive, presents Oscars to Mrs. George N. Phillippi, Mrs. Charles R. Burkey and Mrs. W. Russell Pancake, of the Residential Division, for having met or exceeded the goals set for their teams. Carscaden announced that the campaign is at the $84,597.05 mark, and urged all workers to redouble their efforts so victory can be reached at a report meeting Friday.

Gas Pressures In Eckhart Area Will Be Boosted

$15,500 Line Project To Aid 500 Families

Cold weather gas pressures in Eckhart will be improved this winter and new service will be extended an outlying residential area there with the completion of two pipeline projects this month.

One of the lines—1,600 feet of six and eight inch pipe—will help bolster pressures to some 500 families in the community. It replaces a smaller main which moves gas through the center of town, according to C. C. Robbins, district manager of the C&A Gas Company.

That line also will move gas into a feeder which connects with the other job—an extension along Pine Ridge Road. Twenty-one families on that road will be served by some 2,100 feet of 4-inch line now under construction. Total costs of the two projects is $15,500.

Lines Are Replaced

Gas is delivered into Eckhart from a supply line from Frostburg. It is then moved into neighborhood feeders from the main line on Hill Street. That line runs south on Hill to Texas Road, then east to Main Street, south on Main to old U.S. Route 40 and west on that road. About 1,600 feet of that line is being replaced.

Robbins said Cumberland and Allegheny receives much of its gas supply for the Frostburg area from Manufacturers Light and Heat Company at the Pennsylvania-Maryland border. He added: "We have needed more gas in Frostburg and Eckhart in recent winters to help meet increased requirements, but were unable to bring it down into this area until the supply line was enlarged. Most of that northern feed—from the state line to Mt. Savage and on down to Frostburg—has been replaced and enlarged over the past four years."

Cost Over $100,000

The line replacements cost over $100,000—part of some $14,600,000 the gas company has spent since 1945 to build up gas supplies and improve deliveries.

The area is further protected by a 6-inch supply line which comes into the southern end of Frostburg. That line takes gas from the company's main transmission line at Piedmont and pipes it north to Westernport, Lonaconing and then into Frostburg.

The two Eckhart projects will be completed the latter part of the month. They are part of some $1,600,000 the gas company is spending this year to improve service to its customers.

Driver Killed As Vehicle Hits Gasoline Truck

A 20-year-old Tucker County (W. Va.) truck driver was killed instantly early yesterday afternoon when the vehicle he was driving struck a gasoline truck at the intersection of West Virginia Route 72 and the St. George Road, six miles north of Parsons.

The victim was identified as Aaron David Loughry of RFD 3, St. George.

Judson Hudson, 38, of Elkins, driver of the gasoline truck, posted $500 bond for his appearance before the December grand jury on a charge of negligent homicide.

West Virginia State Police Trooper James Rightmire of Thomas said a 1954 flatbed truck being driven south on Route 72 by Loughry struck the half-filled gasoline truck as it pulled onto the state highway from the side road at 12:05 p. m.

Loughry was thrown to the highway and his truck piled up in a nearby field. The gasoline truck was pushed into a ditch, but the cargo did not ignite. Loughry died instantly of head injuries.

Justice of the Peace Stark L. Coberly of Parsons set bond for Hudson after the driver had waived a preliminary hearing.

The accident was the second fatality to occur in Tucker County within a month. On September 22 Ralph Helmick of Hendricks was killed when he jumped from a truck as it upset.

Mr. Loughry was born October 14, 1934 at Manheim, Preston County, W. Va., a son of Elmer and Nellie (Wiles) Loughry. Surviving, besides his parents, are three brothers, MR-3 Claudis Loughry, USN, aboard the USS Grand Canyon, Cpl. Raymond Loughry, with the Army in Germany, and Fred Loughry, at home; a sister, Ruth, at home, and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Flora Loughry of St. George.

He was a 1954 graduate of Parsons High School, where he had been a four-year member of the Future Farmers of America.

The body was taken by the Parsons Volunteer Fire Department ambulance to the Greenlief Funeral Home in Parsons, where it will remain until funeral arrangements have been completed.

Farm Bureau To Meet

A meeting of the Farm Bureau of Allegany County will be held tomorrow at 8 p. m. in the office of County Agent, Joseph M. Steger in the Court House.

Chest Campaign To Be Extended Until Tuesday

Pledges At $84,597 Mark Despite Storm

Leaders of the Cumberland Community Chest yesterday extended the campaign to raise $100,999.23 until next Tuesday night after reports showed receipts of $84,597.05, or 83.8 per cent of the goal for the Red Feather drive.

William R. Carscaden, general chairman, said the additional time will be needed to allow the completion of solicitation, especially among industries which were hard hit by Hurricane Hazel.

Yesterday's reports were presented at a joint meeting with the Cumberland Rotary Club in Central YMCA.

Goals Are Near

The Advance Gifts Division reported pledges and gifts totaling $51,166, or 91.3 per cent of its $56,000 goal.

The Classified Division noted a total of $25,570, or 84.8 per cent of its $34,000 objective.

Sales Army leaders reported solicitations totaling $42,084, or 72 per cent of a $6,000 goal.

Residential Division workers reported total collections of $3,506, or 71 per cent of their $5,000 objective.

Carscaden announced that the victory meeting of the drive will be held Tuesday at 6:15 p. m. in Central YMCA and urged all workers to complete their calls, since the campaign cannot be continued after that date.

Emergency meetings were called today by the three major units of the campaign to bring a swift windup of the solicitation.

To Plan Strategy

The Advance Gifts Division will meet at 12:30 p. m. in the Fort Cumberland Hotel, Residential workers at 2:15 p. m. at the campaign office, and the Sales Army staff has scheduled a breakfast today at 7:45 a. m.

Robert E. Barnard Jr., Classified chairman, said reports from industries are late, chiefly as a result of damage from the storm, but that all industries are doing a good job and that all reports are encouraging.

He urged that the drives in industries be speeded up as much as possible, so full reports may be presented at the final report meeting Friday at 12:15 p.m. in Central YMCA.

F. Perry Smith, Rotary president, welcomed the Chest delegation. Entertainment was provided by the Allegany Dixiecats.

Goals Are Met

Cobey, Carscaden and Gilchrist, American Dental Laboratory, Typewriter Sales and Service, Edwin M. Horchler office, Green's Fur Shop, Associated Charities, Cadillac Cocktail Lounge, Habeeb Flower Shop.

Himmler Market, Stacey's Food Market, The Hub, May's Costume Hat Shop, E. Baldwin Buchanan, Grace Baptist Church, Charles E. Brode, Russler-Chadwick, William J. Conway.

Cited by Barnard, classified chairman, for meeting their goals were:

Archdeacon To Speak Here

Venerable Albert Lucas, archdeacon of the Episcopal Diocese of Maryland, will discuss the parish survey at a meeting of the congregation of Emmanuel Episcopal Church at 7:30 this evening.

The survey was conducted a year ago in every parish in the diocese to determine needs. Future opportunities also have been charted in the survey.

Refreshments will be provided after the meeting by the Men of Emmanuel.

Man Arrested Here For False Pretense

Joseph A. Naples, of New Castle, Pa., was arrested by City Police yesterday evening and is being held for action of the State's Attorneys office on a state warrant.

Naples, who has aliases of Tony King and Jack Monroe, according to the warrant, allegedly obtained through false pretenses an accordion valued at $250, from Melvin Stewart, who operates the Stewart Music House. Arresting officer was City Police Detective James E. Van.

County GOP Club Plans Rally Here

Top hands from the GOP speakers bureau will speak on behalf of Republican candidates at a meeting of the Young Republican Club of Allegany County here Thursday night.

The rally will be held at 8 p. m. in GOP headquarters in the Fort Cumberland Hotel, with Mrs. Elaine Palmer, president, presiding.

J. Glenn Beall Jr. will speak on behalf of the candidacy of Governor Theodore R. McKeldin and for Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde, candidate for re-election to Congress.

Donald W. Mason will deliver an address on Edward D. E. Rollins, Gov. McKeldin's running mate for attorney general.

James S. Getty, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany County, will speak for GOP candidates for state's attorney, the County Delegation to the General Assembly, county commissioners and sheriff.

Street Workers Speed Clean-Up Of Storm Debris

Catch Basin Work To Take Six Weeks

City Street Department crews have completed the surface clean-up in the wake of Hurricane Hazel, but William H. Buchholtz, commissioner of streets and public property, said it will take up to six more weeks to empty storm debris from catch basins.

Work done so far includes pumping out 54 flooded cellars, the removal of several large trees and up to a dozen loads of limbs blown down as high winds hit, and the scrubbing of nine streets.

Crews were also put at work at once cleaning catch basins which drain subways in the city.

Street Superintendent Andrew Heller said men are now busy emptying storm debris from the some 1,200 catch basins which protect the city's storm sewer system.

He said most of the basins can be emptied fairly quickly with the city's mechanical catch basin cleaner.

More time is needed for the other 300 older catch basins, which must be cleaned by hand, since the openings are too small to admit the clam-shell buckets which are part of the mechanical cleaner.

Manslaughter Trial Today

Donald Lee Festerman, 20, of RFD 2, Frostburg, will be tried this morning in Allegany County Circuit Court on a manslaughter charge resulting from the death of a Moscow coal miner on September 12.

The trial will begin at 9:15 a. m. and Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris will preside. Charles Junior Beeman, 52, of Moscow, was killed instantly when struck by a car early Sunday morning, September 12.

The accident occurred as the miner was walking across State Route 36 at Pekin. Festerman, according to the indictment placed on the open docket, was the driver of the vehicle and was "grossly negligent" in the operation of the car, resulting in Beeman's death.

Festerman was released from Allegany County Jail on $1,000 bond pending the court trial.

Parole Stricken Out

Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason yesterday struck out a parole granted last Friday to William "Buck" Brant, no address, and sentenced the man to one year in the House of Correction as a habitual drunkard.

Brant was paroled on the charge last week after he had been convicted of drunkenness five times since August 7.

Kimble Answers Demo Charges On Tax Rate

Says Biggest Debt Is Lane Holdover

State Senator Robert B. Kimble last night replied to Democratic charges that he had made misleading statements on the Maryland tax rate, and quoted a batch of figures tending to show that nearly 70 per cent the state's 1955 indebtedness was incurred under Democratic administrations.

Speaking before 200 persons attending a standing-room-only Republican rally in Midland the Allegany County senator recalled that he had been taken to task publicly last week by "a very prominent and influential citizen" because he had said the present State Administration had provided for a 15 per cent reduction for two separate years, and because he had said the real estate tax was the lowest in Maryland history.

Kimble said his critic had chided him for having voted for a bill last February which raised the 1955 tax rate from 5.67 cents per $100 to 10.39 cents.

Democratic Leftover

"However," said Kimble, "you are entitled to know why my colleagues in the House and I voted to raise the state real estate tax.

"The reason is simply this: when the state passes a state bond act and issue state bonds it must be paid just like any other indebtedness."

Commenting that the Democratic majority in the Legislature also voted for the bill, Kimble pointed out that Gov. McKeldin's budget provided $6,634,890 for payments on principal and interest due in 1955.

"But 8.9 per cent of this amount was incurred in the administration of former Governor Herbert R. O'Connor, 69.1 per cent was by former Governor William Preston Lane Jr., and 22 per cent by Governor McKeldin.

Sen. Kimble then pointed out that .89 cents of the 1955 tax rate is a holdover from the O'Connor administration, 6.06 cents from the Lane administration, and only 3.44 cents from the present administration.

Replies To Critics

Kimble also had some words for critics who he said have charged that his position as a railroad safety engineer has interferred with his work as a legislator.

"As evidence of my fairness and interest in behalf of all classes of business, professions and industry," Kimble declared, "I have letters of commendation from farm organizations, school authorities, teachers, and professional groups."

Kimble cited as an example a letter from Thomas E. Wilderman, general manager of the Maryland Motor Truck Association, citing him for his service "to the people of your county and your state."

James S. Getty, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany County, was toastmaster at the rally in Red Men's Hall.

J. Glenn Beall Jr. of Frostburg, president of the Federation of Young Republicans of Maryland, spoke on behalf of the whole Republican ticket, and criticized Harry C. Byrd, Democratic nominee for governor for "frequent retractions."

GOP Officials Attend

Beall also introduced members of the county delegation to the General Assembly, members of the Board of County Commissioners, the sheriff, and members of the State Central Committee.

The rally was arranged by Trial Magistrate James Blair, Mrs. Blair, and David Williams of the State Central Committee.

Refreshments were served after the speeches, and Dickie Duckworth, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Duckworth of Midland, played a trumpet solo.

Grocers' Dinner Tonight

The annual dinner and entertainment of the Independent Retail Food Dealers Association of Western Maryland will be held tonight at St. Mary's Recreation Hall with some 700 persons expected to attend. Delegations are expected from Hagerstown, Frederick and Baltimore.

Victory Is In Sight

Some of the leaders of the Salvation Army's 1954-55 maintenance appeal are seen last night as they heard reports that the fund drive had reached the $24,377.90 mark, and that the rest of the $25,273 goal will come in within the near future. Discussing the campaign are Lt. Harold May, commander of the South Cumberland Salvation Army Corps; William P. Wendt, who headed the Food and Drug unit; Carl R. Amtower, chairman of Finance and Insurance workers; Capt. and Mrs. Daniel K. Biggs, commanders of the Citadel, and Mrs. Lt. Harold May. Officials said upcoming reports from Advance Gifts, Classified, Women's Division and the Western Maryland and B & O Railroad and the Kelly and Celanese plants should put the drive over the top.

Jewish Board Election Set Tomorrow

Fund Campaign To Be Discussed

The Board of Governors of the Jewish Welfare Fund of Western Maryland, will elect officers tomorrow at 8 p. m. during a meeting in the vestry room of B'er Chayim Temple.

Officers to be named include the president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. Plans for the coming Fall campaign for funds for the United Jewish Appeal and other charitable agencies, will also be made during the meeting.

At a recent meeting the following members were elected to the Board of Governors for a two-year term, Morris Baron, Adolph Hirsch, Mrs. Robert Gerson, Robert Kaplon, George Ossip, Richard Schwab and Moe Sacks.

Other members of the Board, who will serve until the Fall on next year, are Leonard Schwab, Paul Steinberger, Dr. A. C. Eskin, Irwin Pariser, Mrs. Faye Hersch, Max Spear, Frank Kaplon, David Kauffman and Rabbi Joseph Schimmelman, and Rabbi Daniel Lowy, ex-officio with voting powers.

A final accounting report of the fund raising campaign of last year was given by the treasurer. It was decided to continue the cultural programs this year, with the added sponsorship of all the various men's and women's Jewish organizations in Cumberland and a committee was appointed to take charge and make arrangements for these programs.

Meyer To Head Civic Theater

Robert E. Pence, rec director, said Chad Riley was elected vice president; Mrs. Jane Smith, secretary, and William Holt, publicity chairman.

About 18 persons were in attendance at the first fall meeting and named Meyer as director of the first play.

A committee to select the initial play for the season includes Meyer, Mrs. Maxine Drummond and Kenneth Hopwood. The committee expects to have the play chosen prior to the next meeting the first week of November, at which time tryouts will be held.

Barton Bridge To Be Closed For Repairs

Work Will Begin Monday Morning

The Temperance Row Bridge in Barton will be closed for repairs Monday and the work is expected to be completed in several days, according to William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Commissioners.

Cost of the project will be $11,052 and the construction work will be done by the Conn Welding Company of New Castle, Pa.

The contract between the commissioners and the company calls for installation of a new steel deck for the bridge.

The commissioners specified in the contract that the work should be done in such a manner as to cause as little inconvenience as possible to the general public.

A letter has been sent by the commissioners to the Mayor and Council of Barton and the Volunteer Fire Company of that community, to inform them that the project will get under way this Monday.

Meanwhile, volunteer firemen of Barton are providing ample fire protection while the bridge work is being done. Calvin G. Lamberson, fire chief, said yesterday that some of the company's fire fighting equipment will be placed on the opposite side of the span.

Pumping operations in the event of a fire could be done without too much extra work on the part of the volunteers. The company also maintains a portable pump for the fighting of fires.

Approximately 23 families live in the section across the bridge.

PSC Considers C&A Request To Sell Stock

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 19 (AP)—The West Virginia Public Service Commission yesterday took under study a Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Co. petition for permission to sell $900,000 worth of stock to its parent, Columbia Gas System.

The financing move was designed to provide money needed for completion of construction and improvement work scheduled for the remainder of 1954. The sale would involve 36,000 shares of common stock at $25 par value.

Last May 3, The PSC approved the sale of $700,000 in C. & A. notes and stock to Columbia. C. & A. told the commission it would spend $1,604,000 this year for new pipelines and other gas delivery facilities.

A construction budget presented today by C. B. Heist, the company's senior gas engineer, showed that C. & A. is spending $602,000 in 1954 to increase its gas supply and drill new wells in Maryland and West Virginia.

Transmission expenditures of $228,000 will include a $115,000 pipeline now under construction to move larger volumes of gas from the company's main transmission line near Hedgesville, W. Va., to Buckhannon.

Other expenditures include:

A sum of $320,000 to replace sections of its gas delivery system lines in communities throughout its territory.

An amount totaling $45,000 for new and larger lines in Elkins and Beverly to improve winter gas service.

Also testifying Monday was K. M. Redinger, the company's assistant treasurer.

C. & A. has 20,000 customers in Maryland and 16,000 in West Virginia.

Allegany County 4-H Clubs Hear Conservation Talks

Members of the 4-H Clubs of Allegany County are getting some first-hand information on conservation practices in a series of programs under the direction of members of the Soil Conservation office here.

Already a number of the clubs throughout the county have met with the conservation officials. Last night Martin Gordon, conservation aide for Allegany County, was at Pumpkin Center, where he discussed his work and the benefits of conservation measures.

During the meetings, charts are used as well as color slides and a short film on conservation practices.

Tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. members of the Oldtown Senior 4-H Club will meet at the Sportsmen's Club in that community.

Other meetings on the schedule include: Eckhart School, 1:15 p. m. Friday; Flintstone Senior Club, 7:30 p. m. Friday at the home of Mrs. J. S. Roland; October 26, Rawlings and October 27, North Branch.

A meeting in the near future is also planned at Spring Gap. Clubs which already have been visited include LaVale, Baltimore Pike, Winchester Road, and Union Grove. A meeting at McCoole, slated for today has been postponed until November 4, Gordon pointed out.

The meetings, which are annual affairs, this year were arranged in cooperation with assistant County Agent James Wearneri. Lecturing at some of the meetings was Kenneth Stone, work unit conservationist.

Ministers Open Fall And Winter Meeting Series

Cumberland Ministerial Association began its new fiscal year Monday with a meeting at Central YMCA, when reports were given and committee memberships were announced.

Association members voted to hold regular meetings on the third Monday of each month at 10 a. m. instead of 10:30 a. m. as in past years. All clergymen of the Cumberland area are invited to take part in these association discussions.

President this year is Rev. Kenneth W. Grove. Vice president is Rev. Frederick J. Eckert. Winfield H. Adams is secretary-treasurer, and Rev. Arthur Scrogum and Rev. C. Lloyd Voll are members of the executive committee.

The library committee of which Rev. Crates S. Johnson is chairman reported that approximately 50 religious books have been given to the Cumberland Free Public Library. Some of these have been donated by individual association members while others have been bought and paid for by the association.

The publicity committee, through Rev. Scrogum, announced that a folder has been printed which bears the names and locations of all churches in the city, together with times of worship. These are to be distributed in such a manner that newcomers and visitors to the city will have at hand information about their own denominations.

Among committees listed by the association are:

Library—C. S. Johnson, Howard Amoss, Paul Brunner and Raymond Crowe; hospital—Carl Clapp; membership — Edgar Hammersla; sunshine service, J. H. Snyder, chairman; H .E. Heckert, Randolph Keefe; Louis Chastain.

Family relations—Rabbi Daniel Lowy, Rev. Grove and H. W. Peters; radio committee — John Bayley Jones, chairman; Raymond Faulds and J. F. Zimmerman; Civil Defense — Rabbi Schimmelman, Rev. Faulds and Rev. Patterson.

The Weather

The air was brisk yesterday as the weatherman gave an indication of the winter season ahead. Topcoats came out again, and the official high yesterday was 55 degrees, the low a chilly 36 degrees. At 7:30 p. m. the mercury stood at 42, and humidity at 6 p. m. was 54 per cent. The forecast for today is sunny and cool.

Optimists Meet Today At Central YMCA

Earl Nonnenmann, president of the Cumberland Optimist Club, will preside at a club business meeting and "What's Good for Cumberland Optimists' Rally" at the weekly dinner-meeting today at 6:15 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Gas Pressures In Eckhart Area Will Be Boosted

$15,500 Line Project To Aid 500 Families

Cold weather gas pressures in Eckhart will be improved this winter and new service will be extended an outlying residential area there with the completion of two pipeline projects this month.

One of the lines—1,600 feet of six and eight inch pipe—will help bolster pressures to some 500 families in the community. It replaces a smaller main which moves gas through the center of town, according to C. C. Robbins, district manager of the C&A Gas Company.

That line also will move gas into a feeder which connects with the other job—an extension along Pine Ridge Road. Twenty-one families on that road will be served by some 2,100 feet of 4-inch line now under construction. Total costs of the two projects is $15,500.

Lines Are Replaced

Gas is delivered into Eckhart from a supply line from Frostburg. It is then moved into neighborhood feeders from the main line on Hill Street. That line runs south on Hill to Texas Road, then east to Main Street, south on Main to old U.S. Route 40 and west on that road. About 1,600 feet of that line is being replaced.

Robbins said Cumberland and Allegheny receives much of its gas supply for the Frostburg area from Manufacturers Light and Heat Company at the Pennsylvania-Maryland border. He added:

"We have needed more gas in Frostburg and Eckhart in recent winters to help meet increased requirements, but were unable to bring it down into this area until the supply line was enlarged. Most of that northern feed—from the state line to Mt. Savage and on down to Frostburg—has been replaced and enlarged over the past four years."

Cost Over $100,000

The line replacements cost over $100,000—part of some $14,600,000 the gas company has spent since 1945 to build up gas supplies and improve deliveries.

The area is further protected by a 6-inch supply line which comes into the southern end of Frostburg. That line takes gas from the company's main transmission line at Piedmont and pipes it north to Westernport, Lonaconing and then into Frostburg.

The two Eckhart projects will be completed the latter part of the month. They are part of some $1,600,000 the gas company is spending this year to improve service to its customers.

Driver Killed As Vehicle Hits Gasoline Truck

A 20-year-old Tucker County (W. Va.) truck driver was killed instantly early yesterday afternoon when the vehicle he was driving struck a gasoline truck at the intersection of West Virginia Route 72 and the St. George Road, six miles north of Parsons.

The victim was identified as Aaron David Loughry of RFD 3, St. George.

Judson Hudson, 38, of Elkins, driver of the gasoline truck, posted $500 bond for his appearance before the December grand jury on a charge of negligent homicide.

West Virginia State Police Trooper James Rightmire of Thomas said a 1954 flatbed truck being driven south on Route 72 by Loughry struck the half-filled gasoline truck as it pulled onto the state highway from the side road at 12:05 p. m.

Loughry was thrown to the highway and his truck piled up in a nearby field. The gasoline truck was pushed into a ditch, but the cargo did not ignite. Loughry died instantly of head injuries.

Justice of the Peace Stark L. Coberly of Parsons set bond for Hudson after the driver had waived a preliminary hearing

The accident was the second fatality to occur in Tucker County within a month. On September 22 Ralph Helmick of Hendricks was killed when he jumped from a truck as it upset.

Mr. Loughry was born October 14, 1934 at Manheim, Preston County, W. Va., a son of Elmer and Nellie (Wiles) Loughry. Surviving, besides his parents, are three brothers, MR-3 Claudis Loughry, USN, aboard the USS Grand Canyon, Cpl. Raymond Loughry, with the Army in Germany, and Fred Loughry, at home; a sister, Ruth, at home, and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Flora Loughry of St. George.

He was a 1954 graduate of Parsons High School, where he had been a four-year member of the Future Farmers of America.

The body was taken by the Parsons Volunteer Fire Department ambulance to the Greenlief Funeral Home in Parsons, where it will remain until funeral arrangements have been completed.

Tax Collections By City Pass Halfway Mark

City tax officials reported yesterday that more than half of the 1954-55 tax levy has been collected, and issued a reminder that Monday at midnight is the deadline for interest-free payment of statements.

George E. Davis, city collector, reported yesterday at 5 p. m. that receipts from current tax bills total $511,043.19.

This, according to City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson, is 50½ per cent of the $1,011,240 tax levy.

He said the collections are running just about on schedule, citing that collections on last October 20 totaled $507,000, or 51.5 per cent of a $984,900 tax levy.

Davis is preparing for heavy collections during the next few days, since Monday is the last day on which taxes may be paid without interest.

Actually October 24 is the statutory deadline, but the time will be extended since the date falls on Sunday.

Any payments made beginning Tuesday will bear one per cent interest, since the payment of interest, at the rate of one-half per cent a month, dates back to August 24, the day the levy was set.

The tax levy is based on a rate of $1.36 which is levied on $73,400,000 of assessments, plus $13,000 from a tax on bank stock.

Included is $52,400,000 of assessable real estate, $17,700,000 on personal property of industries and corporations, and $3,300,000 of personal property held by individuals.

Mr. and Mrs. Blair W. Hose, Moorefield, a daughter Monday.

Farm Bureau To Meet

A meeting of the Farm Bureau of Allegany County will be held tomorrow at 8 p. m. in the office of County Agent, Joseph M. Steger in the Court House.

Oscars Are Presented

William R. Carscaden, general chairman of the 1954-55 Community Chest fund drive, presents Oscars to Mrs. George N. Phillippi, Mrs. Charles R. Burkey and Mrs. W. Russell Pancake, of the Residential Division, for having met or exceeded the goals set for their teams. Carscaden announced that the campaign is at the $84,597.05 mark, and urged all workers to redouble their efforts so victory can be reached at a report meeting Friday.
